Why Baker lost out as Veep nominee?

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A Nashville attorney says Sen. Howard Baker topped the list of President Ford's potential running mates until "one of the best-timed cheap shots in history" knocked him out of the running hours before the final selection was made.

Lamar Alexander, a former White House aide and one-time member of Baker's staff, told the Nashville Banner that Baker probably lost the Republican vice-presidential nomination because of a story about his wife published by columnist Jack Anderson last Thursday.

The Banner quoted Alexander on Saturday as saying that Baker's wife, Joy, was involved in a minor traffic accident in Washington on Aug. 12 and that Anderson's column quoted the driver of the other car as saying the Tennessee senator's wife had been drinking.

The column came just one day after it was disclosed that Mrs. Baker, 47, had been hospitalized in 1971 for treatment of a drinking problem.

Alexander, congressional liaison aide in the White House during the first administration of former President Richard Nixon, said Baker's staff denied that Mrs. Baker had been drinking before the accident.

He said Baker press secretary Ron McMahan produced affidavits Thursday afternoon from investigating officers and statements from witnesses which showed no evidence of drinking by Mrs. Baker.

Alexander was also quoted as saying that Anderson telephoned Baker in Kansas City and said he realized that some of the information in his column about Mrs. Baker may not have been accurate.

"He asked the senator if he would like for him to get in touch with someone from the White House, but Baker declined the offer," Alexander was quoted as saying.

Alexander, who was in Kansas City for the GOP National Convention, told the Banner he understood that Baker was first on Ford's list of running mates as late as 6 a.m. Thursday and as late as 9 a.m. that day the eventual nominee, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, was quoted as saying he expected Baker to be chosen.

At about 11 a.m., Ford selected Dole.

Anderson could not be immediately reached for comment on Alexander's statements.

A Ford administration source said Saturday night that neither Mrs. Baker's past drinking problem nor Anderson's account of the traffic accident played a part in determining the choice of the President's running mate.

In Kansas City on Thursday, as the Bakers prepared to return home, Mrs. Baker said she was not upset about disclosure of her drinking problem.

"It's no secret," she said. "I'm glad it's out in the open."

Baker, commenting on his loss of the nomination to Dole, said "We had word from the President's staff today that this was not a factor in determining the nominee."

He said he had given information about his wife to the President's staff, and the story was leaked from the White House.

After losing out on the nomination, Baker said, "That's part of the price of the game ... It's not too big a price to pay ... Without trying to sound selfrighteous, this country exacts a big price from its public officials. This is just one of the prices you have to pay."

He added that his wife, "is taking it well."

Bus drivers, RTD still apart on contract

Transit strike tonight, unless . . .

DEATH BUS A West German bus is pulled from the Danube River Saturday near the lower Austrian village of Aggsbach-Dorf after a car sideswiped the tourist-filled vehicle causing it to plunge into the river. The accident resulted in the death of 11 persons and injury to 41, all West German tourists returning from a week in Vienna, according to police.

Talks continuing; deadline 12:01 a.m.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California Rapid Transit District management and bus drivers were reported $5 million apart after an eleventh-hour negotiating session Saturday afternoon.

Negotiators for both sides said around-the-clock talks would continue in the hope of reaching an agreement before a strike deadline set by the drivers for 12:01 a.m. Monday.

"We're approximately 4 to 5 per cent apart over a three-year period. Perhaps that sounds like small difference, but it represents a significant amount of dollars," said SCRTD General manager Jack Gilstrap said at a special SCRTD board meeting.

He explained the 5 per cent difference in a three-year contract translated into a sum of $5 million.

A strike could force 750,000 commuters to seek other transportation.

The union was to make a counterproposal to an offer by the district.

"In spite of the drivers' ultimatum, we still feel that between now and 12:01 Monday morning, assuming the demonstrated good faith on the part of both parties, a settlement of the dispute short of a work stoppage can be achieved," said Walt Thompson, RTD spokesman.

Mayor Tom Bradley, who offered his services at the special meeting to help both sides reach a "reasonable settlement," told SCRTD board members: "I share your concern that we somehow avoid a strike like we had in 1974."

SCRTD bus drivers ended a 68-day strike in 1974, after voting to accept a two-year contract with a 24 per cent increase, which gave the bus drivers an average hourly wage of $6.67.

A governor's fact finding commission recommended two weeks ago that drivers pay be boosted four per cent the first year and three per cent each following year.

The union said its proposal would add about three per cent to management's first-year offer, half a per cent the next and one per cent the third year.

SCRTD chief negotiator John Wilkens told the board the bus drivers had been offered a three-year contract with a 12.2 per cent increase, including cost-of-living raises.

The transit district's offer to SCRTD mechanics, who have not announced any strike plans yet, was for a three-year contract with a 12 per cent hike including a cost-of-living raise.

SCRTD board president Byron Cook said, after a board executive session late Saturday afternoon, the talks were at "an extremely sensitive stage and it would not be appropriate to comment further.

Carter due in L.A. today

By The Associated Press

Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter mapped out his campaign schedule Saturday while President Ford kept close tabs on the tense situation in Korea and rested after a strenuous five days at the GOP National Convention in Kansas City.

Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, Ford's running mate, spent the day working in Washington. And Democratic vice-presidential nominee Sen. Walter Mondale relaxed at a lake retreat in northern Minnesota.

Asked when he expected to start extensive planning for the fall campaign against Carter, Ford said, "we'll start Sunday or Monday."

Nessen said Dole and other campaign strategists will arrive at Vail on Tuesday or Wednesday for campaign discussions. Campaign Manager Rogers Morton already is in Vail.

High on the agenda will be the proposed series of head-to-head debates between Ford and Carter, favored by both candidates.

Carter, meanwhile, announced his already prepared campaign schedule.

The Democratic nominee plans to kick off his campaign in Georgia but then will turn his attention to California, the industrial Midwest and the Northeast, press secretary Jody Powell said.

Carter begins a three-day trip today to the West Coast and midwest, during which he has said he will outline his basic campaign themes.

Carter intends to attend a couple of fundraising events Sunday in Los Angeles, including a reception hosted by actor Warren Beatty.

Pomona man found dead at home

A 33-year-old Pomona man was found dead in his home Saturday by police officers.

The victim was identified as Phillip G. Crow, 684 Tangier Place. His body was turned over to the Los Angeles County Coroner's office for an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Officers had gone to the home after being notified by the victim's brother that he had not been seen in several days.

Paper reports:

Can't win —Connally; rejects post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally declined a request by President Ford to become chairman of the Republican National Committee because he believes it is too late to mount a winning campaign against Jimmy Carter, Sunday's Dallas Times Herald reported.

The newspaper said that Connally, according to persons who worked closely with him during the Republican National Convention, thinks Ford has no chance to beat Carter, the Democratic nominee, in November and didn't want to be blamed for the loss.

Thousands flee fires in drought-ridden France and Britain

By The Associated Press

Fires raged through acres of forests in bone-dry Britain and France Saturday, forcing thousands of vacationers to flee for their lives. Weathermen foresaw no relief from Western Europe's longest drought in memory.

The 15-month dry spell has drained reservoirs and parched crops in a belt from England and Wales to Belgium and northwest and central France.

Some 3,000 campers and bathers were evacuated in boats when forest fires swept toward France's Atlantic beach north of Royan and cut off all overland escape routes.

At least 10,000 other vacationers were in a beach area farther north, around the village of La Palmyre, and vans with loudspeakers toured the streets and tent camps warning an emergency evacuation might be necessary.

Black smoke swirled over La Palmyre and flames could be seen shooting hundreds of feet into the air less than two miles away.

The director of a zoo in La Palmyre appealed to other French zoos to send him mobile cages and tranquilizing drugs as quickly as possible so he could move his animals, including lions, tigers, giraffes and hippos.

Some 600 animals have been evacuated, the zookeeper said, but he said he did not have adequate equipment to move the 50 biggest animals.

Hundreds of firemen from communities up to 100 miles away were trying to block the blaze in the pinewoods, but strong winds fanned the fire.

U.S.' show of military force in Korea

Felling of tree is warlike operation

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The United States staged a demonstration of military power in and around Korea on Saturday at the same time as allied forces felled a tree that was the center of the dispute in which North Koreans killed two American officers.

President Ford personally approved "the plan to go in there and cut the tree down," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Saturday at Vail, Colo., where Ford is vacationing. With Ford is National Security Agency director Brent A. Scowcroft who is keeping the President abreast of the situation.

At Travis Air Force Base in California, flag-draped caskets carrying the bodies of the two slain American officers arrived amid a brief, solemn ceremony. As the plane returning their bodies touched down, a 26-man honor guard saluted.

The bodies were taken to the U.S. Army Mortuary in Oakland, Calif. Col. Erroll Loving, Travis information officer, said Maj. Arthur Bonifas, 33, of Newburgh, N.Y., would be flown to West Point, N.Y. for burial and 1st Lt. Mark T. Barrett, 25, to his hometown of Columbia, S.C. Bonifas was promoted posthumously from captain to major.

In the operation, an armada of warplanes and troops was poised near the demilitarized zone during cutting of the 40-foot poplar at the neutral truce village of Panmunjom.

A U.S. Navy task force steamed toward Korea.

Twenty-six helicopter gunships of the kind used in the Vietnam War backed by an unspecified number of F4 Phantom and F111 jet fighters and three B52 bombers from Guam circled overhead while a "quick reaction force" of 300 U.S. and South Korean soldiers protected the tree-cutting, allied military sources said.

North Korean soldiers at the scene limited their response to shooting photographs but their government accused the United States of a grave military provocation.

Reagan's future: another crack at presidency?

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ronald Reagan says he intends to have a voice in shaping national policy and does not rule out the possibility of making another run for the presidency. But he quickly adds that, "certainly elected office is not on my mind."

The 65-year-old Reagan plans to resume writing his weekly newspaper column, making speaking tours, and doing radio commentaries, which were on the air daily on 350 stations before the former actor and sportscaster entered the race nine months ago against President Ford.

"We aren't going to go back and sit in a rocking chair on the front porch and say, 'Well, that's all for us,'" Reagan told campaign volunteers and staff workers a few hours after defeat in what turned out to be the strongest challenge to an incumbent president from within his own party in 64 years.

Reagan said in an interview on his way home to California on Friday that he will campaign for Ford, but only to the extent that time is available after his other activities.

Did the President ask Reagan to actively campaign?

"He said he wanted my help, yes. We couldn't get into specifics because there has been no campaign planning as yet. I will have one problem. I have to go back to making a living here, and it's going to be contingent on that. I'll do what I can," Reagan said in an interview on his flight home from Kansas City.

However, Reagan is unabashed about his ambition to retain the devoted conservative constituency which took him to within 60 delegates in a convention of 2,259 of toppling the president.

"I'm going to do everything I can to see that that stays together in order to be an influence," Reagan said.

Reagan says he believes that his following is a majority of the grass roots voters, if not the convention delegates.

"I think there's no question that the bulk of the people in this country are, if you have to put a label on them, conservative, whether they know it or not," he said.

Looking back briefly, Reagan said he would have won the presidential nomination if it had not been for the intense pressure of party leaders on delegates who really preferred him.

"This was immense. It was one thing for a delegate in his home town to get a telephone call from the state chairman or whatever, and be able to say, 'I'm for Reagan,' or 'I'm uncommitted.'

"But something we hadn't anticipated was the pressure there, literally entrapped with the pressure of their peers all around them, far from their homes, and with all the forces of the establishment in there beating on them," he said.

Aside from that, Reagan said the one thing he would have done differently in his campaign would have been to cut back on appearances in California in order to spend more time in Ohio.

"If we had it to do over again, knowing what we know now with hindsight, of how safe we were in California, I believe that four or five days campaigning in Ohio and we would have carried Ohio."

Reagan won California's primary by a margin of 736,000 votes, carrying his home state by a 2-1 margin. On the same day he lost Ohio and 88 of its 97 delegates by a 10 per cent 92,000-vote margin.

But that is past. Now Reagan is looking ahead.

Staff aide Peter Hannaford said Reagan will meet Monday with the producer of his former radio show — which provided most of Reagan's net income of $282,253 last year — with the intention of getting the "American Viewpoint" commentaries back on the air by mid-September.

Aside from that, Reagan's future plans are uncertain. Asked if his race against Ford was definitely his final run for the presidency, Reagan left the door open just slightly.

"I learned a long time ago as I said so often, that I'm never going to again make a declaration about that (saying never). Certainly elected office is not in my mind."

The presidency was the only political office Reagan had even considered since leaving California's governor's office 19 months ago. Retiring after two terms as governor, Reagan rejected strong pleas from backers to run for the U.S. Senate. And he repeatedly said he would never under any circumstances accept the vice presidency.

But he will be nearly 70 before there is another opportunity to try for the White House, and it sounded as if the thought of his age were somewhere in the back of Reagan's mind when he struggled to hold back tears and speak to a group of young campaign volunteers the morning after his defeat.

"You stay in there, stay in there with the same belief and the same faith that made you do what you are doing here," he said.

"The individuals on the stage may change. But the cause is there, and the cause will prevail because it's right. So don't give up your ideals. Don't compromise. Don't turn to expediency and don't, for heaven's sakes, ... don't get cynical."

But Reagan, who even on the longest and most grueling days of his campaign looked years younger than his age, says age is not a consideration in his plans.

He is energetic, athletic and in good health — an outdoors man whose favorite activities are horseback riding and outdoor chores such as cutting wood at his 688-acre ranch in California's coastal mountains 120 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Reagan said the comment about new actors on the stage did not mean he was bowing out of politics. It is quite the opposite, he said.

"I was talking to our young people, facing all those tears. I didn't want them to transfer their feelings that because an individual is defeated, the cause was defeated. They've got to continue in what they believe."

It is definitely not all over for Reagan in his mind.

The radio show, which his staff said reached 30 million listeners daily, will be his chief podium to preach his gospel of free enterprise and limited government.

"I can do more for the cause I believe in from the outside, maintaining my independence," he said, explaining why he would never accept the vice presidency.

"I've evaluated what I think I can do best. I believe that there are enough differences between (myself and Ford) that, while I will support the nominee of the party, I want to return to the radio program, the newspaper column and the speaking circuit to be able to influence and to state my feelings when I think the government is taking the wrong course.

"I want to advocate the cause that I believe in, the conservative cause," he said.

FORMER TEAMMATE Silas McGee, was all smiles about President Ford's victory in the race for the presidential nomination. He is shown relaxing in the reading room of the YMCA in San Francisco where he lives. McGee made news in November 1974 when he attended a White House reunion breakfast for the South High football team on which he and Ford played.

Ford a fighter, says ex-teammate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "Things didn't look good for the home team for a while, but he came through with flying colors," says Silas McGee of an old football buddy, Gerald R. Ford.

McGee says President Ford is "the most underestimated man you'll ever see" and bets he's bound for victory in the November election after a tough fight for the Republican nomination.

The irrepressible McGee, now 62 and living in a $6.50-a-day YMCA room following a heart attack, was the only black on Ford's 1930 undefeated South High team in Grand Rapids, Mich.

He made news in November 1974 when he attended a White House reunion breakfast for the team. He called the President "Junie" — for Gerald R. Ford Jr. — and displayed some of the moves he used as a 150-pound halfback.

"He's a good choice and I'm quite certain he'll emerge victorious," McGee said shortly before Ford delivered his acceptance speech to the Republican National Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

In a conversation sprinkled with football metaphors, McGee described Ford as a man their team — and the nation — "could rally behind."

McGee, who prepared a letter of congratulations for the President after watching his first-ballot victory on television Wednesday night, said that it was "nip and tuck for a while."

McGee, though a Californian now, did not support former Gov. Ronald Reagan's bid to upset Ford as the party's standard-bearer.

"Sometimes Reagan comes on like a house on fire and then later he cools off," McGee said. "But you can't just jump right in and get on the first team."

Now retired after a career as a longshoreman, McGee admitted his old teammate will have a "tough, hard uphill struggle" to beat Democrat Jimmy Carter.

"According to the polls, he's starting behind and has a lot of catching up to do," he said. "But in the end, when people get the idea that he has the knowledge and the plan, he'll win.

"And even if he doesn't win, he's a fighter," McGee added. "They'll know they've been in a fight."

'Sayonara' for visiting Japanese students

Many tears were shed at 7 a.m. today as host families gathered at Claremont High to say "Sayonara" to 38 Japanese teenagers.

The boys and girls, 12 through 15, leave Los Angeles International Airport at 10:30 a.m. for Tokyo and then home.

The visitors, here for a three-week stay through the Foreign Study League, Inc., an educational service of The Readers Digest, succeeded with their hosts in breaking down a language barrier as they attended English classes at Claremont High and explored such tourist attractions as Disneyland, the Jet Propulsion Lab, UCLA, the Queen Mary, Magic Mountain, the Huntington Library, and zoos at Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor.

The cultural exchange program concluded Saturday night with a potluck dinner at Memorial Park.

Dr. James Martin, Claremont High vice-principal, gave each student a certificate, and each student presented a thank you certificate signed by him or her, program coordinator Bill Herman, Japanese program advisor Shigeaki Watanabe, and Martin to each of the 30 host families.

The evening was spent with the visitors and their hosts demonstrating folk dances and singing such songs as "This Land is My Land."

The boys enjoyed that American invention, the Frisbee, and the girls showed off colorful kimonos.

The youngsters took to such American foods as spaghetti, hamburgers, hot dogs and Cokes.

Asked if they would host youngsters again next summer, the American families said certainly.

Many of the visitors said they would like to return to the United States to go to college.

3 aliens tortured, dragged over desert

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — Three illegal aliens looking for work near here were stripped, stabbed, burned with hot pokers and dragged across the desert, the Cochise County sheriff's department said.

In addition, two of the men were hit by birdshot fired from shotguns as they fled their assailants. The third man was not hit.

The men, all in their 20s, told deputies they had just crossed the border from Mexico and were on their way to the town of Elfrida, about 20 miles north of Douglas in the southeastern corner of Arizona, to seek work.

They were identified as Eleazar Ruelas Zavala, 24; Manuel Garcia Loya, 25; and Bernabe Herrara Mata, 21, all of Chihuahua. All were listed in satisfactory condition in a hospital in Agua Prieta in Mexico.

Mexican Consul Raul Aveleyra termed the assault "a very sadistic thing," and said, "The people of Mexico are quite bothered by this incident." Aveleyra said one victim had 125 "BBs" removed from his back; another had 60 removed.

A spokesman for the Cochise County sheriff's deptartment said no arrests had been made.

A detective, who said evidence would be presented to a grand jury this week to determine whether any charges should be filed, gave this account of the incident:

The Mexicans were confronted Wednesday morning by an armed man driving a pickup truck in a desert area about eight miles west of Douglas and about two miles south of U.S. 80.

Lye thrown in man's face; woman and two daughters arrested

A Pomona woman and her two daughters were arrested by police late Friday night following a family fight during which a man had powdered lye thrown in his eyes.

Harriett Lee Clark, 33, of 2122 Rollins Way, Pomona, and her two daughters 13 and 14, were booked on suspicion of mayhem, according to police.

The victim, Gilbert Lee Cardwell, 40, also of the Rollins Way address, was taken to Pomona Valley Community Hospital after the incident and later transferred to County-USC Medical Center in Los Angeles with burns to both eyes, his face and chest.

Shotgun pullets hit 4

Four persons were treated at Chino General Hospital Friday night for shotgun pellet wounds.

Investigators learned that Michael Gasper, 3647 Riverside Drive, Chino had been having an argument with some persons in a car on Chino Avenue, West of Archibald Avenue.

As he walked away to join a group composed of Jeffrey Scott, 1201 Roswell Ave., Denise Van Ravensway, 7360 Pine St., and Roger Smith, 3874 Philadelphia St., all of Chino, a shotgun was fired into the air.

The second round was fired into the group and hit all four persons.

The attackers fled in a late-model car recovered later in Riverside County.

Teen driver hurt as car strikes house

A San Dimas teenager was injured Saturday night when he drove a car into the corner of a house in the 400 block of North Shellman Avenue, San Dimas.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's dupties indentified the youth as Keith Levitt. He was taken to San Dimas Community Hospital for treatment of a possible broke nose and other injuries.

Levitt was apparently northbound on Shellman when he lost control of the vehicle, jumped a curb and rammed into the front room of a home on the northwest corner of Shellman and Renwick Road.

Little damage was done to home, and no one inside was injured.

Residents of the area called for increased traffic control of the street to reduce speeding.

Demos kick off drive for voters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee is set to kick off on today in Los Angeles its nationwide voter registration, aiming to register 1.8 million new voters by the November election.

On hand to speak at the opening ceremonies in downtown Los Angeles will be Rep. Andrew Young, D-Ga., chairman of the drive and a key black figure in Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign.

Gunfights kill 5 in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Five suspected leftists were killed in two gunfights in the city of Cordoba on Saturday and two busloads of gunmen believed to be left-wing terrorists attacked a highway police station near here.

At least three bombs exploded at downtown street corners in Buenos Aires. No injuries were reported even though late-evening movie crowds were in the streets.

THE END OF A VISIT Certificates are handed out Saturday night to each of the 38 Japanese youngsters who have been staying in area homes the past three weeks. Chatting about the certificates and their stay with 30 host families are, from left, Bill Herman, program coordinator; Mrs. Henry Posner, and one of her two guests, Mikiko Kobayashi; and Vicki Marks, who had Tomoe Yanagita at her home. The visitors quickly adapted to American customs during their tour.

KIDS' GAME

No one a loser at littlest world series

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

You had to bend way over to shake the ball player's hand.

Of course, this player was only a few feet tall, but on Saturday, he felt much taller.

He was competing with 28 other youngsters in the Tee-Ball "World Series" at San Dimas' Marchant Park.

Boys and girls aged 5 to 7 in the San Dimas area participated in the littlest world series known.

The tee-ball program has been operating for three summers and has grown from 60 participants the first year to 140 this year. The "world series" provided a fitting climax to the program sponsored by the San Dimas Parks and Recreation Department.

Rules have been adapted for the age of the players. Everybody plays — no one sits on the bench.

There are no strikeouts or walks, no team can score more than 10 runs an inning, and games are six innings or one hour, whichever comes first. Rubber-coated 10-inch softballs are used.

Most importantly, a batter does not hit a thrown ball. He or she hits it off a tee.

And during Saturday's "world series" the youngsters hit the ball often. The final score was Posse 11, Broncos 8. One boy hit two home runs for the Posse.

"He's looking for the champagne," yelled a parent from the grandstands.

The youngsters received frequent ovations from an enthusiastic bleacher crowd.

And they enjoyed some frills such as jazz band entertainment before and after the game. The usual "Star Spangled Banner" was performed before the contest.

After the Tee-Ball World Series, each player received some kind of award. Some even got a chance to pose for photographers.

United Auto Workers launch homestretch contract drive

DETROIT (AP) — After five weeks of no-progress bargaining, the United Auto Workers launches a homestretch drive toward new contracts with the Big Three automakers this week with the selection of a strike target for 1976.

Will it be Ford because it's the No. 2 maker's turn? Or maybe industry giant General Motors because of its strong financial position? And what about Chrysler, always a possible candidate because it's so vulnerable to a strike?.

The UAW, which has not tipped its hand thus far, will provide the answer on Tuesday, when its international executive board convenes to debate the issue.

Union officials say there still is no agreement among leaders on who the target should be and there likely won't be until after they thrash it out in closed session.

"We never make a selection until the last minute," said one official. "We like to discuss all the pros and cons first. We may go in to the meeting expecting to name one company and then come out with a different one."

Veteran labor observers see Ford as the frontrunner for 1976, mainly because Ford hasn't been the target since the 1967 round of triennial talks. A settlement was reached that year after a 66-day strike.

GM was the target in 1970, when it was hit by a 67-day walkout, and Chrysler was tagged in 1973, when there was a nine-day strike.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said repeatedly all year that Ford won't be the target simply "because it's Ford's turn."

And union officials are quick to point out there are many good reasons for going to Ford, GM or Chrysler, as well as strong arguments for not picking any of them this year.

The union, which is bargaining for 680,000 auto workers, will be sifting through those pros and cons in determining who it'll go to either to set an industry pattern settlement or to strike when current three-year pacts expires Sept. 14.

"We have to assess where we can get the most in the quickest time," a UAW vice president said.

Bargainers and rank-and-file members at each of the Big Three appear equally enthusiastic about having their companies selected, so that won't be a factor in Tuesday's decision. UAW negotiators of each maker have asked to be the target, citing the unanimous backing of their membership.

"We always want to be the target," said UAW Vice President Ken Bannon at Ford. "That way, we can negotiate a package tailored to our members' needs rather than be forced to accept what's been reached somewhere else."

Once a target is selected, bargaining at the other companies ceases to await a settlement at the chosen firm. If there's a strike, the other makers would continue uninterrupted production.

Ford may be the target because it could afford UAW demands better than Chrysler and pose less of a financial drain on the union than GM should there be a walkout.

Labor observers also note that UAW has a better chance of reaching its main goals — reduced work time, improved job security and bolstered layoff benefits — at Ford, where the union first won a modern vacation plan, pension program and jobless benefit fund.

Irving Bluestone, UAW vice president of the GM department, sees the situation differently. "GM should be the target because of its profits and because we have an opportunity to make excellent achievement in the goals we are pursuing," he declared recently.

Bluestone argues that GM cannot deny workers a fair shake because of the "bulging profits" it has accumulated — a record $909 million in the spring and $1.7 billion for the first half of 1976.

Ford and Chrysler, however, also have reported record quarterly earnings — $442 million and $155 million respectively.

UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser, head of the Chrysler department, says that firm may have been ruled out in 1975, when it piled up record losses of $260 million, "but it can't plead poverty this year, and has to be in the running."

Chrysler always is a potential target because it cannot afford a long strike and would meet union demands in shorter order. But unionists concede that if Chrysler is picked all the time, GM and Ford eventually may sense the union is afraid to take them on and will ignore any pattern reached at their little sister.

"When you really think about it, you can't rule out any of the Big Three," Fraser said.

The only maker definitely out of the running in 1976 is little American Motors. The UAW has said it won't go there because of a severe sales slump which is producing mounting losses for the firm.

If bargaining stances provide any clues, GM would be the most likely target. The hardest positions have been taken there so far, with both sides exchanging salvos. By contrast, talks have been more cordial at Ford and very low-keyed at Chrysler.

The union has a record $175 million strike fund at the ready, enough to last from two months at GM to six months at Chrysler.

But a key factor in the selection of a target may be whether the UAW would risk another devastating GM walkout like the one in 1970, the costliest strike in the history of the U.S. labor movement.

That was the first time the UAW waged a lengthy walkout against the industry's goliath since 1946. The union eventually won its fight for unlimited cost-of-living wage protection, but not until it exhausted a $120 million strike fund and had to put everything it owned up for hock.

Does it matter to the companies who the target is? Not really, says GM's top bargainer, George Morris. "There are advantages and disadvantages," he explained. "On the plus side, it gives you a chance to forge your own package, but then there's always the risk you'll be shut down."

Two men shot somewhere in valley

Montclair police detectives will begin Monday to try to piece together the details surrounding the shooting of two men somewhere in the valley area about 2:50 a.m. Saturday.

Listed in critical condition at Doctors Hospital, Montclair, is Robert Held, age 33 to 35.

According to police, the wounded Held was dropped off at a friends house in Upland. He was taken from there to the hospital.

Police said that the second victim is receiving treatment at Pomona Valley Community Hospital, but declined to give his name.

The bullet-ridden car in which Held reportedly was riding was found in the 5600 block of Caroline St., Montclair, and was impounded.

D.A.'s aide to address council

A representative from Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger's office will appear at the Chino Community Action Council meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Building.

The representative is expected to present brief remarks and answer questions about local drug and crime problems.

Burton weds British model

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Burton and British model Susan Hunt were married in Arlington, Va., on Saturday and then flew here for a reception at the hotel where they will live while he makes a new film.

The bride, ex-wife of race car driver James Hunt, wore an off-the-shoulder floral-printed pink silk dress.

Burton, twice married and divorced from actress Elizabeth Taylor, telephoned Miss Taylor in Vienna to tell her that he and Mrs. Hunt were to be married, a spokesman said. Miss Taylor is filming the musical, "A Little Night Music," in Austria.

Burton and Mrs. Hunt's civil wedding ceremony in Virginia was performed by Judge Francis E. Thomas Jr., who also married Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry Kissinger.

Bob Wilson, best man for Burton in his first marriage to Miss Taylor, served in the same capacity on Saturday. Also present were John Miller, lawyer Aaron R. Frosch, who represents both Burton and Miss Taylor, and John Springer, press agent for both Burton and Miss Taylor.

After the ceremony, the newlyweds flew to New York for the reception at Laurent, a restaurant in the Lombardy Hotel.

Microprocessors

Biggest hit since transistors

By RHODA SEEGAL
Associated Press Writer

It's the brains of a taxi meter that keeps track of five different fares simultaneously. It makes a pocket calculator talk. It will regulate speed on a 1977 model car. It tells a sewing machine how to stitch.

The device is a tiny computer called a microprocessor. And it is being used in a growing number of consumer and commercial products. It is, in fact, beginning to have an impact comparable to the advent of the transistor 25 years ago.

In the past year alone, microprocessors — the size of a fingernail but with the capability of a room-size computers — also have been used in telephones, postal scales, games, microwave ovens, traffic lights, surveyor's equipment, a blood analyzer, and supermarket checkout counters.

"The transistor made possible low-cost electronics; everyone could buy a portable radio. Microprocessors will enable the widespread use of lowcost computing," says Peter Jessel of the microprocessor lab at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Intel Corp., National Semiconductors, Texas Instruments, Motorola, Signetics and others are manufacturing microprocessors by the thousands. Microprocessors are made by using a photographic process to reproduce on a small silicon wafer the numerous transistors, resistors and diodes of conventional computers. The silicon wafer is then encased in ceramic. The finished unit includes the wafer and sometimes memory and input-output devices.

Mass production of microprocessors is reducing their cost. Some are priced as low as $20, down from more than $100 a year ago. The dropping unit cost is making microprocessors less expensive than mechanical or electronic devices now used in some consumer and commercial products. At the same time, the microprocessor is faster, more reliable and, above all, smarter.

Take the taxi meter. Bru-Der Instrument Corp. of Vancouver is marketing a $305 meter equipped with microprocessor that keeps track of and displays the fares of each of five passengers boarding at different locations. No mechanical taxi meter does that.

A year ago, Amana Refrigeration Inc., introduced a microwave oven regulated by microprocessors. It has a keyboard and digital display in place of the old-fashioned knobs. The cook programs in type of meat, weight, and whether it's to be medium, rare or well-done.

Singer has placed a microprocessor in a sewing machine. It tells the machine how to make complicated stitches.

Lately, thousands of people are buying microprocessor units that create video games when attached to television sets. This is the fastest growing use of microprocessors. For as little as $60, a computerized control box transforms a home TV screen into an arena for electronic tennis, ping pong, hockey, handball, chess, ticktacktoe.

Researchers at Bell Telephone Laboratories have developed a check verification system, and a microprocessor office phone unit which repeatedly dials busy numbers, automatically forwards calls, and pages executives. Another phone device stores as many as 10 numbers and automatically dials one of them when a send button is pushed.

Checkers at some supermarkets are using a microprocessor system to identify and register the price of grocery items passed before an electronic eye built into the counter.

Microprocessors are working for communities, too. TRW Inc. and Comstar Corp., for example, have cooperated on a project to regulate traffic lights in Baltimore.

Honeywell has used the tiny microprocessor in a blood analyzer for physicians' offices. Surveyors have from Hewlett-Packard a microprocessor tool that computes heights, distances and angles.

The auto industry is a major potential market. General Motors has built test cars, using computers of one type or another to control fuel injection, automatic transmission and dashboard information.

A major obstacle is integration of the computer into all functions of the car.

"There is a reliability problem. Microprocessors are very sensitive to electrical disturbances caused by high currents and voltage in the engine," explains MIT's Jessel. "And currently engine parts are very cheap."

GM President Elliot M. Estes has expressed the hope that a car controlled completely by microprocessors will be mass produced by 1980. Oldsmobile's 1977 Toronado, due out later this year, will have a microprocessor controlling the timing of the engine spark. The Cadillac Seville has an optional cruise control to hold speed constant. The microprocessor device adds $600 to the cost of the car.

Cost is a key reason for the growing use of microprocessors. While they drop in price, the mechanical devices they often replace are going up in cost, primarily because of the labor used to make them.

And they simplify things. "If we wanted to change a function we used to rewire an entire board," says James Bruce-Sanders, head of the taxi meter company. "With a microprocessor, all we have to do is change a program."

The microprocessor is not a dramatic breakthrough in computer technology, but rather the culmination of a trend. The first electronic computer was developed at the University of Pennsylvania in the early '40s. It used vacuum tubes and cost close to $20 million. In the '50s transistors came into use. And in 1963 the minicomputer was introduced, the size of a two-drawer filing cabinet. The advent of the microprocessor in the early '70s was the latest link in the development chain, the link that finally makes computers available for many consumer products.

But there is a problem of training personnel. "What we're seeing on the West Coast is that 40 per cent of the engineers are scared to even open an operations manual on microprocessors because everything they've learned up to now is obsolete."

General Accounting Office usually is overlooked agency

(Illustration by Gaspar Vilato and Larry Zwart)

WASHINGTON (AP) — John Anderson is 27, the father of two. He got here almost by accident. He wouldn't leave for the world. He likes his job, which is making government work better and saving Americans money.

To put it simplistically, one day John Anderson, in the course of his duties, came across $6 million in a naval construction budget, traced it back, found it unnecessary, told Congress.

Congress cut the funds from the naval budget. John Anderson, who makes something over $23,000 a year, thus saved the American taxpayer $6 million. He is one of a rare breed who work under the aegis of Congress.

Congress is a big thing. It decides how American money will be spent and how Americans will benefit from the spending.

Congress is also a sometimes thing. Its members change, and it frequently changes its mind. When it passes a law or sets up a program, the law or program is sometimes imperfect, the product of 500 authors. Nevertheless, the intent of Congress is the will of the people, and thy will be done. That's where John Anderson comes in.

He works for one of the lowest-of-profile federal agencies, the General Accounting Office. Many people have never heard of it. Many who have don't know what it does.

GAO retains some 4,000 professionals, 8,000 eyes and ears. It is the servant of Congress, empowered to determine whether the intent of Congress (i.e. the people) is being followed faithfully and efficiently.

The matter of the $6 million came up when the Navy decided it needed a Trident submarine base in Washington state, and asked Congress for funds. A GAO team, including Anderson, took a careful look and found some of the requests questionable or unnecessary.

"At some point in time they prepare a budget estimate for what they feel they need, say a crane to lift missiles out of a ship," Anderson explains. "At a later date they find an alternative way of removing the missiles and don't really need the crane. They just didn't go back and revise their budget submissions."

Not all savings are so clearly identified. GAO documents that it saved half a billion dollars in 1975, a figure that surpasses by far its $129 million budget and the salaries of all the John Andersons, who, like a battalion of St. Georges, go forth each day to do battle with the many-headed dragon called government.

The real savings must be several billion dollars a year — the money government agencies might spend if there was no oversight.

The GAO began in 1921 as an auditing agency essentially, checking income and outgo, guarding against illegal expenditures. In 1950, the GAO expanded its function somewhat, adding one more question: Is the money being efficiently spent? In 1970, Congress further increased GAO's responsibilities to include evaluation of program results.

Today there are increasing cries about the inefficiency and over-reach of big government. Congress is concerned, and when Congress is concerned, GAO goes to work.

"Increased concerns are being voiced in the Congress and elsewhere," writes Comptroller General Elmer Staats, who heads GAO, "particularly in the government's capability to make programs work effectively, and to serve well those individuals and groups for which public funds are expended."

GAO seldom finds malfeasance or outright crookedness. Just simple, expensive mistakes, narrow-view management, people doing what they have always done because they always have. Sometimes just carelessness, forgetfulness.

Roughly a third of GAO's reports are in response to queries by Congress. Some are initiated by GAO itself in response to public criticism. Some are triggered by newspaper articles or tips from interested parties.

GAO's authority ranges all through government, although unevenly and with some exceptions. Congress giveth, and Congress taketh away. Thus, since 1921, Congress has excluded some data from GAO purview — for instance the Federal Reserve System and the Internal Revenue Service.

But, largely, GAO operates wherever American tax monies are spent. It operated, for instance, in Vietnam.

It also maintains offices in the various federal agencies and staff members work closely within the fabric of the agencies.

In the enormity of government, in the dispersed operations of any single agency, variation becomes the theme. One manager thinks he's doing the right thing in his area of operation, but in the larger perspective, his way is costly and ineffective.

For instance, the U.S. Postal Service operates a centralized warehouse for vehicle spare parts which it buys wholesale at roughly half price. Individual postal offices can order parts from the warehouse and pay for local installation.

But when GAO looked into it, the warehouse wasn't being used properly. Local postmasters were sending their vehicles to local garages for repair because it was easier. Since the GAO report, the warehouse business has improved.

Wars are notably wasteful, so when the United States went to war in Vietnam, the GAO went with it. One of the first jobs for Jim Black, 29, was to check procurement by the United States for the Vietnamese.

Wars are not neat, and auditors and management specialists sometimes find them hopeless. Assigned to look into the effectiveness of battlefield sensors, designed to ferret out enemy movements, Black met frustration after frustration. With people moving in and out, it was difficult to find someone who knew what had been done a few months ago. And the farther from command centers, the less available were written records.

"They'd simply tell you, 'when we moved, we had too much weight so we left them behind'." Black doesn't know if a final report was ever made.

Understandably, not everyone likes the GAO people nosing around.

Mostly though, even in sensitive areas, federal agencies cooperate. John Anderson is currently working on a project at the Army Security Agency, the outfit that develops super-secret ways to monitor an enemy's electronics, radio and radar, to get an intelligence edge. Anderson carries a special clearance, above top secret.

The Army Security Agency's work, by some Pentagon measures, is as important as guns and tanks. The five-man GAO team is checking how close to estimated costs the programs are running, how close they are to timetable development, and finally, "how are they performing?"

"Are we paying a lot more now for something that will do a lot less?" Anderson asks. In this sense, GAO provides a continuing analysis on the outcome of what Congress has already voted.

The team is also looking into other Defense Department entities like the Air Force and Navy to see if they have equipment that might also be used by the Army. Granted, most of the team is not technologically trained to make such evaluations. When this happens, GAO pulls in outside consultants.

The GAO process is time consuming. On any one project, there may be more than a hundred interviews. Every interview is documented by a written memorandum, to back up the final report.

The team begins with a plan and a survey, especially "where we don't know anything to speak of about the agency or the operation we're auditing."

When they find things they think need improvements, or require congressional attention, the team goes into a review stage, and probes for more detail.

There have been many complaints that GAO doesn't work fast enough, but there have been few challenges to the facts turned up by GAO researchers.

Often GAO recommendations to the agency itself solve problems that the agency didn't know existed. Sometimes Congress is asked to pass new legislation to clear up ambiguities in old legislation.

Relatively few members of Congress use the GAO's services, although, says Sen. William Proxmire, who frequently calls on GAO, this is changing slowly. Congressional committees often ask for GAO help now, and frequently GAO staffers join the committee staff in investigations.

GAO's reports are known for their flat, undramatic language, but they are nonetheless concise in summary. For instance: "There are eight federal agencies responsible for managing and operating federal warning dissemination systems to alert the public of natural disasters and enemy attacks. Actions have been taken by the Interagency Warning Steering Group to coordinate efforts, but

What's going on around here

'SUPERSTARS' — The San Dimas Parks and Recreation Department will conduct a "superstars" competition Wednesday at Ekstrand School, beginning at 1 p.m.

Boys and girls 8 to 15 will compete for trophies and ribbons in three divisions. Events include obstacle course, basketball shooting, baseball hitting and football kicking.

Contestants are awarded points in each event according to their finish. Total points will count toward the championship.

Those wishing additional information may call 599-6713 Ext. 40.

ROADS RESURFACED — More than 3½ miles of county roads will be resurfaced in Rowland Heights next week, Supervisor Peter Schabarum has announced.

Included in the repair job are portions of Paso Real, Colima Road, Arcdale Avenue and Aguiro Street.

DAMIEN FRESHMEN — Freshman students at Damien High School will start fall classes Sept. 7, the Rev. Martin O'Loghlen principal, announced.

Sophomores start Sept. 8 and juniors and seniors on Sept. 9, he said. Full day schedule starts Sept. 10.

Approximately 760 students are expected to enroll in the fall, a slight increase over last year. New programs include concentration at the lower level on English, social studies, mathematics and history.

TAXES DUE — Personal property taxes — those levied on business inventories, boats and aircraft — are due Aug. 31.

H.B. Alvord, Los Angeles County tax collector, says a six per cent penalty will be levied against the property of those who fail to pay their tax bills by then.

He points out that the taxes due Aug. 31 should not be confused with tax bills on residential property which will not be mailed out until November.

ADULT CLASSES — Twelve evening classes are scheduled for adults this fall at the Bonita Unified School District, Supt. James Johnson has announced.

Courses will be offered in adolescent psychology, car care, child psychology, conversational Spanish, decorative arts, English as a second language, needlecrafts, painting, body conditioning, school bus driver training, sewing and wood shop.

All classes run from 7 to 10 p.m. unless otherwise noted. A prerequisite for each course is an enrollment of at least 20 students.

Those who are interested are urged to telephone the district 599-6787 for more information.

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENT — Donald F. Adams, administrator of Foothill Presbyterian Hospital in Glendora, has been appointed to the Hospital Council of Southern California health services agency committee for Supervisorial District 1.

The appointment follows Adams' recent election to the council's hospital relations committee for the 1976-1977 term.

Hospital relations is the committee charged under the guiding principles for hospitals with the responsibility for administering and processing patient complaints against member hospitals.

Procedures for handling these complaints are considered one of the hospital council's most valuable services to the public.

ARTILLERY UNIT REUNION — The 250th Coast Artillery Association will hold its annual reunion on Sept. 18 at the Villa Hotel in San Mateo.

The artillery unit was a National Guard unit that entered federal service in September 1941 from San Francisco and included many Southern California residents.

The unit served in Alaska from 1941 to 1944.

Reunion information may be obtained by contacting Phil Tomasello, 245 Ellsworth St., San Francisco, 94110.

DONATION TO YMCA — Pomona Optimist Club has donated $300 to the Pomona Valley YMCA for the purchase of boxing equipment.

Funds will be used to replace the YMCA's heavy and speed bags and other accessory equipment.

Club members also recently supported the purchase of a new flag by members of the Pomona Valley Juvenile Diversion project.

Other charitable projects of the club, which meets each Monday at noon at the Pomona Elks Lodge, include support of the Optimist Home for Boys in the San Fernando Valley.

4-H PRESIDENT — Carla Bauer has been elected president of the La Verne 4-H Club for the year that starts Sept. 1.

Other officers are Margaret Munro, vice president; Taryn Ice, secretary, Sue Laube, treasurer; Andrea Jones, reporter and Maria Vinatieri and Whitney Jones, songleaders.

The group will hold its next meeting Sept. 14 at 7 p.m. at the La Verne Community building.

Almanac

Today is Sunday, Aug. 22, the 235th day of 1976. There are 131 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1941, during World War II, Nazi troops reached the outskirts of the Soviet city of Leningrad.

On this date —

In 1654, a man believed to be the first Jewish emigrant to America, Jacob Barsimson, landed at New Amsterdam.

In 1762, the first American woman newspaper editor, Ann Franklin, went to work at the Newport Mercury in Rhode Island.

In 1846, the annexation of New Mexico as U.S. territory was announced at Santa Fe.

In 1910, Japan annexed Korea.

In 1956, a Republican National Convention in San Francisco renominated President Dwight Eisenhower and Vice President Richard Nixon for second terms.

In 1972, President Nixon accepted blame for the Watergate scandal. He also announced the resignation of William Rogers as secretary of state and the nomination of Henry Kissinger for the job.

Ten years ago: General Motors, Ford and Chrysler rejected a request by the United Auto Workers Union that labor contracts be reopened to negotiate pay raises for skilled workers.

Five years ago: Army rebels in Bolivia crushed the last organized resistance to their coup and set up a three-man military junta to run the country.

One year ago: Leftists terrorists blew up a frigate being built near Buenos Aires for the Argentine government.

Today's birthday: French fashion designer Marc Bohan is 50 years old.

Thought for today: The machinery of government would not work if it were not allowed a little play in its joints — Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, 1841-1935.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, British Gen. William Howe landed 10,000 soldiers on New York's Long Island.

Order report on high rate of dropouts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The latest fire fighter recruit class, which had a larger-than-usual number of minority group members, also had a larger-than-usual dropout rate.

The Los Angeles Board of Fire Commissioners wants to know why.

Commission President George Beaubien ordered a full report recently on the reasons behind the large number of resignations and terminations in the latest class, which runs July 5 through Sept. 11.

Twenty-four of 45 students have left the class, which started with a minority enrollment of 71.1 per cent, a spokesman said. The current breakdown of recruits currently is eight Spanish-surnamed, nine Anglo, four black, two Asian-American and one American Indian for a total minority enrollment of 62.5 per cent.

Fire Chief Kenneth Long said his staff would begin to prepare an analysis of the attrition.

MARTHA T. CHAPMAN

Ontarian elected to PTA commission

Martha T. Chapman of Ontario, Chaffey school board member, has been elected to the finance commission of the California State PTA.

Mrs. Chapman will have charge of the student loan program in her role on the commission.

Mrs. Chapman has contributed more than 20 years of community volunteer services, and was among the 1975 receipients of the Brotherhood Award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews Inc.

She was for many years the coordinator of the Christmas basket program for needy families in the West End.

She is past president of the Fifth District PTA, the Ontario-Montclair PTA and the Chaffey High PTA.

Union label

About 40 per cent of all professionals, not counting those self-employed or managers, are now represented by collective bargaining agents. This compares with 25 per cent of all U.S. workers.

But one group of professionals, scientists and engineers, appear to be bucking the trend. The proportion of unionized engineers and scientists is estimated at only 5 per cent, which hasn't changed much over the last 20 years.

New process baked finish outlasts others 3-1. Eliminates painting problems.

YOUNG FARMERS

Bill Thomas and Kathy Baxter, both from Ontario, pull weeds from rows of onions in a senior citizens garden in Chino. Nine youths are employed this summer in the federally funded program under a work experience project. Vegetables grown in the five acres behind Chino's Buena Vista High School are donated to senior citizen nutrition centers.

READY TO PLUCK

San Bernardino County Supervisor Robert Townsend, left, and Dwight Wenger, check ears of corn in a senior citizens garden. Townsend serves on the Inland Manpower Association which allocated funding and Wenger is the West End Multi Service Center garden coordinator. The Ontario center was assigned to oversee the project.

GARDEN SUPERVISOR

Ralph Crowley, supervisor for Chino's "pea patch," cuts weeds from among rows of cabbage which are almost ready for harvesting. The vegetables grown in the Chino garden are taken to the Ontario nutrition center where lunches are prepared daily for some 80 senior citizens in the West End of San Bernardino County.

Chino "pea patch" provides food for local seniors

By L. T. Rogers
Asst. City Editor

Senior citizens in Ontario are enjoying fresh vegetables thanks to a "pea patch" in Chino.

The produce is raised on five acres behind the Buena Vista School and transported to the Ontario Nutrition Center at the First Christian Church.

The vegetables are used in preparing daily lunches for some 80 elder citizens who reside in the West End of San Bernardino County.

First crops were planted early June and the harvesting began during July. Thus far, some 23 bushels of squash, string beans, beets, onions, radishes and cucumbers have been gathered.

Other crops soon to be harvested include corn, cabbage, tomatoes, turnips, eggplant, Swiss chard, chili peppers and bell peppers.

Value of vegetables processed so far is estimated at $300. But program officials believe the garden will yield $7,500 in food by the time the final harvest is completed next month.

The "pea patch" program is funded by the federal government through the Inland Manpower Association and the West End Multi Service Center in Ontario. Some $3,800 was allocated for the first year's operation.

Officials developed the program to provide farm work experience for local youths, and provide free food and gardens for the senior citizens.

Ralph Crowley, a long-time Chino resident, was employed as the garden supervisor. He is assisted by nine youths hired under work experience programs.

The student farmers spend 30 hours a week hoeing, weeding and spraying the vegetables and are paid $2.30 an hour for their labor. Crowley spends about 40 hours a week there.

The Chino vegetables are providing meals for some 450 senior citizens throughout the county.

Although the produce primarily serves the Ontario center, the "excess" is distributed to kitchens as far away as Barstow and Needles.

To celebrate the garden's first yield, its vegetables were served recently to 400 persons attending a "fall harvest festival" at the church.

Visitors to the garden are impressed by the tall, green stalks of corn which ripple across four of the five acres. Silk forming on the ears of corn indicate that picking will start within the next few days.

And the remaining acre is dotted with neat rows of the smaller vegetables. Weeds are noticeably absent, thanks to Crowley and his crew.

Located among the vegetables grown for public distribution are private gardens maintained by Crowley, David Dodds and Yvonne Sears.

They were the only ones to accept plots provided to senior citizens under the "pea patch" program. These are available to West End residents 55 and older.

"Just contact the multi-service center and you can be assigned plots up to 50 by 50 feet," said Crowley.

Officials plan to expand the garden program next year to satellite sites in the Upland-Cucamonga and Fontana-Rialto areas and also emphasize more individuals growing their own vegetables.

In fact, one of the five acres at the "pea patch" will be designated for individuals. To promote the garden, officials plan to contact senior citizens at their social meetings and also seek volunteers to drive the citizens to and from the sites.

The cost is minimal since seeds and water are provided. "And we are here to offer advice and assistance," said Crowley.

The garden supervisor credited much of the program's success to the many residents and businesses which have contributed labor, seeds, materials and advice.

He praised John Anderson and sons, Ricky and Jimmy, for providing seeds and planting the corn. And Carl Anderson gave advice on when and how to fertilize the corn.

Other contributors include Joe Iriberri, who leveled the garden site, Clarence Arvidson, who provided equipment to clear off the debris; B & B and Richard nurseries which donated seeds; Joe Chez who provided seeds and tractor equipment; McCalle Brothers, who donated water pipe; Carl's Welding Service, which welded some pipe; Paul Lukas, who provided sprinkler pipe; and the Chino School District and City of Chino which provided the land and the water.

The "pea patch" project is directed by an advisory committee whose members are John Sugar, Ray Brito, Lee Kirk and Lukas.

Says moderation key to longevity

Claremont woman turns 100 today

Mrs. Roxana Reeves says she is celebrating her 100th birthday today because she has taken life in "moderation."

"I never used tobacco or alcohol," Mrs. Reeves noted in an interview in her room at Claremont Manor, a convalescent home. "I like good food, but I take it all in moderation."

How does she feel to be 100?

"It's just added years and added pleasures," she said.

Mrs. Reeves will celebrate her "centennial" today with a "gala party" — complete with a cake but "not too elaborate."

A long-time Claremont resident, Mrs. Reeves expects to entertain many visitors from the local area. A niece is coming from Laguna Hills and the niece's sister will arrive from Illinois for the festivities.

Mrs. Reeves is proud that she has lived half of America's 200 years. "I'm as well as can be expected and I thank my keeper for that. He has taken good care of me."

Her advice to those who want a long life is to abstain from alcohol and tobacco. "That's pretty hard for some people to do," she noted.

MRS. ROXANA REEVES

"Sesame Street" staff to present library program

Staff members of the Children's Television Workshop, producers of "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company," will present a special program for parents Wednesday at the Pomona Public Library.

The program will show parents how television can be used creatively and educationally for children. It will include a short film. The program will begin at 2 p.m.

On Friday, violinist Bob Parmeter will present the last in his "Fiddling Music" series at the library for children beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Other children's events at the library this week include a bedtime story hour Monday at 7:30 p.m.; preschool variety and crafts Tuesday at 2 p.m.; TV Club Tuesday and Thursday at 4 p.m.; films entitled "Superman" and "Rock in the Road" Thursday at 7 p.m.; and "Tales of Terror" stories told by candlelight Friday at 2:30 p.m.

For information, persons may call 620-2017.

Brown signs police bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A rank-and-file police "bill of rights" has been signed into law by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. despite strong opposition from police chiefs.

The private bill-signing ceremony was Wednesday.

Among other things, the measure prevents law enforcement officers from being forced to take lie detector tests during administrative investigations.

Among those opposing the bill were the police chiefs of San Francisco and Los Angeles, and the sheriff of Sacramento County.

Backers of the bill, whose representatives attended the ceremony, were the Los Angeles Police Protective League, the California Association of Highway Patrolmen, the Peace Officers Research Association of California, and the California Organization of Police and Sheriffs.

Walnut Council to discuss plan

Slope density and land use elements of the Walnut general plan will be discussed by the City Council Monday night.

Councilman Richard Laughter has suggested a moratorium on tract maps until updating of the two elements is completed. He estimates the process will take from six to eight months.

Laughter favors a reduction in the 28,000 population density projection for 1980.

He believes residents of the city favor a low density bedroom community rather than a high residential density and commercial city.

Councilmen also will study a new health service plan for city employes.

Valley bus route changes

A regional bus route serving Pomona and La Verne has been changed to better serve the communities, the Southern California Rapid Transit District has announced.

The route, Line 445, formerly traveled through Pomona and La Verne along Bonita Avenue exclusively, but now also operates on a portion of Arrow Highway.

Buses eastbound on the route now travel on Bonita to White Avenue, go south to Arrow Highway, then east along Arrow to Garey Avenue and back to Bonita. The same route in reverse is used for westbound buses.

The move, said RTD, was made to serve three mobile home parks along that portion of Arrow Highway, as requested by residents.

Line 445 connects the Claremont Colleges and Montclair Plaza at one end with Hacienda Heights. Buses run in each direction about every 30 minutes.

Registration open for Chaffey adult school

Registration for Chaffey Joint Union High School District's fall adult education classes will begin Monday.

Students may enroll in the mobile office behind the Allan G. Smith Educational Services Center on the Chaffey High School campus in Ontario.

Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 982-2101.

A new neighborhood registration service will be available this year. Adults may register this Tuesday at the county library in Montclair and Sept. 1 at the Cucamonga library. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Classes will begin the week of Sept.13 and are available to all adults in the West End regardless of educational background. Programs are designed to help students earn high school diplomas, acquire entry-level job skills and to enrich lives in creative areas.

There is no tuition. However, students must purchase textbooks if they are needed and pay for materials and supplies.

Veterans, by attending four nights a week, may complete high school requirements and receive G.I. Bill benefits.

A wide variety of courses will be offered at 25 locations in the district. Classes held in Montclair will be co-sponsored by the Montclair Recreation Department.

Brochures listing courses and class schedules are available at the adult school office.

City council to discuss Pomona street lighting

Contracts for a street lighting project that will cost property owners $250 each will be up for approval Monday night by the Pomona City Council.

The blocks involved in the project are Russell Place, Elaine Street and the Southern portion of American Avenue, all from Bonnie Brae Street to Mills Avenue; and Bonnie Brae and College Avenue from American to James Place.

Total cost of the project, initiated at the request of property owners, will be about $48,000 — including $10,000 in general revenue sharing funds contributed by the city.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting will include a recommended sale of the city's old parking meters for about $15 a piece to the city of Glendale.

Very old spear is uncovered

PITTSBURGH (AP) — University of Pittsburgh archeologists have uncovered one of the oldest spears found in the Western Hemisphere.

The "Paleoindian projectile point" was unearthed at Pitt's Meadowcroft Rockshelter excavation site in Washington County. It provides evidence that people used the shelter around 14,225 B.C.

Threat to SWP threatens us all

It is a little over three years since the Socialist Workers Party (SWP) filed a $27 million damage suit against the FBI and other agencies and officers of the U.S. government. The suit charges the bureau with carrying out a systematic campaign of harassment and illegal acts against the party, ranging from poison pen letters to planting informers and provocateurs inside the party to burglary.

The case was most recently set for trial in U.S. District Court in Manhattan July 2; it is now scheduled for early next year.

One reason for the long delay is that since the suit was filed, a continuing string of revelations — many of them documented by court-ordered disclosures of the FBI's own files — have been forthcoming to support the party's allegations. Last March, for example, it was revealed that in a six-year period, FBI "black bag" experts had burglarized the SWP's New York office at least 94 times, or an average of once every three weeks.

Unbelievably, and as if enough damage had not already been done to its once proud reputation, the FBI has apparently learned nothing, changed nothing, reformed nothing.

In the latest bombshell, it has been revealed that an FBI informant named Timothy Redfearn stole documents from the Denver office of the SWP on July 7. That is, only five days after the party's suit against the FBI went to trial, the party was again the target of an FBI break-in.

The FBI says that it did not authorize the burglary and that it refused to accept the documents from Redfearn. However, it did not report the burglary to Denver police for three weeks. In the meantime, copies of the documents somehow found their way into its files, and correspondence between Denver and Washington suggests a pattern we came to know so well during Watergate — a decision to "stonewall" the whole matter.

Just a few days ago on television, FBI director Clarence Kelley stated that he had been deceived (he doesn't know who deceived him) into believing that the bureau had gotten out of the burglary business in 1966. He later found out that others had taken place as recently as 1973.

In light of the Denver affair, it would seem that somebody is still being deceived.

It might be one thing if the taxpayers were getting something for their money. But Redfearn's reports on the Denver branch of the SWP over a period of five years contain nothing but useless gossip and rumors and such data as the smoking and eating habits of party members. For this he was paid $400 a month, and despite a record of trouble with the law and of psychiatric treatment, was rated stable and dependable by the FBI.

Not only that, but in all the years that the Socialist Workers Party has been under surveillance — since 1945, according to the FBI; since it was founded in 1938, the SWP claims — neither the party nor any of its members has ever been charged with breaking any law. Would that the same could be said of the Democrats and Republicans.

To be sure, the SWP hopes to replace the nation's capitalistic system with a socialist one, and this may be disturbing, even frightening, to many Americans. But it seeks to do so through legal, electoral means. The 2,500-member party, however, has never received much more than 100,000 votes in a presidential election. That is the extent of its "threat."

The FBI admits that all this is true, but it argues that it has to keep on watching the SWP because sometime in the future, somebody belonging to it might commit a subversive act.

Perhaps we ought to rename it the Federal Bureau of Perpetual Investigation of the Socialist Workers Party.

This is not funny. It is deadly serious. In fighting to vindicate its right to exist as a legally constituted, legally behaving political party, free of official intimidation and harassment, the SWP is defending the political liberties of all Americans.

Take back the good life

Dear Editor:

Mrs. Henning's letter in the forum on August 17 was amusing. That so many can be concerned about bingo in this society is absurd. Are we supposed to support research that it will lead to more serious gambling abuses? Shall we find smaller and smaller things to quibble about while our inability to deal harshly with serious crimes continues to be ignored?

Will we be as reluctant to publish the names of senior citizens busted for bingo, as we are to identify those juveniles who roam our streets (provided by the taxpayers), robbing and beating those old folks trying to have a little fun?

Our city certainly welcomes the revenue brought in by the county fair racing program each year. There are some who would opt to stay in town to play bingo who would otherwise burn our precious gasoline to see the ponies run in nearby Arcadia if given the choice. How many people have ever been convicted of burglary or armed robbery to support a chronic bingo habit?

Popular, however illegal, acts will flourish behind closed doors as long as those patrons desire the action. Being a Christian, Mrs. Henning will surely support a movement "back" to the Ten Commandments. Let the courts and law enforcement agencies get back to their real jobs, and bingo will disappear. People will be walking the streets for enjoyment again, rather than meeting secretly to hide their fears in daring bingo games. Let's take back the good life from those who are ruining it for everyone.

Committees skip budget hearings

WASHINGTON — If a corporation spent its money like the federal government, the business would be bankrupt overnight.

Fiscal reform and "zero-based" budgets are two things Democrats and Republicans agree on this political season. As tools to control federal spending, they have suddenly become articles of political faith, as popular as motherhood and apple pie.

The latest congressional budget reforms have been praised by liberals and conservatives alike. But the changes still haven't eliminated the monetary shell games that have been played on Capitol Hill for years, in fact, they have created some new ones.

In order to meet the strict deadlines of the new budget act, the Senate Appropriations Committee has all but dispensed with one of the most crucial steps in the spending process: public oversight hearings. To camouflage its misfeasance, one subcommittee even went so far as to fabricate an entire series of hearings.

Public hearings, of course, are supposed to give the members of the committee a chance to hear and evaluate expert testimony on government programs. Theoretically, committee members can then make their funding decisions intelligently, separating boondoggles from necessary expenditures.

But it didn't work that way this year. Take the case of the subcommittee that controls a major portion of the nation's domestic spending, the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Warren Magnuson, D.-Wash.

The subcommittee was supposed to examine the President's request for $52.6 billion to run the 20 agencies and their programs. It took the House more than 30 days of public hearings to examine this complex subject. By contrast, the Senate subcommittee held only seven days of actual hearings on the Health, Education and Welfare programs. Two days of hearings were held on the Labor Department budget. Yet they produced a hearing record of six volumes, totaling 4,145 pages.

They are mostly phony. The Senate subcommittee simply took official statements, staff questions, agency replies and printed them up as if a hearing colloquy had actually taken place.

Volume three, for example, opens with the "Tuesday, February 3, 1976" hearings on the National Institutes of Health. Sens Magnuson, Ed Brooke, R.-Mass., and Richard Schweiker, R.-Penn., are listed as present. They were not. Neither were any of the seven witnesses who appear on the pages. Not one "live" hearing was conducted on any health program.

Yet the subcommittee added $491 million to the NIH research budget over and above President Ford's request. That was $215 million more than the House, after extensive hearings, approved.

The subcommittee devoted only one day of "live" hearings to the seven "related agencies" that come under its jurisdiction. It did not take testimony from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, yet $10 million was tacked onto the House allowance. Neither did the subcommittee hold a hearing on Elementary and Secondary Education, but $128.8 million in excess of the House figure was added. That was $580 million more than the White House requested.

In fairness, it must be noted that Ford's budget request was unrealistically low, according to most experts. The House upped the President's request by $4 billion and the Senate, without the benefit of public hearings, added another $1 billion.

Virtually every one of the 13 Senate appropriations subcommittees is guilty of shirking public hearings. The budgets for the Departments of State, Commerce, Justice and the Judiciary, for example, commanded a total of one full day of hearings.

Think on these things

Sometimes our thoughts are as peaceful as a flock of sheep grazing in the meadows. At another time, we allow them to run wild and argumentative and destructive. There are so few times we really try to control our thoughts and they are within our control. Thinking is one of the few things over which we do have control.

It is in our thoughts that we decide the direction of our lives. We meet situations and other persons in whatever manner we have prepared ourselves to meet them. If we think they have power over us then we have no control. If we believe we have power to control our thoughts and then to control our lives, we have the power. We can prove that fact by doing it, by refusing to give control to everything that opposes us.

Religion and the presidency

It was with much wisdom that our nation's founders carefully, constitutionally, surgically separated church and state.

A government-sanctioned religion inevitably eventuates in a government-imposed religion. Unless you separate church and state, one will surely dominate the other.

Neither, however, did the Founding Fathers divorce "God and Country," for to do that is to build your house on sand.

Every President of the United States, from George Washington to Gerald Ford, has affirmed belief in God.

President John F. Kennedy said of his predecessors: "While they came from a wide variety of religious backgrounds and held a wide variety of religious beliefs, each of our Presidents in his own way placed his trust in God."

If there is such a thing as "most religious" of all our Presidents, biographer Josephine Walker nominates Abraham Lincoln. He never belonged to any church, officially. He attended services regularly and prayed regularly.

Thomas Jefferson compiled his own "paraphrased Bible," a volume of the teachings of Jesus; John Adams was both a professing and a practicing disciple, and William McKinley considered Christianity "the mightiest force in civilizing the world."

Interestingly, another President who never officially belonged to any church denomination was nonetheless one of our nation's more devout leaders: Rutherford B. Hayes.

Andrew Jackson did not speak of his religion until after he was out of the White House, fearing such a proclamation might be construed as "politically motivated." After he was out of the White House, however, Jackson confided that he had read three chapters of scripture a day most every day of his adult life. He then joined a Presbyterian church which he had helped to build.

Other Presidents who kept their religion to themselves until after they were out of office were James Buchanan and Franklin Pierce.

President Benjamin Harrison once said, "Prayer steadies one when he is walking in slippery places."

Lyndon Johnson said, "Prayer has helped me to bear the burdens of the office which are too great to be borne by anyone — alone."

Dwight Eisenhower said, "Personal prayer is as necessary to life as food and water — and sometimes more so."

And in a handwritten memo on White House stationery, Harry Truman once wrote out a prayer of petition which he said he had repeated every day since his high school days.

A Life magazine reporter once wrote that the "men who have served in the Presidency have sometimes rediscovered dormant faiths as they were driven by national crises back to their knees."

"But this did not make them saints!" the skeptics remind us.

Perhaps Woodrow Wilson offered the best response to that. He said, "If the world is bad in spite of religion can you imagine what a jungle it would be without it?"

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

There are many of us who wholeheartedly subscribe to St. Paul's advice in his epistle to St. Timothy where he says: "—use a little wine for thy stomach's sake." But even in the fine art of wine appreciation we tend to go to extremes; and when it comes to agreeing on just what St. Paul had in mind, never those extremes shall meet.

In the top echelon, at the very tip of the wine drinking spectrum, are to be found those connoisseurs of the juice of the grape who can perhaps best be described as the Wine Snobs. They are the disciples of wise old St. Paul who would die seven deaths if they were ever caught doctoring their stomachs with any vintage more recent than Chevalier Montrachet '95 or Sparkling Saumur from that best of all vintage years 1908.

From such dizzy heights of taste appreciation we then descend, vintage year by vintage year, to folks like me who definitely qualify for insufferable Wine Slob honors. We are the ones who will invariably be found guzzling Red Ripple, Spring 1976. And it makes no difference that we really like Red Ripple '76, and that as Paul pointed out, it does something "for thy stomach's sake." Our sin is that we admit it. For in today's society, greater sin than this hath no man, that he refuses to pretend he is something that he isn't. — Thus, human nature being what it is, one of St. Paul's greatest claims to fame is probably that he was the fellow who cured our stomachs but raised Hell with our sense of values.

Legislative bill jams

By EARL G. WATERS

Anyone who thinks the two year sessions have smoothed out the legislative process, avoiding the fast shuffles which come with the last minute logjamming of bills, should talk to the County Clerks Association. To say they are unhappy doesn't begin to describe their feelings. Although their initial concern was with legislation altering their jobs, the treatment they received when attempting to present their opposition before the Senate Judiciary Committee has them climbing the wall.

The proposal which bothers them is AB 4071, authored by Assemblyman John Miller but eagerly sought by the Judicial Council. It would permit transferring present county clerk duties to court appointed administrators in most of California's counties. The largest counties already have that authority.

County clerks are, by present law, elective officials whose duties are that of chief election officer, clerk to the Supervisors and, by a constitutional provision, ex officio clerks to the superior courts. Since some counties have reassigned election duties to others, the clerks viewed the bill as another step in making their jobs obsolete.

For that reason they appeared in force to oppose the bill to find it had been scheduled along with 64 others. After sitting from 9:30 a.m. until 10 p.m. the committee adjourned, announcing all unheard bills would be taken up the following week. Returning August 10, again at 9:30 a.m. to find another 72 bills scheduled plus all those carried over from the previous week.

By the time the committee got around to AB 4071 at 5 p.m. that day, not only were the witnesses worn out but so too was the 11 member committee. The only senator remaining to hear their protests was the chairman. Still the hearing proceeded and, despite a legislative counsel opinion stating the provision, stripping the county clerks of their authority, to be unconstitutional, the "committee" approved the bill.

This one man action is made possible by the practice of holding roll calls open. Thus members who were absent during the presentations can return and cast their votes on bills without ever having heard the pros and cons presented by the witnesses.

The chagrin of elected county officials at this treatment is understandable. To say that they were treated no differently from others attempting to be heard as the Legislature rushes headlong through 2,500 bills in the final 30 closing days only compounds the enormity of the conduct.

It dwarfs the issue of AB 4071 which the clerks see as a further grab for power by the judges. In this they were supported by the County Supervisors Association which pointed out the bill gives the court power to employ and set salaries, without the budgetary control normally exercised by the supervisors, yet they must pay the bill.

It gives rise to the long standing controversy regarding financial responsibility for the courts. Superior courts are state courts. But, other than the partial sharing of the salaries of the judges, the state has always shunned responsibility for their costs leaving the counties to shoulder the burden of all expenses, most of which are borne by the property owners.

Whether the courts should have administrators assuming the duties prescribed by the constitution as those of the county clerk is one matter. Hastily legislating to make the change without considering the total financial issue seems irresponsible. Perhaps if the state assumed its rightful costs for the courts the county supervisors would withdraw their opposition, leaving the problem of future duties of county clerks for the counties to decide.

Maybe that office should be eliminated. But there is no excuse for not according them fair hearings in the doing.

Ann Landers

Don't put me in the ground!

Dear Ann Landers: Will you save some additional teenage lives and print that moving column again? I refer to the one entitled "How It Would Be if I Were Killed in an Automobile Accident." Thank you. — Eileen From Scranton Times

Dear Eileen: I've had several requests to rerun that column and I do so today in the hope that every teenager who sees it will put himself in the place of the person who wrote it. Thank you for asking. — Ann Landers

Agony claws my mind. I am a statistic. When I first got here I felt very much alone. I was overwhelmed with grief and I expected to find sympathy.

I found no sympathy. I saw only thousands of others whose bodies were as badly mangled as mine. I was given a number and placed in a category. The category was called "Traffic Fatalities."

The day I died was an ordinary school day. How I wish I had taken the bus! But I was too cool for the bus. I remember how I wheedled the car out of Mom. "Special favor," I pleaded. "All the kids drive." When the 2:50 bell rang I threw my books in the locker. I was free until 8:40 tomorrow morning! I ran to the parking lot — excited at the thought of driving a car and being my own boss. Free!

It doesn't matter how the accident happened. I was goofing off — going too fast. Taking crazy chances. But I was enjoying my freedom and having fun. The last thing I remember was passing an old lady who seemed to be going awfully slow. I heard a deafening crash and felt a terrific jolt. Glass and steel flew everywhere. My whole body seemed to be turning inside out. I heard myself scream.

Suddenly I awakened. It was very quiet. A police officer was standing over me. Then I saw a doctor. My body was mangled. I was saturated with blood. Pieces of jagged glass were sticking out all over. Strange that I couldn't feel anything. Hey, don't pull that sheet over my head. I can't be dead. I'm only 17. I've got a date tonight. I'm supposed to grow up and have a wonderful life. I haven't lived yet. I can't be dead.

Later I was placed in a drawer. My folks had to identify me. Why did they have to see me like this? Why did I have to look at Mom's eyes when she faced the most terrible ordeal of her life? Dad suddenly looked like an old man. He told the man in charge, "Yes — he is our son."

The funeral was a weird experience. I saw all my relatives and friends walk toward the casket. They passed by, one by one, and looked at me with the saddest eyes I've ever seen. Some of my buddies were crying. A few of the girls touched my hand and sobbed as they walked away.

Please — somebody — wake me up! Get me out of here. I can't bear to see my mom and dad so broken up. My grandparents are so racked with grief they can barely walk. My brother and sister are like zombies. They move like robots. In a daze. Everybody. No one can believe this. And I can't believe it either.

Please don't bury me! I'm not dead! I have a lot of living to do! I want to laugh and run again. I want to sing and dance. Please don't put me in the ground. I promise if you give me just one more chance, God, I'll be the most careful driver in the whole world. All I want is one more chance. Please, God, I'm only 17.

"I don't have the time for an over-the-fence chat!"

Dr. Miller

Salt water for healing?

DEAR DR. MILLER: We're planning to spend a lot of time at the beach, and we're hoping the salt water will heal our dog's sore skin. We just read an interesting article on the healing power of seawater, and it seems our dog should benefit. Shouldn't she? — F.R.

DEAR F.R.: Whether seawater soakings would help, hinder or have no effect would depend on the condition of the skin (and the patient under it) and on the condition of the salt water (relative to pollution in particular).

On averages, I'd rate her skin's chances of benefiting from the briny at about 20 per cent, but there'd be a 40 per cent chance that salt solution would do more harm than good. with a final 40 per cent odds that her skin and the sea would come out a draw. For better odds than the briny can provide (albeit less fun), have her doctor come up with the right solution for that skin problem.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What's the least expensive way to treat abscesses on Mr. T., our tomcat? We've already spent a fortune on him and we've got to find a cheaper way. — C.C.

DEAR C.C.: Surgical removal of Mr. T.'s twin "generators" is a one-time, low-priced surgery which might well cut future abscess treatment costs and related medical expenses considerably. Such abscesses, resulting from battlefield wounds suffered by the macho cat, may completely do in the victim.

DEAR DR. MILLER: As a women's libber for all these many years, I've always considered the males of many species to be somewhat superfluous. Now I've found a fish after my own heart. It's called the Amazon Mollie. Can they be kept in a regular aquarium? — K.T.

DEAR K.T.: Predictably, peocilia formosa would appeal to you. She can be kept in a regular aquarium if it's large enough, prefers a temperature of about 75 degrees, and plenty of plants. Whenever the Amazon Mollie is bred, it must be with a closely-related species such as phenops or P. latitinna and, provided pregnancy occurs, the Amazon Mollie produces from 20 to 100 young, ALL of whom develop into females. Amazon Mollies obviously eliminated male competition in any form as far as her own family is concerned. Presumably, though, if she were totally "liberated", she could accomplish all this without having to look up a male of some other species.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're practical up to a point today, but you could do something foolish at the last minute to offset your good efforts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Although the price of something today is inflated, you're willing to pay it. This attitude could cause you to make a costly bad deal.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You have a tendency today to embellish the facts a bit to impress your audience. Boasting doesn't become you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Business opportunities are promising today, provided you don't believe you'll get something for nothing. Fantasy is free, but that's all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're adroit today so long as money's not involved. Where dollars change hands, they're likely to slip through your fingers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be so wrapped up in material things today that you let something uplifting pass you by. Money isn't everything.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today, not everyone who promises will live up to his or her word. The ones who talk the loudest will deliver the least.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your eye will be on the target today. Your efforts will be rewarded. However, you may have to carry some dead weight along.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be content with your lot today. Don't envy something another has. It probably wouldn't provide you with additional happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Avoid talking prematurely today about anything you want kept confidential awhile. A loose statement would defeat your purpose.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb. 19) Your resolve is only mildly firm today. You could be swayed. Don't compromise your ideals.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions look very favorable careerwise, but what you want to attain may take more work than you realize. Don't anticipate.

Ready for a channel swim

ON THE COLORADO RIVER — They were laying bets I'd never get here.

"It's a nine-mile hike from the south rim of the Grand Canyon to the river," said my husband. "On a narrow path lousy with sharp rocks."

"I'll make it."

"The temperature in the canyon this time of year can go to 110 degrees."

"Not to worry."

"The river trip is six days on a rubber raft that crashes into rapids and covers you with water at a temperature of 50 degrees."

"So?"

"So you sleep on an Army cot with no protection from the elements."

"I'll survive."

"You bathe in the Colorado, drink it, and are sometimes nearly drowned in it."

"I'll make it."

"There are no gift shops."

"Are you serious? When do we have to let them know for sure?"

I was kidding, of course. The river had always been my goal. When my toes turned purple and I cut the holes out of my shoes, the odds went up.

When I ate three Granola bars during the first hour and lapped up every bit of water in my canteen, they shook their heads. When I crawled into a cave with heat exhaustion and told them to go on, they gave me that "told you so" look.

I looked longingly at the Colorado River from the shade in my cave. Designed . . . created . . . decorated . . . by God. No mirrors. No reason to suck in your stomach. No cause to yell at the kids to turn the lights off. No electrical outlets to plug in Neil Diamond. A culturally deprived oasis with no Golden Arches, no bumper stickers and no reruns. One of the last places in civilization that time and a two-year-old could not destroy.

I summoned up the only pedestrian prayer I knew from memory: "Please God, send me a mule."

Ten minutes later, a man appeared around the bend dragging six mules with six empty backs.

As the riverboat captain said later, "You're the only person to ever descend into the canyon on foot and end up on her . . ."

Some people get testy when they lose a bet.

Dr. Lamb

Chocolate won't hurt milk

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have heard that some or all of the value of milk is lost if it has chocolate added. Is that true?

DEAR READER — This is pure rubbish. Chocolate does contain fat, lots of calories, and you may be surprised to learn, a certain amount of caffeine. A cup of cocoa contains about 50 milligrams of caffeine. This is about half as much as you would find in normally brewed coffee. I am sending you a copy of The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Others who want this issue can forward 50 cents for it along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband developed a hernia about a month ago. He began lifting weights four months ago. This is the second time he has gotten a hernia from lifting weights. He also has bilateral ureteropelvic junction stenosis. Every six months he is examined for this problem. He had surgery about two years ago on his left kidney.

When he went for his last checkup his doctor said he didn't have to have surgery for his hernia and also that he could continue to lift weights. Will lifting weights cause more damage to the hernia or to his kidney problem? Should he have surgery to correct his hernia? He did have surgery on the first hernia. My husband is 26 years old and in good health otherwise.

DEAR READER — The basic underlying cause for a hernia does not disappear. The torn muscles and ligaments that allow a loop of bowel to slip out do not heal by themselves. This means that your husband will continue to have evidence of the hernia until the torn or defective muscle or tendon area is repaired surgically.

He may get along quite well with the hernia and it may not cause him any trouble. That apparently is what his doctor thinks. Nevertheless, the hernia will be there and the likelihood is it will tend to get larger as the years go by if it is not corrected now. Basically I am in favor of correcting such hernias when they occur in younger life rather than waiting until complications occur or the defect is larger or the individual has gotten sufficiently old or has medical problems that complicate the surgery.

Whether or not weightlifting will contribute to his hernia will depend a lot on how he does it. One can lift weights within reasonable limits without developing hernias if the proper methods are used. I would think your husband needs two things — his hernia repaired and some good instructions by someone who understands weightlifting who will tell him how to do these in such a way as to not unduly strain himself and contribute to hernia formation.

I don't think his weightlifting will have any effect at all upon his kidney problem. The difficulty here is an obstruction or decrease in the size of the opening of the tube that drains the urine out of the kidney to the bladder.

Barbs

Our secretary types 100 words a minute — most of which aren't in the dictionary.

I counsel others, you dish out advice, he's a busybody.

We did NOT say she was a fatty — all we said was that she's "shipshape."

When you put enough money in the bank to get a free toaster, what do you use to buy the bread to put in it?

At 20, you wouldn't miss a party for anything; after 40, nothing would get you to go to most of 'em.

The score for international harmony is usually orchestrated with bank notes.

They call 'em disc jockeys because they spend more time horsing around than in spinning records.

What people say

"In this way, we hope to introduce a new generation of technology, one which will work for man's environment."

"Kissinger walks into (Rhodesia), a country that supplies a vital raw material to the U.S., and tries to tell the people how to govern themselves. That's like someone coming into American 200 years ago and telling us that we have to turn the country over to the Indians."

— George Rinhart, independent candidate for Congress from Connecticut's sixth Congressional district.

Opening lead — Q ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The player who doesn't stop to study the complete hand before playing from dummy to the first trick is going to be mighty sorry with today's hand.

He will go right up with dummy's ace of hearts and study about his next play. He may decide to try an immediate trump finesse by leading dummy's jack. East will cover with the king. Our hero will play a second trump and the 4-1 trump break will leave him just one trick short of his contract.

He may try a diamond finesse. That will lose and again he will be in never-never land.

The thinker will win that first heart in his own hand and play his ace and queen of diamonds. He won't care about the king since as long as the suit breaks better than 6-2 the jack of diamonds will allow him to get rid of his potential heart loser. He will still lose a trump trick but one trick lost in each of three suits won't cost him his game.

Ask the Jacobys

To wind up our answers on point count we want to stress once more that cards take tricks, not points. In valuing your hand late in the bidding, voids and singletons become very important if you have trump control and your opponents are bidding those suits. On the other hand they aren't worth anything for purpose of doubling your opponents if they are in their suits, but will be if they are in your partner's suits.

Best places to find mate

It has been reported repeatedly that Alaska is one of the three best places in the world for a single girl to look for a matrimonial mate. Client asks the names of the other two best places. The Panama Canal Zone and the Falkland Islands. Or so a United Nations survey suggests.

It's a matter of public record, too, that chessmaster Wilhelm Steinitz offered God a one-pawn handicap when he challenged Him to a chess game.

In Great Britain, the graduate biologists have a lot more children than do the graduate chemists, studies predictably show.

EGG LAYERS

Q. "How long does an egg producer keep a laying hen on the job?"

A. Maybe 10 to 12 months, average.

The voice of a bull elk, too, changes in youth. Grown up, he really bellows. But before he hits puberty, he sounds more like some sort of bird.

As for silver during the last 600 years, more of it has gone into spoons than into anything else. Previously, it went mostly into coins.

When we're depressed, objects look darker. Not just figuratively. But really physically darker. Why is that?

Do you realize the average peach tree dies at the age of 8 years?

Far more men than women murder their matrimonial mates.

LOVE AND WAR

A citizen on science has informed our Love and War man that most animals will not mate successfully, if the female wins a fight with the male. The female needs to be somewhat afraid, this scholar avers. Interesting, if true. His point, he says, is that a man with a beard tends to put a woman on her guard, even though such a fellow might not actually frighten her. And this wariness of hers, he says, gives her a readiness for romance, even as in the rest of the animal kingdom.

Now the medical scholars insist their research has proved that people who blink their eyes a lot are prone to anxiety. Roving eyes indicate an impulsive and opinionated nature. And slow eye movements are thought to identify a realistic and practical character.

Glad you asked

Despite the 80 enraged baboons who hurl themselves at a car containing Lee Remick and five-year-old first-time actor Harvey Stephens, despite the vicious dogs which attack Gregory Peck and a photographer in a cemetery; and despite other scenes involving hanging, impalement, decapitation, actress Remick crashing to her death and more, the director insists "It's not a bloodletting film."

He makes clear why he is anti-violence. "I am opposed to violence in its form of man's inhumanity to man. Where gratuitous violence is used as a selling point or something not there to start with. Incidentally," Donner points out, "there is some great music in 'The Omen,' and even some laughs!"

Q: What was the name of that darling dog in the "Our Gang" comedies — the one that had a ring around his eye? — Mrs. Gladys O'Neil, Columus, Ohio.

A: The pup with the black eye was named Pete.

Q: Despite your answer in a recent column that "Gone With the Wind" hasn't been shown on TV in minneapolis yet, a friend in Fridley saw it just the other week. Will you explain, please? — Larry Johnson, Minneapolis.

A: What your friend saw was not on local or network TV. "GWTW" was presented as a pay-TV feature by a cable TV company without commerical interruptions, editing, or cutting. It was only one of eight different "first run on television" movies presented via cable TV in June, we're advised by a company spokesman.

Q: Is it true that Sirhan Sirhan now regrets murdering Robert Kennedy? — Mrs. A.T., Pittsfield, Mass.

A: "I think all I would have needed to do," Sirhan told an interviewer, "was just to give Kennedy a good punch in the nose. I think that would have satisfied me."

Q: One of the topics on panel talk shows lately is wives beaten up by their husbands. One national magazine estimated as many as half a million American women annually suffer this humiliation and pain. Were many of these wives murdered? — Mrs. Singer, Brooklyn.

A: FBI statistics disclose that 1,285 wives were murdered by their husbands in 1974. From the number of these cases in which police had previously been summoned to stop wife beatings, indications are that a high percentage of the wives slain had previously been battered routinely by their husbands.

Q: Are stars sensitive about bad reviews? — Mrs. Myles Larkin, Seattle.

A: That depends on their sense of humor. Take actress-singer Connie Francis, for instance. She still carries a clipping in her purse containing a devastating comment printed in a review about a Navy musical she once filmed. The caustic critic cracked: "This picture is the worst American naval disaster since Pearl Harbor."

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 11748, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Vecinos se manifestan contra almacen grande

Unos 300 colericos vecinos de Chino — muchos de ellos a caballo — se manifestaron el lunes contra el proyecto de construir un nuevo departamento de tiendas.

Estos residentes, quienes favorecen la retencion de una atmosfera rural para la localidad, se enfrentaron a la Comision de Planeamiento del Condado de San Bernardino en el lugar propuesto para un K-Mart, al suroeste de la esquina de Riverside Drive y la Avenida Pipeline.

Miembros de la Asociacion West End Homeowners planearon la marcha pacifica de protesta para que coincidiera con un viaje al lugar de los comisionados condales.

Llevaban muchos carteles de protesta, con letreros que decian: "Country al Heart, Down with K-Mart", y "Stop K-Mart".

Los residentes, que viven en el area entre la Avenida Norton y la autopista Corona, se presentaron en sus cabalgaduras en el lugar alrededor de la 1 p.m. Esperaron hasta que aparecieron los comisionados ante los que presentaron sus quejas.

La Comision celebrara una reunion para escuchar los argumentos el dia 26 de agosto en el Edificio Municipal de Chino referentes al propuesto local para K-Mart y el plan maestro del area.

Anne Leslie, una de las organizadoras de la protesta, dijo que el sitio propuesto para K-Mart esta en una "vecindad completamente rural. La tienda cubrira nueve acres y necesita 500 aparcamientos. Ellos se llenarian cuatro veces por dia — lo que representaria unos 2,000 carros diarios en el lugar."

La Sra. Leslie dijo que la atmosfera rural estaria en peligro. "Si eliminamos las restricciones aqui, ello sinifiria la invasion de apartamientos y otras implementaciones."

"Nosotros no necesitamos un K-Mart — es un gran centro del tipo de mezcolanza interciudades."

Los comisionados condales, entretanto, piensan reconsiderar un plan maestro para cambiar y renovar las zonas que incluyen los 10 acres del lugar destinado al K-Mart en su reunion del dia 26 de agosto. Los ingenieros de la comision condal de planeamiento han recomendado el lugar para uso comercial de menor volumen que no permitiria tiendas de departamentos.

El constructor Jeffery H. Tamkins dice que no hay necesidad de un informe de como afectaria al medio la construccion, y los supervisores estuvieron de acuerdo.

Tamkins dijo que un mercado y otras tiendad serian construidas anexas al K-Mart.

Los duenos de la propiedad que seria vendida para la propuesta construccion de K-Mart estan de acuerdo tambien. Uno de los duenos es Eva Weiszbrod, que fue presidenta del Directorio escolar de Chino y que tiene actualmente una cria de gallinas de postura en el lugar actualmente.

"Podemos elevarnos por nosotros mismos, pero nunca tan altos que pudieramos olvidarnos de aquellos que nos ayudaron a llegar alli." Will Rogers, famoso humorista americano.

The "Boletin del Progreso" appears each Sunday.

Today's "Boletin" includes a picture of two members of a Pomona team participating in a slo-pitch softball tournament in Covina this weekend and articles about a delay in action on a proposal for a six-year bilingual program in the Pomona schools, a protest against a proposed department store in Chino, free notary public service at the Beta Center in Pomona, and the opening of the fall term at Garey High School, Pomona.

The page is coordinated by Peggy Gonzales, PB staff writer. Pedro Sanchez is the translator.

Escuela comenzara el 14 de septiembre

El Senor George H. Bloch, director de Garey High School, ha anunciado que el año escolar de 1976-77 comezara el 14 de Septiembre de 1976 a las 8:30 horas. El 14, 15, 16, y 17, de Septiembre van a ser dias minimas a las 8:30 horas y terminado a las 12:30 horas.

Los nuevos alumnos a Garey High School y aquellos que son registrados que no han recibidos sus horarios de clases son pedides a llamar a Garey 623-5251, extension 342, y hacer cita con un consejero escolar. Los consejeros escolares son de guardias comienzando el 6 de Septiembre de 1976.

Servicios de notario

Servicios gratis de notario publico para la comunidad se iniciaran este mes en el Centro Beta de Pomona para los vecinos retirados, invalidos, estudiantes y personas acogias al Auxilio Social.

Los servicos se prestaran los martes, miercoles y jueves de 2 de la tarde a 9 de la noche por el Sr. Jim Cline, director del Centro.

Los servicios estaran disponibles tambien para ser prestados en las casas de las personas que no puedan concurrir al Centro.

Tambien se registraran votantes.

Para informacion, se puede llamar al telefono 622-1154.

Junta escolar de Pomona pospuso propuesta bilingue

El Directorio Escolar de Pomona pospuso el propuesto programa bilingue de seis años, aprobo tentativamente los planes de excelencia y conducta estudiantil, y ascendio a dos administradores en categoria durante la reunion del martes por la noche.

Los administradores fueron instruidos para que volvieran en septiembre 7 con informacion adicional sobre sus programas bilingues los cuales, como fueron presentados el martes, se concentrarian en el primer grado el curso proximo, costando unos $315,000 y colocando al distrito dentro del minimo requerido por la decision de la Corte Suprema de Justicia en el caso Lau vs. Nichols.

El plan, presentado por Donaldo Thomann, responsable del mismo, fue criticado por Rafael Estupinian, presidente de la Asociacion de Educadores Mejicano-Americanos del distrito, y Rafael Chavarria, presidente de Padres Responsables del Distrito Unificado Escolar de Pomona.

El Sr. Estupinian dijo que su asociacion cree que el plan no sirve los mejores intereses de los estudiantes mejicano-americanos del distrito. El Sr. Chavarria critico la estadistica presentada que identifica 3,000 estudiantes con limitaciones linguisticas necesitados del programa bilingue.

Por votacion de 3-0 (Don Donnelly estaba ausente y Ken Pine se abstuvo), el directorio acepto el concepto de excelencia academica y el plan de conducta estudiantil presentados por el Sup. Sr. Charles Carpenter.

El propuso agregar un nuevo maestro a cada escuela y agregar $2 por estudiante para que cada escuela cubriera las metas indicadas. El estimo el costo de un primer año en $971,000. El Directorio aprobo un gasto de hasta $50,000 "para permitir que el planeamiento se inicie."

El Sidney G. Moses, asistente superintendente del servicio educativo, fue nombrado superintendente asociado y, en adicion a sus deberes regulares, se le asigno a coordinar las funciones de los asistentes de los superintendentes de negocios y servicios de personal.

El Sr. Charles W. Sanders, dean de los estudiantes de la Escuela Superior Pomona, fue nombrado subdirector de la escuela

SO YOUR CHILD WILL NOT FEEL ALONE.

The first day of school. Mom and Dad, what a big day this is going to be for your child. The world out there is so big, so new; filled with so many things your child has never seen or experienced before.

What an important time to have a friend. A friend who understands.

That's why we think the Buddy System is so special in all of our Palo Alto Preschools. It's important to us and we know it's important to you that your child has someone special to share with. Someone who knows all the ropes and all the neat places on the playground.

Of course, there's another side of the coin as well. For the Buddy. Our Buddy System teaches other young children to be responsible. They learn how to share, how to help other people.

That way everybody wins.

And before you know it, Mom and Dad, your child will have learned his way around so quickly that soon he will come home and tell you he was just assigned a new Buddy, too.

Long Island: beginning of a march in 1776

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

For three hours the night before, Aug. 21, 1776, New York had trembled under the cannonade of a deafening summer thunderstorm. Lightning had killed three Continental officers, melting their swords and fusing the coins in their pockets. "When God speaks, who can but fear?" a local newspaper commented.

But as day broke and the puddles among the cobblestones slowly dried, a panorama like no other in the history of America formed along the shore of Staten Island. Ranks on ranks of British redcoats stood on the beach, their bayonets gleaming like a bed of nails. Down from the green hills marched the Hessians in their blue uniforms flanked by the forest green of the jaeger units, and little red pony carts carrying their supplies brought up the rear.

From over 1,000 masts bedsheet-sized battle and signal flags flopped in the early morning puffs. Methodically the troops barded 75 flatboats and 11 batteaux with special landing ramps for the cannon and began ferrying across the Narrows to Gravesend Bay.

On land the Hessians stripped apples like schoolboys from a nearby orchard. A few American solders fired at them, then withdrew, burning hay ricks as they went. It was Aug. 22.

"The rebel army at that time in New York did not consis of more than 20,000 men," recalled the New York jury Thomas Jones; "they were badly clothed, half amed, dirty, lousy and without discipline. Such an army of ragamuffins no general ever commanded." The number of sick amounted to nearly ten thousand.

For fear the British would also try and land on Manhattan, Washington had allotted only 8,000 men to the defense of Long Island and its key gun batteries on Brooklyn Heights guarding the mouth of the East River. He hoped to duplicate his near success at Bunker Hill by intrenching his men, half of them riflemen, in the woods and behind earthworks stretching along the Heights of Guan which ran several miles from Gowanus Creek northeast across Brooklyn.

Any advance would cost the British dearly. The ridge, about 100 to 150 feet high, was heavily forested and crossed by only four roads, one on the west along the Hudson, two in the center of his line at Bedford and Flatbush, and a fourth far on his left, the Jamaica pass. So far, in fact, he had not extended his forces that far.

On Aug. 20 Washington had placed Sullivan in command on his right wing. Sullivan ordered regiments to all the passes through the Guan Heights Aug. 23 except the one at Jamaica. He sent a five man patrol there at his own expense, he said later.

The wise tactical eye of Henry Clinton quickly saw the weakness, however, and proposed a flanking movement by Jamaica pass. That evening, Aug. 26, having left British Maj. Gen. James Grant with 5,000 redcoats to make a feint on the American right with Gen. Philip Von Heister with 5,000 Hessians in the center, Howe and Clinton began sneaking towards Jamaica Pass — as much as one can sneak with 10,000 men and 28 cannon. The column came upon Stirling's five-man patrol some time after midnight on Aug. 28 and took them prisoner.

About 7 a.m., as the sun rose "with a red and angry glare," Colonel Samuel Miles in command of 400 Pennsylvanians on the extreme American left, decided to investigate his strong suspicion that the main British army was making an end run. Although outnumbered, he decided to try to fight through to Brooklyn Heights. Few of his men made it. The rest were captured, including Miles.

Washington, meanwhile, had been awakened by Grant's feint about 1 a.m. and dashed over from New York with reinforcements. "If I see any man turn his back today, I will shoot him through," he cried. "I have two pistols loaded. But I will not ask any man to go further than I do."

As day broke, Grant, reinforced by 2,000 marines, had heard Howe's signal guns in the American rear and was moving up as man-of-war Roebuck gave support from the river.

Haslet's Delaware regiment, one of the few uniformed American units, began firing from the Creek. A colonel of the Hessians, who wore the same color scheme, thought the Americans were Germans firing by mistake on the British. He sent a lieutenant and 20 men to order them to stop shooting. Instead the soldiers were taken prisoner, about the only a.i can pletzathe9ight wuyabll ip was fighting a 'laying act so his men 'asal e$iny0noz;o.p into the drt o the Heights.aa

Col. Samuel Atlee of the Pennsylvania Battalion was cut off and took up a position in an orchard. Eventualy he surrendered to the British.

Joseph Plumb Martin, a Connecticut farm boy of 15, saw the scene from Brooklyn: "The British, having several field pieces stationed by a brick house, were pouring the canister and grape like a shower of hail ... When they came out of the water and mud, looking like water rats, it was a truly pitiful sight.

much remains to be done.

"If unchecked, over $182 million may be spent in fiscal years 1976 through 1980 to develop and operate five federal warning systems. Some of these have overlapping requirements and coverage."

Its studies are exhaustive. In checking into the feasibility of an amphibious Army cargo truck called "The Gamma Goat," it interviewed Army and Marine personnel to come up with no fewer than 26 defects. Some of them: windshield wiper failure, starter failure, exhaust fumes in driver's compartment, windshield breakage when hot defrost air is blown on it, a tendency to drift off road on fast turns, freezing of steering in winter, difficult to load and unload, and finally "should not be used for hauling personnel cross-country."

People like John Anderson just shrug when asked how much they think they have saved the government in the course of a year, or a career. Their work cannot be measured that way.

How, he asked, do you measure the value of a project that he and a GAO team did for Sen. Charles Percy? The senator wanted to know how deeply the federal government was into police, investigative and intelligence work.

"What Senator Percy asked for was data," Anderson says. "He didn't ask for any ways to improve operations. But as a member of the Senate Government Operations Committee, he had no idea, and no one else did either, just how many agencies, and how many people, and how much money is involved ... "

The GAO found 33 departments and agencies spent $2.6 billion in one year to hire 169,625 people to do or directly support police and investigative work. It found morale problems because of salary differences, caused ironically by Congress which frequently gave the police of one agency preferential salary status over another.

And it found wide variations in training, both in the use of firearms and the proper use of the law and power of arrest. It cited the danger: misuse of the law could leave the United States open to costly damage suits.

"Now that data — how could you put an estimate on what its value is?" Anderson asks. "Did that study save us "X" number of dollars? I can't say."

Black and Anderson both find the work extremely satisfying. They admit they may not stay forever, but right now they like what they do because they consider it important, and it has variety. It goes much further than commercial accounting.

Mostly it's police work without a culprit. If there are signs of wrongdoing, the case usually goes to the Justice Department for pursuit.

"One thing that's always amazed me," says Black, "is you realize how big this government really is. You know, somebody's liable to be spending $200 million on something that you never heard of."

Miss Junior Teen Contest, show set

Montgomery Ward at Montclair will present its annual back to school fashion show combined with the Miss Junior Teen contest Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Wendy Ward Charm Studio at the store.

Theme for the show is "We've Come a Long Way, America." The background will present past school trends and the young girl models will present current school trends. All ensembles to be modeled will be from the Ward Junior Reflections department, the Crossroad department and Boys' department of the store.

Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of Miss Junior Teen, Montclair. The girls will be judged on coordination of wardrobe, good grooming, personality and poise, speaking ability, and most important, an essay on "What I like best about America, and My Ideas for a Better America."

The contest is a search for an all around teen and not a beauty contest. Judges will be Mrs. Leslie Weed, a professional model and licensed cosmetologist; Miss Dagmar Reinhardt, Los Angeles professional model; Mrs. Mary Remillard, Family and fashion editor for the Progress Bulletin; and Richard M. Gorow, manager of the Montclair store. All applications for the contest must be turned in to the Wendy Ward director, Helen Tessier, at the Montclair store by Aug. 25.

Mrs. Tessier will be the show commentator. Featured in the Back to School portion of the show will be Sandy Walker, Charmaine Cantrell, Kathy Navarro, De Ana Hernandez, Paula Lent, Dala Anderson, Kathy Kaufman, Lori Brennon, Tammy Dulaney, Shelly Lewis, Jenifer Harris and Jody Pannone. These girls have all completed the Wendy Ward charm and modeling classes and are now in the Pacesetter Model Club.

The club members have put together several production numbers featuring back to school clothes.

MISS CASTLEBERG

WIC unit meeting scheduled

When members of Pomona Valley Chapter, National Association of Women in Construction, meet at 7 p.m., Thursday, plans will be discussed for the national convention in Philadelphia in September.

Delegates from the local chapter will be Mmes. Joanne Hobo, president; Anita Abrams, president elect; Betty Genung and Pat Graham. Alternates elected are Mmes. Anne Thornburg, Deloris Whelchel, Vickie Bohnstedt and Oneta Biddie. Also attending will be Mrs. Peggy Rhoades and Mrs. June Phillips.

At the Region 12 conference, Pomona Valley chapter was awarded a second-place ribbon for the chapter's construction project headed by Mrs. Thornburg. Project committee chairman for the region is Mrs. Ruth Vinatieri of Pomona chapter.

Committee reports will be given during the evening. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Genung, 622-5403, or 981-1018.

CARRIE WHITTED

December nuptials planned

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Whitted of La Verne announce the engagement of their daughter, Carrie Lynnette, to Walter Walker of La Verne.

The bride-to-be is currently employed at Clark Drugs in La Verne. She is a 1975 graduate of Claremont High School.

Mr. Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walker of La Verne, attends Mt. San Antonio College and is employed at Clark Drugs in La Verne. He is a 1975 graduate of Bonita High School.

The couple will be married Dec. 18 at Our Lady of the Assumption Church in Claremont.

Lamaze film charted

The Lamaze method of prepared childbirth will be the subject of a film and panel discussion to be held Aug. 30 and Sept. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Queen of the Valley Hospital and auditorium.

The program will be sponsored by the American Society for Psycho-Prophylaxis in Obstetrics, Los Angeles, a non-profit educational organization whose aim is to meet the growing demand for information regarding prepared childbirth.

Former Pomonan to marry

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Castleberg of Santa Barbara, formerly of Pomona, announce the engagement of their daughter, Gloria, to Fred A. Werbe of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The future bride is employed as assistant classified personnel director at Santa Barbara City College. Her fiance is president of Southwest Grease and Oil Co., Pittsburgh.

Miss Castleberg graduated from Pomona High School and Mt. San Antonio College.

Dancers schedule activity

The Turnagin Square Dance Club has scheduled a dance at 8 p.m., Saturday, at Palomares Park.

Jim and Rosemary Bess will teach the round of the month at 7:30 p.m. and will cue the rounds during the evening.

Caller for the dance will be Bob Baxter. The event is open to all square dancers.

Richard Lowes mark 50th year

Two celebrations marked the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Lowe of Claremont.

At a buffet supper party for 50 friends the couple was honored in the home of a daughter, Miss Linda Lowe, in Riverside.

The following day a family dinner party for 40 relatives was held in the home of a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Bennett Jr., in Riverside. Assisting the Bennetts were another son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. John Preece of San Antonio, Texas.

Members of the original wedding party attending the anniversary celebration were Mrs. Harold Loveland and Mrs. Thomas Crosby, Riverside.

In addition to their three daughters, the couple have three grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The Lowes were married Aug. 13, 1926, in San Bernardino and lived in Riverside before moving to Claremont 26 years ago.

Mrs. Lowe was at one time president of the Claremont Girl Scout Council and treasurer of Southern California Girl Scout Camp Site Committee. She was involved in starting the Girl Scout Day Camps at Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. She is presently treasurer of the Claremont Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mr. Lowe has been associated with Hanawalt's, a pioneer contracting firm since 1949. He is a past president and a past district governor of the Association of 20-30 Clubs a past president and charter member of Montclair Rotary Club and a former DeMolay. He is a member of the Masonic and Elks lodges. The Lowes are members of the Epicopal Church.

Revealing adoption

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Fourteen years ago, we adopted two children and as soon as they were able to understand, we told them they were adopted. That was about all of it. We preferred to drop the subject there and the children didn't question us. Now, the situation has changed. Our daughter became very interested in knowing about her biological parents, and as a result, our son has also become curious. My husband and I don't quite know what to do. Should we tell them what we know even if it isn't pleasant? — T.T.

Dear T.T.: It's quite natural for children to want to know about their biological heritage and I believe you and your husband should not be upset by your children's curiosity. Many authorities today believe that both children and their adoptive parents benefit from honesty. Of course, how much honesty and how many details depend upon the child's age and his interest.

According to Dr. Arthur Sorosky, parents have to take the initiative. He feels that by the time a child is 6 or 7, he should know something about the nature of his birth — that his "birth parents" were unmarried, if that's the case, and why they had to put him up for adoption. This helps to defuse what can be so shrouded in mystery that the child later becomes obsessed with his search for identity.

Dr. Sorosky warns that lies, when discovered, can lead to rage in a grown child. It's relatively easy to accept that his parents weren't married and that they, therefore, felt they couldn't keep him. It's harder to accept abandonment.

If you have told your children something that wasn't true in an effort to protect them, it's not too late to candidly admit this and correct yourself now. Don't assume that because your children are curious, they don't love and appreciate you!

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: How can you break a child of lying? I have two children, 4 and 7, who stretch the truth whenever they can. I don't know how they think up the extravagant stories, but there seems to be an endless supply. To me, it doesn't seem all that serious, but their father becomes quite angry over each new tale. The last time this happened, he sent them both to bed without supper. — V.P.

Dear V.P.: It's difficult to say what would help without knowing the kind of distortion or misrepresentation. For instance, some children, especially very young ones, enjoy creating fantasies and then trying them out on adults to see how they react. Some even create their own special friends with the tools of imagination. I see nothing wrong with this. It merely reveals an active imagination and may also clue the wise parent in on the fact that his child is probably bored or lonely. One solution for this, if it's disturbing to parents, is to try to find friends the child's age, so he won't feel the need to introduce unreal playmates.

Some children make excuses that may be extremely elaborate because they are afraid of being punished. This kind of lie is more dangerous because it indicates that parents are setting up unrealistic standards of behavior and are putting too many pressures on their children to achieve. The punishment the child fears may be a form of psychological punishment, a fear of being rejected by his parents, or it may be actual physical punishment.

While we're on the subject of punishment, I strongly disapprove of using food for rewards or punishment. No child should ever be sent to bed without his dinner unless there are medical reasons. This is cruel and can create many emotional problems that will surface later.

Long Island march . . .

Many of them were killed in the pond and more were drowned."

Those were the men of Smallwood's Maryland Rifles, an elite unit clad in hunting shirts and white three-cornered hats. Washington watched them through a spyglass: "My God! What brave fellows I must this day lose!" Only 10 of his men managed to escape.

In the center, the Hessians began the day with the belief, implanted by the British, that the Americans gave no quarter to prisoners. So neither would they. At the Guan Heights they advanced on the American sharpshooters. The rifle took much more time to load than the musket and the Americans broke and ran "as all mobs do," said one German officer. "These riflemen were mostly spitted to the trees with bayonets," said Colonel Von Heeringen. Some 600 American bodies were found after the battle in what was called for years "The Wood of Horrors."

In the entire battle of Long Island, the Americans had lost 1,076 prisoners by Sir William Howe's count while he had suffered 94 dead and 283 wounded. It was a glorious victory for which Howe was later awarded the Order of the Bath. He could well have ended the war right then. But he didn't.

Why he didn't still arouses argument.

Howe told a Parliamentary inquiry in 1779 that the weather was too hot, and his men would have become diseased. "I would not risk the loss that might have been sustained in the assault," he wrote.

Alexander Graydon, one of the Americans shivering behind the flimsy dirt of Brooklyn, gives the best answer: "Sir Williams's generalship rather savored of caution than enterprise."

And his was an 18th century generalship trained in European strategy where occupation of land was the goal. During the course of the Revolution the British occupied at varying times all five of America's principal cities. Yet they lost. Howe never learned that the only way Britain had a chance in a land war was annihilation of Washington's army.

For his part, Washington had shown that faulty generalship was not a British monopoly. But there was one glimmer of the Washington who was to evolve. Before the battle he had ordered "all the small craft along the shore, consisting of hay boats, canoes, batteaus and floats to be seized, taken away or deposited in particular places under proper guard."

Cal-Vet loan legislation bill advances

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Legislation to exempt the former wives of veterans from interest penalties on Cal-Vet home loans has won the state Assembly's approval.

The bill by Sen. John Dunlap, D-Napa, won a 44-7 vote.

It was supported by women's groups, and opposed by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

But there wouldn't be an exemption in all cases.

It is SB 1712.

Don Sutton sharp

Progress Bulletin
Sports
Pomona, California ■ Sunday, August 22, 1976

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It was the right pitch," Don Sutton said of the fastball that Dave Parker whacked for an eighth-inning homer, ruining Sutton's perfect game. "But it was in the wrong location."

Sutton allowed only one more hit to the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday night, as the Los Angeles Dodgers went on to beat the Pirates, 5-1, for their sixth straight victory.

"I knew what was going on around the fifth inning," Sutton said, speaking of the potential no-hitter. Though he did not get his first no-hitter, he said he was pleased with his performance, perhaps the best of his career.

"I can't remember throwing that many good pitches exactly where I wanted to," added the Dodger right-hander.

Sutton, 15-9, retired the first 22 Pirates in order before Parker ruined the perfect game with his eighth homer of the season, deep into the rigth field pavilion.

In the same inning, Rennie Stennett reached base on an error and Manny Sanguillen doubled after two were out for the only other Pirate hit.

It was the seventh two-hitter for the 31-year old Sutton in his 11-year career. The Dodger right-hander, who has tossed four one-hitters, has won eight of his last nine decisions.

The Dodgers backed Sutton with a nine-hit attack that included Steve Garvey's two-run homer in the fifth off loser Bob Moose, 3-8.

Run-scoring singles by Dave Lopes and Bill Buckner in the third inning gave Los Angeles a 2-0 lead. Sutton singled home the Dodgers' third run in the fourth inning and then Garvey hit his ninth homer of the season in the fifth.

Buckner, who had three singles, made a diving catch of a fly ball by Richie Zisk to end the seventh inning and keep Sutton's no-hit hopes alive. Until then the closest thing to a hit was a ground ball by Bill Robinson that Ron Cey gloved going to his left to make the putout.

It would have been ironic had Sutton pitched a no-hitter against the Pirates. Less than two weeks ago, John Candelaria of Pittsburgh no-hit the Dodgers.

There were 42,235 fans at Dodger Stadium and many of them headed for the exits when Parker crashed his homer. Sutton's last one-hitter was Apr. 15, 1975, when Johnny Bench of Cincinnati slugged a seventh-inning homer.

Sutton has been a hard-luck pitcher of sorts, never winning 20 games, finishing with 19 victories twice, in 1972 and 1974.

Sutton faced only 30 batters, three over the limit. All the baserunners came in the eighth inning.

SLIPPING THROUGH

Ram runningback Lawrence McCutcheon slips his way through a pack of Oakland Raiders during first half of game at Oakland Coliseum. Monte Johnson (38) slides off the speedy Ram.

Massengale blows lead, tied by Snead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Rik Massengale had just blown a two-stroke lead with a double bogey on the 17th hole, had fallen back to a tie for the top but looked his questioners in the eye.

"What do you want me to say?" asked the young Texan.

"I'm happy to be where I am. I'd rather be leading than back behind trying to catch up."

The complextion of the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament changed with speed of summer lightning Saturday. Massengale, whose consecutive 65s had set the pace through the first two rounds, looked over a six-foot putt on the 16th hole that would have given him a three-stroke lead and put him in position to run away with the tournament.

But he missed the putt. And one hole later he was tied for the lead with big, easy-going J.C. Snead, who was notably unimpressed with the shift in fortunes that staked him to a share of the top spot.

"I don't care about that," said Snead, a former pro baseball player and a five-time winner on the pro golf tour. "I don't wish anybody any bad luck. Let 'em all play good."

Then he paused and grinned.

"Just let me play a little better."

Snead had a two-under-par 69 in the steamy, muggy heat and tied Massengale with a 54-hole total of 200, 13 under par on the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course which, as usual, yielded some of the lowest scores of the year. The leaders' total matched the lowest three-round score of the year.

Massengale, who had led the first two rounds with a pair of 65s, could do no better than one-under-par 70 in Saturday's third round. The double bogey was the key to the whole thing. He missed the green to the left, chipped well beyond the pin and then three-putted, missing from about 1½ feet on the second one.

It appeared to be a two-man race for the title.

"I can't shoot good enough to catch those guys," said Lee Trevino, whose 66 lifted him into the group tied for third at 204. Also at that figure, four shots back, were Chi Chi Rodriguez, Al Geiberger, Mac McLendon and Bobby Wadkins. Wadkins had a 67, Geiberger and Rodriguez 68s and McLendon a 69 in the muggy heat.

At 205, eight under par and five shots back, were Hubert Green, Barry Jaeckel, John Schlee, George Archer and Gay Brewer. Jaeckel shot 66, Green 67, Archer 68, Schlee 69 and Brewer 70.

Masters champ Ray Floyd had 67-207 and Arnold Palmer, who received a standing ovation when he marched to the 18th green, could do no better than a 74-212.

Massengale, a softly-drawling Texan who scored his only victory in six years of tour activity last season in the Tallahassee Open, had a one-shot lead when the day's play started, birdied two of his first three holes with a chip to four feet on the second and a 10-foot putt on the third.

"I wasn't thinking about another 65," he said, "but I had a chance then to shoot a real good score."

But he made par on the next 10 holes, then birdied the 14th from about 15 feet. He had a chance to go three strokes in front with a six-foot birdie putt on the 16th, but missed it, then blew the two strokes he had with the disaster on the 17th.

Rams score comeback

OAKLAND (AP) — Los Angeles coach Chuck Knox praised his Heisman Trophy back John Cappelletti's running as a major factor in what he called the Rams' "real good win" — a 23-14 victory — Saturday night over the previously unbeaten Oakland Raiders.

"Cappelletti had a great night running, and we wanted a good running game," said Knox. "Both quarterbacks did a good job as did the young offensive line. We went both weak side and strong side."

The Rams, now 4-0 in National Football League preseason play, outrushed the Raiders 206 yards to 85. Cappelletti carried 11 times for 71 yards to lead the individual ground gainers.

Cappelletti, who scored two touchdowns, credited blocker Cullen Bryant for "a heck of a job...the whole line just blew them out."

Raider coach John Madden said, refering to Carl Garrett's 96-yard touchdown return of the opening kickoff, "We started off with a bang, then it seemed every time we got moving penalties hurt us. But that's no excuse. The Rams are a great defensive team.

"I was disappointed that the Rams ran as well as they did," Madden said. "We wanted to stop their run and run ourselves."

James Harris passed for two first-half touchdowns and completed 11 of 18 for 161 yards, giving the Rams a lead they never surrendered.

Both teams went into the nationally televised game before a sellout crowd of 52,615 with 30 preseason records.

In the nine-play 80-yard drive that sent the Rams ahead 13-7 with 14 seconds left before intermission, Harris completed 5 of 6 passes for 71 yards. He capped the invasion with an 11-yard payoff strike to John Cappelletti for the first of the running back's two touchdowns.

Ron Jesse got the other Harris touchdown pass just 3½ minutes earlier with a fine running catch of a 21-yarder to complete a 50-yard drive.

Tom Dempsey, who missed the extra point on the first touchdown, kicked a 41-yard field goal in the third quarter to increase the lead to 16-7.

Cappelletti, 1973 Heisman Trophy winner from Penn State, added to the winning margin with a five-yard sweep around the left side midway through quarter.

Ron Jaworski was at quarterback for the 72-yard drive and put the ball in scoring position with a 13-yard pass to Bob Klein and a scrambling five-yard run.

Garrett, whom the Raiders got from the New York Jets after training season started, took Dempsey's kickoff and headed upfield to his left, then veered right behind a wall of Oakland blockers to scamper the last half of his long run without a challenge.

That was the last time the Raiders hit paydirt until the start of the final quarter when Mike Rae, who replaced Ken Stabler at quarterback for the second half, engineered a 12-play, 79-yard drive. It ended in a bullet pass down the middle to tight end Dave Casper for 18 yards and a touchdown.

Rae, former USC star who came to the NFL this year after three seasons in Canadian football hit five of six passes in the drive, two for first downs to Jesse Phillips and a 12-yarder to Casper on the play before the touchdown.

The Rams came close to scoring after taking the kickoff following Garrett's stunner but their drive bogged down after a march to the Raider 12 and Dempsey missed a 29-yard field goal attempt.

Torres' homer paces Angels past Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Rusty Torres cracked a solo home run in the 10th inning to give the California Angels and relief pitcher Mickey Scott a 4-3 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday night.

Torres—a former Yankee who was hitting .181 entering the game—belted his fifth homer of the year, victimizing reliever Dick Tidrow, 4-3. Scott improved his record to 2-0.

Gary Ross went 7 2-3 innings for California before running into trouble in the eighth and leaving in favor of Scott, who retired Chris Chambliss to end a mild Yankee threat.

California opened the scoring against Yankee starter Dock Ellis in the first inning. Jerry Remy singled, stole second base and scored on Tony Solaita's single.

The Angels increased their lead to 3-0 and routed Ellis in the second. Bob Jones singled and later scored on Dave Chalk's single. Chalk moved to third on Dave Collins' single.

Then, with Remy batting, Collins stole second and Ellis unleashed a wild pitch permitting Chalk to score. Ellis was replaced by Grant Jackson who retired Remy to end the inning.

The Yankees tied the game in the fourth on Oscar Gamble's 14th home run of the season, a three-run shot.

The Yankees got successive one-out singles by Chris Chambliss and Carlos May in the fourth before Gamble's homer into the right field stands. Aside from the three successive hits in the fourth, Ross permitted only an infield hit by Roy White over the first six innings.

California loaded the bases on singles by Chalk, Collins and pinch-hitter Tommy Davis against Jackson in the seventh but the Yankee reliever struck out Solaita, ending the threat.

Ellis lasted only 12-3 innings before New York Manager Billy Martin removed him in favor of Jackson, who went 5 2-3 innings, allowing six hits but keeping the Angels from scoring. He was replaced by Tidrow with one out in the eighth.

Forum will screen fight

Tickets, priced at $25, $20 and $15, are now on sale at the Forum for the closed circuit television showing of the Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton heavyweight title fight.

Ali and Norton hook up in their third meeting Tuesday night, September 28 in New York Yankee Stadium.

Additional outlets showing the bout in black and white includes the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, Cal State University at Fullerton, and the Fox Pomona Theater.

New NHL team tabbed Rockies

DENVER (AP) — The new Denver franchise in the National Hockey League has been named the Colorado Rockies, team officials announced Saturday.

Sportscaster Bud Palmer and oilman Jack Vickers said last week that all legal problems which may have blocked efforts to bring major-league hockey to Denver had been resolved.

West Covina in Colt title tilt

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Bob Bufano hurled a five-hitter and Tom Brunansky cracked a double and homer Saturday night as West Covina, Calif., advanced to today's final of the Colt League World Series with a 9-1 rout of the host Lafayette team.

The California team, which broke the game open with five runs in the third inning, faces Tampa in the final.

Renee's tennis takes a back seat

TOUGH GOING

Dr. Renee Richards holds her hand to her head during women's singles match Saturday against Cathy Beene in the Tennis Week Open. Despite circus-like atmosphere, Richards beat her opponent 6-0, 6-2.

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — "I just want to prove I am human—not a two-headed person," Dr. Renee Richards, the woman who once was a man, said after a winning debut Saturday in the $60,000 Tennis Week Open tournament.

The tall, eye surgeon from Newport Beach, Calif., weathered a circus-like atmosphere at the staid, 80-year-old South Orange Tennis Club for a 6-0, 6-2 victory over Cathy Beene, 24, of Houston.

Her appearance became a national event, bringing in television cameras and writers from many out-of-state cities for the occasion.

The South Orange Club, where the ancient game of bocci still is played on the green lawns, was tossed into temporary confusion as hundreds gathered for a look at the Yale graduate who changed sex a year ago.

Dr. Richards, who formerly was rated in the top 10 in Eastern 35-and-over ranks among men, was a prominent New York Ophthalmologist as Dr. Richard Raskind.

She appeared for her center court match attired in a white tennis dress with blue horizontal stripes on both the dress and panties, which showed under a ballerina skirt. She wore gold earrings. When she drove up to the clubhouse, built in 1896, with friends, she was beseiged by a cordon of ballboys and scores of cameramen.

She engaged one of the ballboys in conversation.

"I said, 'Hi' to her and she asked, 'Are you going to ballboy for my match today?'" said Jim Sharkey, 13, of South Orange. "I said 'Yes' and she replied, 'That's nice.'

"She talked in a very husky voice. I thought she would talk like a woman but she talked like a man. It was scary."

Dr. Richards, 6-feet-2 and 145 pounds, played very well in the first set but tired visibly in the second, requiring salt tablets during court changeovers. Once in the fifth game of the second set she dropped her raquet on the court and left it there.

"I was physically exhausted," she said afterwards. "But I still intend to pursue tennis, and I think with tournament competition I can hold my own with the best women players."

Dr. Richards filed an entry in the U.S. Open Tennis Championships, starting Sept. 1 at Forest Hills, but was told she would have to take a chromosome test—a scraping of the inner cheek—as would all other women players. She said she would not take the test.

Meanwhile, the Women's Tennis Association, headed by Chris Evert, said it would boycott the tournament if the transsexual is permitted to compete.

After the match, Dr. Richards said her immediate objective "is to pursue my rights to play in women's tournaments because it is a right I am entitled to as a woman, like any other woman."

She said legal action to gain entry into the U.S. Open was still possible, but she said she planned to "continue to apply for various tournaments." Dr. Richards said she planned to accept an invitation to play in the Australian Open.

A few tournaments in southern California are next on her schedule.

Dr. Richards, who lived in New York when she was Dr. Richard Raskind, said tournament officials in California "are all supporting me, which is an ironic thing, since I've only lived there for eight months.

"They have embraced me totally, whereas back East, with the exception of South Orange, I've been denied the right to play at Forest Hills, and I was brought up in Forest Hills," she said.

In reply to a question, Dr. Richards, who stands 6-foot-2, said her message to the women who refused to play here was "that they shouldn't be afraid of me as a two-headed monster nor as a giant-killer that can't lose to other women.

"I've lost to other women before. I'm a normal woman just like they are," she said.

Twenty-five players boycotted this tournament but a field of 22, largely players of lesser ranking, elected to stay in. One of these, Cathy Hoerter of Seal Beach, Calif., formerly ranked fifth nationally, said that she thought it was wrong for women to make a judgement in Dr. Richards' case.

"This should be left up to a committee and not to the women themselves," she said. "Renee is a very impressive player. She has the independent body movement of a man but she has the lack of stamina of a woman. I don't think she could beat Chris Evert or any of the top players."

Miss Beene, 24, former collegiate women's doubles champion, agreed, but said she had mixed emotions about whether Renee should be admitted into women's tournaments.

"It would set a precedent," she said. "It isn't that she is too good for the women but that other male players might see in it a chance to undergo a similar operation and make a lot of money."

Miss Beene said she was beaten more on her own errors than on Dr. Richards' play.

"Starting the match, I was sure I would win," she said. "But then I got so nervous I threw the match away. I still think I can beat her. Chris, Evonne Goolagong, Virginia Wade and the others would have no trouble with her."

Miss Beene was so nervous she served 11 double faults in the match, made countless unforced errors and got just six points in the first set.

Dr. Richards, on the other hand, used her superior height and reach to good advantage, served hard in the earlier stages of the match and displayed a crackling top spin backhand. Her anticpiation and court coverage was excellent until she tired in the second set.

U.S. baseball team to train at Claremont

Members of the United States All-Star amateur Baseball Team were named today by Dr. Joe Record, Phillips University, head coach for the 18 player squad. The team will represent this Country in the World Baseball Tournament to be held in Taipaei, Taiwan beginning September 17.

Record and his assistant coaches, Bill Arce, Claremont-Mudd, Joe Russo, St. John's, New York, and Bill Griffin, Panola Junior College, Carthage, Texas, scouted over 300 players since June to select the tournament team.

The squad will assemble August 30 on the campus of Claremont Men's College. They will play several practice games throughout Southern California during the following week. They will culminate their practice session September 5, with a game against a minor league all-star team of the California Angels at Anaheim Stadium. The seven inning game will follow the afternoon Angels-Oakland American League game.

Prior to the 18 country world tournament, the squad will make a goodwill tour of South Korea. Five games have been scheduled for that country for American Military personnel and Korean.

"This is one of the finest American amateur teams ever assembled," Record said. "It has an excellent blend of speed, pitching and power.

The squad will depart Los Angeles September 7, and return September 27.

Lone local player on the squad is La Verne College catcher Tim Burzette. Other California players include pitcher Rod Boxberger of USC and shortstop Oswald Smith of Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo.

Rounding out the team are catcher Bill Foley (Clemson), pitchers Bob Welch (Eastern Michigan), Mickey O'Connor (St. John's), Scott Sanderson (Vanderbilt), Bob Sherwood (Washington St.), Mike Arlatta (Miami-Dade) and Joe Beckwith (Auburn).

Infielders are Pete Van Horn (Arizona U.), Don Schmitz (Eastern Michigan), Mark Naehring (Miami of Ohio) and Neil Fiala (Southern Illinois). Outfielders include Jeff Brown (Air Force), Bob Hamilton (David Lipscomb), David Caldwell (Clemson) and Steve Winfield (Panola J.C.).

Oak Tree dates set for 'Anita

ARCADIA — The Champions, a $350,000 invitational handicap, and three traditional $100,000 races top the $1,025,000 stakes program announced by Director of Racing F. E. (Jimmy) Kilroe for the autumn Oak Tree meeting at Santa Anita Park.

The 15 stakes will span the 23-day (Oct. 8-Nov. 7) season, the eighth meeting presented by the Oak Tree Racing Association. The Champions, which will draw its field primarily from winners of 50 major North American stakes, is the focal point of the stakes program on the next-to-last day of the meeting, Saturday, Nov. 6. It is a one-mile and one-quarter handicap on the main track.

Also an invitational race is the $100,000 Oak Tree, for 3-year-olds and up at a mile and one-half on Santa Anita's unique Camino Real turf course. The Oak Tree will be run on Sunday, Oct. 24.

A pair of $100,000-added juvenile stakes at a mile and one-sixteenth are the Norfolk on Sunday, Nov. 7, and the Oak Leaf, the latter restricted to fillies, on Sunday, Oct. 31.

Fillies and mares will be attracted to the $50,000-added Las Palmas Handicap, a nine-furlong turf test on Oct. 30. Another $50,000-added stakes is the Carleton F. Burke, for 3-year-olds and up at a mile and one-quarter on the turf, on Oct. 10.

Eight of the 15 stakes are on the grass at Oak Tree. In addition to the above, they are the opening day fixture, the $30,000-added Autumn Days Handicap (about six and one-half furlongs) for fillies and mares of all ages; $30,000-added Volante Handicap (nine furlongs) for 3-year-olds on Oct. 9; $35,000-added Khaled Handicap (one and one-quarter miles) for 3-year-olds on Oct. 17; $30,000-added Morvich Handicap (about six and one-half furlongs) for all ages to be run Oct. 27; and $30,000-added Henry P. Russell Handicap (one and one-quarter miles) for 3-year-olds and up which have not earned first-place money of $15,000 in 1976, set for Nov. 3.

On the main track, 2-year-old fillies can prep for the Oak Leaf in the seven-furlong $30,000-added Anoakia Stakes on Oct. 13, and the $30,000-added Sunny Slope Stakes at the same distance on Oct. 20 is a steppingstone for juveniles headed for the Norfolk.

Completing the Oak Tree stakes schedule are the $30,000-added Linda Vista Handicap (a mile and one-sixteenth) for 3-year-old fillies on Oct. 16, and the $30,000-added Alibhai Handicap (a mile and one-sixteenth) for 3-year-olds on Oct. 23.

SAVE THAT DATE — Bullpeners Rollie Fingers (left) of Oakland and Angel Dick Drago, both "save" specialists, agree with Goofy to save that date, Labor Day, for the Angels-Disneyland Fun Day. Fans purchasing special combination tickets may delight in a unique entertainment bargain for Angel 1 p.m. game and Disneyland visit.

Broncos begin grid training

A force of 75 Cal Poly, Pomona football troops begins a three-week tour of duty today with "basic" training on the grounds of Coronado Naval Base near San Diego.

It is a tour that eventually sees the Broncos battle Cal State Fullerton in the season opener Sept. 11 at Kellogg Field.

Leading the troops for a third year is head coach Andy Vinci, who says he is "enthused and ready to begin play.

"This is the first time in two-and-a-half years that we can actually see the kids get ready for the season this early," said Vinci.

Vinci has 29 returning lettermen from the 1975 squad which went 6-4-1. He is particularly excited because of the return of starting signal-caller Leo Costa.

"This is the first time in eight years that I have had a returning quarterback," Vinci noted. "I'm very happy that it is Leo, because he is an excellent team man. He is a strong runner," Vinci said about the 5-11, 175-pound Costa, who completed 51 per cent of his passes last year in compiling 1,304 passing yards for 10 touchdowns.

Also returning is tailback Ron Jones, the Broncos' leading rusher last year, although playing in only five of the 11 games due to an injury. He totaled 720 yards in 105 rushes (6.9 yards per carry) with six touchdowns and "should definitely surpass the 1,000 yard mark easily in 1976," the coach predicted.

Costa and Jones are just two of 11 offensive starters and seven defensive starters returning from last year's team.

Vinci believes that training on the naval base, instead of on campus, will be generally more advantageous to the preparation of the team.

"The team will be in an isolated situation," he explained. "We should be able to concentrate on football with few distractions."

The training season lasts for three weeks, with the team spending all weekdays at the base. They will live in a dormitory on the naval facility. They will spend weekends during this period at home.

Other home games for the Broncos besides the contest with Fullerton include clashes with San Francisco State (Sept. 25), United States International University (Oct. 23), Cal Poly San Luis Obispo (Nov. 13), and University of Puget Sound (Nov. 20).

Training season also will prepare the Broncos for important confrontations at UC Davis (Sept. 18), at Mississippi State (Oct. 2), at North Texas State (Oct. 9), at Northern Arizona (Oct. 16), and at Cal State Northridge (Nov. 6).

All home Bronco games are played at Kellogg Field (on the Cal Poly, Pomona campus) Saturdays beginning at 7:30 p.m. Admission charge is $2.25 for adults, $1.00 for students with an ID card, and 75 cents for children under 12 years of age.

Pearson wins pole

CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — David Pearson, winner of six of eight races at Michigan International Speedway since 1972, will start on the pole position in today's Champion 400 Grand National stock car race by virtue of a sizzling, record-breaking qualifying run.

Pearson zoomed around the high-banked two mile oval Saturday in his white and red Wood Brothers prepared Mercury at an average speed of 160.875 miles per hour, almost three m.p.h. better than the record he set in 1974.

Cale Yarborough, who had turned the fastest laps in Friday's practice, settled for third starting position, behind Buddy Baker, whose speeds picked up dramatically from Friday. Baker averaged 159.875 in his Ford and Yarborough's Chevrolet was at 159.546.

Lennie Pond surprised for fourth place with a speed of 158.593. Next were Richard Petty, pole winner here for a race in June, Bobby Allison and Dave Marcis—all above the previous track record.

"Man it was out of sight," said Pond. "I feel like anytime I start in front of Petty I'm ahead of the game."

The first 20 qualifiers were bunched within 1.7 seconds of each other, despite Pearson's edge.

Pearson, who won a duel with Yarborough, Allison and Petty here in June, said, "We don't change too much to run here each time. The Woods have a good idea how to set up a car for this track.

"Still, I think I could have gone faster if I hadn't gone into the first turn so hard on my best lap. The car started sliding and I had to let off for just a second to regain control."

"We're not in bad shape in comparison to anyone else but Pearson," said Allison, still looking for his first victory this season. "He's been head and shoulders above everyone else all season and he looks like he's not about to slow down."

Canada Cup hockey slated for PBS TV

NEW YORK (AP) — The Public Broadcasting Service announced Friday that it has acquired the rights to televise the upcoming Canada Cup hockey tournament.

The international series will include the Olympic championship team from the Soviet Union, the world champion Czecholsovakian squad, Canada, the United States, Sweden and Finland. The United States and Canadian teams are made up largely of players from the National Hockey League and World Hockey Association.

PBS said it will televise seven games of the series, beginning with the USSR-Czechoslovakia game Sept. 3. Other games to be televised include Canada-USA, Sept. 5; USSR-USA, Sept. 9; USSR-Canada, Sept. 11; and playoff games between the two teams with the best records Sept. 13, 15 and 17.

USC looks for comeback

LOS ANGELES — They've only been away for one season, but USC's Trojans would like to go back to the Rose Bowl — as quickly as you can say John Robinson.

"We should have a good team," says Robinson, the new USC coach. "Heck, we have a chance to have an outstanding team. Every player who comes here expects to be a champion. Our goal is to be a champion again."

Robinson and the Trojans start pursuing their goal Monday when two-a-day practices begin at 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. As usual, the players will work in shorts the first three days, before donning pads on Thursday to begin contact work.

An enthusiastic, optimistic man of 41, Robinson is no stranger to USC or success. When he moved to USC from Oregon the first time back in 1972 he served as offensive coordinator for the only team ever chosen unanimous national champions. In three seasons as John McKay's offensive coordinator (1972-74), Robinson was associated with teams that went 31-3-2, won two national championships, marched to three Rose Bowls and averaged 32 points a game.

Last year John was offensive backfield coach for the Oakland Raiders who went to the AFC title game.

Although the Trojans lost four straight games last year after a 7-0 start in McKay's final season, Robinson has a big win to build on and a flock of talented, experienced players to build with.

The big win came in the Liberty Bowl, where Heisman Trophy candidate Ricky Bell led USC to a 20-0 blitz of Texas A&M, the nation's leading defensive team.

And the experience? Including the unanimous All-American Bell, the Trojans return 14 starters — eight on offense and six on defense — and 28 lettermen. Only 14 lettermen and eight starters have graduated.

"Our players were not happy about what happened last year," says Robinson, "and their intensity in spring practice was tremendous. So I see similarities between this team and the one in 1972. That was also a hungry veteran team with a lot of guys who didn't play as well as they should have as juniors. But we do have tangible problems this season:

"We have to get effective performances from our quarterbacks, particularly in our passing game. Last year the quarterback position was a failure.

"We have to rebuild the weak side of our offensive line. Our starters at weak tackle, weak guard and center are all unproven.

"And we must replace both of our inside linebackers and half of our secondary.

"We've got a lot of work to do. All of USC's losses last season can't be blamed on psychological reasons."

By "psychological reasons," Robinson refers to the aftermath of McKay's late-season announcement that he was leaving to coach Tampa in the NFL. The Trojans were 7-0 at the time, ranked fourth, had a 28-game Pac-8 unbeaten streak, 25-game home unbeaten streak — and didn't win again until the Liberty Bowl.

In truth, however, injuries also caught up with USC. In 1976, the Trojans lost 14 starters for at least one game, six of those for the season. Still, three of their four losses were by a total of just seven points.

Led by Bell, the entire offensive backfield returns, but because of uncertainty at quarterback and in the offensive line, Robinson says his defense must be good right away.

Senior quarterback Vince Evans goes into fall as No. 1 — he had his best game in the Liberty Bowl — but Vince, a powerful, quick runner, must improve his passing to hold off junior Rob Hertel, who directed victories over Iowa and Washington State when Evans sat out with a thumb injury, and junior Walt Ransom, a JC honorable mention All-American selection who led East Los Angeles JC to a 16-2-2 record, before being injured in the ninth game of his sophomore year.

Returning are senior fullback Dave Farmer, who boasts a 7.4 career rushing average and started the first two games before breaking a leg, and junior fullback Mosi Tatupu who started the last 10 and was USC's No. 2 rusher with 425 yards and a 5.2 average.

There's an interesting fight behind Bell for the No. 2 tailback job with the candidates including four juniors — 1974 California JC Player of the Year Lynn Cain; Dwight Ford, a 9.6 sprinter who has averaged 5.7 yards on 57 USC career carries; Rod Connors, a 46.2 400-meter man and 6-10 high jumper; and Kurt Hollmer, who can also play fullback. Injuries could be a factor. Cain had knee surgery late last season and was held out of spring contact.

Also back are both of last year's starting wide receivers, junior split end Randy Simmrin and senior flanker Shelton Diggs. Simmrin, USC's leading catcher with 26 for 478 yards and an 18.4 average, had at least one reception in every game. Diggs, knocked out late in the season with shoulder surgery, has a 22.7 career average per catch.

Senior strongside tackle Marvin Powell, a first team All-American, and senior strong guard Donnie Hickman, also blessed with great ability, are the two starters back in the offensive line.

The six defensive starters back include senior second team All-American tackle Gary Jeter and his tackle sidekick, junior Walt Underwood who was second team All-Pac-8; and senior outside linebackers David Lewis and Rod Martin, USC's first and third leading tacklers respectively.

Other starters back are senior rover Clint Strozier — a second team All-Coast pick who had five interceptions — junior inside linebacker Mario Celotto and senior cornerback Ron Bush. Celotto and Martin are counted as one returning starter, since Mario started the first half of the season (at outside linebacker) before knee surgery, and Martin the last half.

The Trojans also have a potentially great kicker, senior Glen Walker, who does all the punting, place kicking and kicking off. Glen kicked eight field goals and averaged 39.3 yards a punt last season.

Life rough in minor leagues

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — Two months ago, Tim Glass was a celebrity in his hometown of Springfield, Ohio.

Fresh out of high school, he was the No. 1 draft choice of baseball's Cleveland Indians. He signed a hefty $50,000 bonus.

The bonus is now in the bank, earning interest. Tim Glass is now in Batavia, in western New York, earning less than $600 a month. He's sharing a room with two others, riding buses to Elmira, Newark, Niagara Falls, Oneonta and Auburn.

He's playing baseball in places called Dwyer Stadium and Colburn Park before crowds of 1,000 instead of in Municipal Stadium before an audience 45,000 and national television cameras.

Welcome to the New York Pennsylvania Baseball League.

There are 150 Tim Glasses in the six-team New York-Penn League, 25 per club. Few were rewarded with the kind of bonus Glass received. But all are motivated by the same goal—working their way up to the major leagues. Twenty, at most, will eventually make it.

The NY-Penn is the first step.

"We're basically a rookie club, but we're not a rookie league," said John Jakubowski, general manager of the Batavia Trojans, the only charter member left of a league that started in 1933. It's the oldest operating Class A league in professional baseball.

"This league," said Trojan Manager Jack Cassini, "is a lot of players' first introduction to professional baseball. It's their first time away from home. They learn to wipe their own nose here."

They also learn about the game of baseball. You're either shaped up or you're shipped out in the NY-Penn League. There is no place to go down.

The NY-Penn League season doesn't open until late June, after the major league draft in early June. Most of the draftees signed by the Indians are sent to Batavia. The 25-man Trojan roster lists only nine second-year players. Two strikes is all you get in this league.

The average age of the players is 20. The average salary is $575 a month.

The season lasts only two full months, enough time to play a 70-game schedule. "A lot of the fellas here," said Cassini, "had no spring training. They're coming straight out of high school and college. They come here and we determine how far they can go and where they'll play next year."

Glass is a catcher. He got a fat bonus but is struggling with a .190 batting average. "I'm off to a terrible start," he said. "But I'm getting my confidence back."

There are three catchers on the roster. Glass plays every third game. "It's tough not playing regularly," he said.

He played regularly in high school. A power hitter, he batted .459 with 36 RBI and 12 home runs in 27 games his senior year.

"I was surprised I was drafted No. 1," he said. "They offered me a good bonus and I wanted to get the experience, so I signed."

Prices hit summer skids

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices skidded to their lowest point of the summer this past week amid some doubts about the outlook for corporate profits.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks fell 16.12 to 974.07 for its biggest weekly decline since early April.

The average's close Friday was its lowest since it finished at 964.39 on June 10.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock average dropped 1.88 to 102.37, and the New York Stock Exchange composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks was down .98 at 54.71.

Big Board volume remained sluggish, averaging 16.80 million shares a day against 15.32 million the previous week.

The focus of concern was the government's report Thursday that business earnings registered their smallest quarter-to-quarter rise in five quarters for the April-June period.

Brokers said the news compounded concern over recent signs that the economy's recovery from the recession had slowed down.

It also sent some analysts back to their electronic calculators for a review of their previous optimistic profit forecasts for the full year.

Another source of caution was the word from Korea of the killing of two U.S. officers. On Friday an American aircraft carrier was reported getting ready to head for Korean waters in what an official described as a precautionary move.

The market itself supplied some discouraging news when it faltered once again at the 1,000 level in the Dow Jones industrial average.

The Dow touched 1,001 early in Wednesday's trading, but sellers moved in immediately, and the average embarked on a straight-line drop of more than 25 points through the end of the week.

Among the week's biggest losers was Hewlett-Packard, which took a steep drop on Friday.

The company reported lower earnings for the quarter ended July 31, and announced, among other things, that its pocket calculator business operated at a loss in the quarter.

General Dynamics also fell sharply in Friday's activity. On Thursday the Security and Exchange Commission said it planned to look into matters relating to a ship contract General Dynamics has from Burmah Oil.

Gap Stores, which joined the NYSE list only a few weeks ago, also sold off after the company posted a quarterly loss.

The weekly tally of NYSE-listed issues showed 585 gainers and 1,233 losers among the 2,068 traded.

New highs for the year came to 159 against 79 new lows.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped 2.01 to 101.79.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was down 6.2 at 313.5.

Bob Dole's wife considers giving up her FTC job

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The selection of Sen. Robert Dole as President Ford's running mate has precipitated something of a family crisis — whether his wife should resign from the Federal Trade Commission.

Elizabeth Hanford Dole has been on the FTC since 1973, when she was appointed for a seven-year term by President Nixon. That was two years before she married the once-divorced Dole.

With her husband now the Republican vice presidential nominee, Mrs. Dole — who says she is a political independent — will be expected to campaign with him.

That has raised questions about two possible conflicts of interest in view of Mrs. Dole's role on the panel that regulates competition in advertising and business.

If Dole were elected, he would be in line for the presidency and his wife would be an appointed federal official. In addition, the campaign will be financed with federal money and Mrs. Dole, a federal official, would be involved in the campaign.

When Mrs. Dole was asked Thursday whether she would resign, she replied, "I don't know yet. It's something I'm considering."

Meanwhile, the White House is checking the legalities of the situation.

Mrs. Dole, born Mary Elizabeth Hanford 39 years ago in Salisbury, N.C., is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Duke University, where she headed the student government and won honors in political science. She has both a law degree and a masters degree in education from Harvard.

She came to Washington during the Johnson administration as a staff assistant to the assistant secretary of health, education and welfare. She subsequently left that post for private law practice.

In 1968, she joined the President's Committee on Consumer Affairs as associate director for legislative affairs. She was later named executive director and then became deputy director to Virginia Knauer when that committee became the Office of Consumer Affairs.

Business briefs

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The General Dynamics Corp. says there was absolutely no fraud involved in seeking federal loan guarantees for five large tanker ships being built in its shipyard here.

Questions arose over the financing since the ships are to be used by a British firm, Burmah Oil Tankers Ltd., to transport liquified natural gas from Indonesia to Japan.

Foreign companies are not eligible for federal financial assistance.

The ships will be owned by Cherokee Shipping Corp. of Delaware, which is eligible for federally backed loans.

Cherokee plans to lease the ships to a subsidiary, which in turn will charter them to a subsidiary of Burmah Oil.

The New York Times reported Thursday that the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Federal Maritime Administration and a congressional committee were all investigating the transactions for possible fraud.

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Two Vail Associated Inc. officials on Thursday urged stockholders not to offer any shares to the Texas-based Goliad Corp. until more information is available concerning possible alternative offers at a higher price.

Goliad, owned by Vail Associates director Harry W. Bass Jr. of Dallas, has issued a tender offer for $250,000 shares of Vail Associates stock at $12 per share, effective Aug. 16. The offer expires Sept. 3.

In a letter to the company's stockholders, Chairman Peter W. Seibert and President Richard L. Peterson said the board of directors felt Vail stock was worth "significantly" more than Goliad was offering.

The board has directed management to seek alternative offers, the letter said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — California and Hawaiian Sugar Co. has agreed not to claim that the granulated sugar it processes from Hawaiian cane is superior to other sugars, the Federal Trade Commission said Thursday.

C&H and its advertising agency, Foote, Cone and Belding-Honig Inc., both of San Francisco, signed a consent agreement in which they promised to refrain from the practice but did not admit to any prior wrongdoing.

A phenomenon of her time

Exploitation of Jayne

By CAROLA KAPLAN

Jayne Mansfield and the American Fifties, by Martha Saxton. Houghton Mifflin Company, $8.95.

Viewed from the perspective of the Women's Movement, Unisex, the Pill, single parents families and Masters and Johnson, the fifties look like a particularly peculiar period in America"s sexual history.

(Carola Kaplan is associated professor of English at Cal Poly Pomona)

A time of big families and determined domesticity, its sexual fantasies and excesses were most fleshily embodied in the movies' sex symbols, notably Marilyn Monroe and, more grotesquely Jayne Mansfield.

That the fame of a Jayne Mansfield was a phenomenon which could only have been produced by a bizarre time is the thesis of this book.

As Sexton points out, Mansfield was neither especially talented nor beautiful. Yet she suited a period in which women pretended to be stupid and infantile and in which professed to want women who were sexy but "nice" and mindlessly available.

Having made this point about Jayne Mansfield as a cultural phenomenon, the book has little more to say. To view any human being as a phenomenon rather than as an individual is necessarily reductive and potentially boring, especially if, like Miss Saxton, one has nothing new to say about the period of history which one's subject supposedly represents. And such an approach rules out the possibility that the person may be interesting in her own right.

Yet Mansfield is a potentially interesting subject. Saxton indicates that she was a remarkably shrewd, ambitious, self-disciplined woman whose humor enabled her to see through the hypocrisies of her time and to promote her own success by capitalizing on them. That she became the victim of the fantasies she herself fostered is, at least, potentially poignant — especially if the biographer allows us to see this process in operation. But Saxton either does not know enough about Mansfield or is too unwilling to go beyond editorial commentary to do so.

A further problem in the book is that Saxton herself does not know how she feels about Mansfield. In general, vaguely sympathetic, at times she is gratuitously nasty. In fact, the book is filled with cheap wisecracks at Mansfield's expense — remarks which in the fifties would have been termed "catty."

In all, this book adds nothing to our knowledge of the American fifties or of Jayne Mansfield. Both deserve better.

Last of trilogy matches others

By K. M. MORSBERGER

CHILDREN OF DUNE. By Frank Herbert. G. P. Putnam's Sons. $8.95.

For those who have already read Frank Herbert's "Dune" and "Dune Messiah," the conclusion of the trilogy is a long and eagerly awaited event.

Herbert's saga of a desert planet has become a classic of science fiction; and for those who have followed the story thus far, it is enough to say that the concluding volume is as fascinating as its predecessors.

The necessary references back to the beginning of the story are sometimes not quite enough to explain what is going on in "Children of Dune," though they are a bit intrusive for those who have read "Dune." Yet only a handful of writers have had the power to create an entirely convincing world, and Herbert's "Dune" is in a class with Edgar Rice Burroughs' Mars, Baum's Oz, and Tolkien's Middle Earth.

Not only has Herbert created an entire planet, with a complex ecology, philosophy, religion and customs all formed by desert conditions, but a galaxy for this planet, remote from ours in time and space. Within this world moves a complex and fascinating group of characters, and their story is full of suspense and action in the grand sword-and-sorcery tradition.

The ideal approach to Herbert's work is to read the trilogy nonstop. Readers without the time or inclination to do so will find "Children of Dune" an intriguing introduction to the planet, and may well then want to read the others, for there is much more to the "Dune" trilogy than "what happens next."

Report on PET falls short

By JOAN OVERTURF

THE PSYCHO SQUAD by William W. Crain, Saturday Review Press, $7.95.

(Joan Overturf is a Claremont marriage and family counselor)

Books

The day-to-day activities of the psychiatric emergency team (PET) of a Los Angeles County Mental Health Clinic are sketched in this series of vignettes by Crain, a psychologist member of such a team.

An elderly lady, naked inside a see-through raincoat, and a possibly armed young man behind a closed door are the type of disturbed person to which the psychiatric emergency team respond.

The PET program was instituted in 1969 as a part of the Lanterman-Petris-Short Act which gave the local communities responsibility for care of their mentally disordered citizens. The aim of LPS was to insure the civil rights of the individual by preventing unnecessary involuntary hospitalization. Only those in danger of harming themselves and others or so gravely disabled that they could not care for their basic needs were to be hospitalized involuntarily.

Liberally laced with sex and humor, the sketches are meant to entertain and to acquaint the reader with behavior which can cause a person to be labeled "mentally ill." The more poignant drama of the struggles of an individual to maintain sanity is not touched on but left to the reader's imagination and sensitivity.

An adventure in salvation

Deprogramming lost children

By N. C. POLOS

LET OUR CHILDREN GO, by Ted Patrick with Tom Dulak. E. P. Dutton. $8.95.

This little book is Ted Patrick's own story of his crusade against the cults. Patrick's business is rescuing brainwashed American youth from sinister "religious" cults via a technique called "deprogramming."

Tom Dulack is a novelist ("The Stigmata of Dr. Constantine") and playwright. He also teaches English literature in an eastern university. Together they have recorded their experiences and openly described the Mansonesque stories of cult life, and their fight to combat the evil influence.

The question which arises is whether Patrick is a kidnaper or a samaritan? In a way this is a moral adventure story with enough scary charisma and drama of the psychic encounters to make the reader burn with outrage and suspense. The Patrick is both kidnaper and samaritan since he enlists the aid of the parent, snatches the youth off the streets, and then takes the subject to a hideout to "deprogram" them.

(Nicholas C. Polos is professor of history at La Verne College)

The youth that Patrick refers to are young, white and middleclass college students, many of them bright and intelligent, who vanish overnight (without a trace) and resurface later with a changed personality.

What happens apparently is that in a short interim these young American men and women become disciples of a score of pseudo-religious groups proliferating across the country today — Hare Krishna, the Children of God, Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church, and others.

It is Ted Patrick's main mission in life to rescue these young people who he claims are victims of "ego destruction."

Patrick claims that the "cults are guilty of the most cynical economic manipulation of their members."

He presents a most convincing argument, and his descriptions of young people ensnared by mind control signing over their property and lives to con men they have been duped into believing are the Messiah make for an exciting document which alerts the reader to the cruel exploitation of our people.

It is difficult for the reader to understand the grotesque life inside the cults or, to try to make sense out of the nonsense of intelligent young people begging in the streets 20 hours a day to enrich the cult chiefs while these youth live on garbage, sleep on floors, suffer from the cold or even mental break-downs.

This book goes beyond the surface horror of "Helter-Skelter," to probe the cult movements with their frightening implications in America.

The format of the book is simple — a prologue, 11 short chapters and a postscript. It is the postscript that contains the key to Patrick's philosophy, i.e., that the brainwashed of the cult must be "deprogrammed" if they are to return to their former life-styles.

In the Postscript while thinking out loud Patrick gives a series of observations on Patty Hearst (at the invitation of the Hearst Family) which may be valuable in understanding both Patrick's basic beliefs and the Hearst Affairs. This book could be taken from the "twilight zone," but your library might not find the cost "out of this world" for its behavioral science collection.

Report on American poets

The 'Chosen Ones'

By SAMUEL I. BELLMAN

AMERICAN POETS IN 1976. Edited by William Heyen. Bobbs-Merrill, $9.95.

William Heyen, the editor of this interesting collection of one man's "chosen" assemblage of fine, meritorious contemporary American poets —a mini-Hall of Fame which includes the judge himself — is professor of English at New York State's SUNY at Brockport.

He has taken over 140 poems from his own writings and the writings of 28 other "chosen ones," and packaged them with a full page black and white photograph of each author, and a longish personal essay explaining what the individual writer has been attempting, as a poet.

(Samuel I. Bellman is professor of English at Cal Poly, Pomona.)

Some of the "contributors" (as poets and autobiographical essayists) are prizewinners, some are more than merely interesting. In the chaotic welter of In-Groups ploys and gambits that today represents the American Poetry Establishment's marketing program, it seems, we have to be satisfied with "choice" after "choice" of carefully (i.e., strategically) selected authors who can be depended upon, in their turn, to do more of the same. Reciprocation is the sincerest form of flattery.

One very fine contemporary poet, — George Starbuck, is not represented, in fact Heyen's overall pattern, considering who did get in and who didn't, seems illogical.

Despite the quality of some of these writers' works (William Stafford especially) there does not seem to be much going on in contemporary poetry: there is still too much self-indulgence, too much credence in the proposition that any random thought is a building block of a mighty important poem.

William Carlos Williams could get away with saying that "A poem is a machine made of words," but times have changed.

This is Square One. We must move beyond Square One, or the game will be over before it begins.

La Verne's finances look better

La Verne College is showing encouraging signs of stable financal footing, according to President Armen Sarafian.

The two most encouraging signs are a balanced budget for 1976-77 with a $100,000 built-in surplus approved by the trustees and a 36 per cent increase in freshman enrollments over last year. Graduate school admissions to summer sessions were up 30 per cent, aiso.

But, Sarafian added, two major hurdles still remmain.

The first involves a $500,000 mortgage for the Supertent due at the end of the year. Also, the college is continuing its efforts to negotiate a settlement with federal authorities concerning the cancellation of almost $1 million in payments for the LVC's off-campus veterans programs from last year.

A new federal contract to bring educational services to Federal Aviation Administration employes has been signed.

Curriculum expansion has been offset by increased enrollments. A new journalism department created last winter will branch out into electronic media this fall. A science institute which allows students study at local, state and federal levels has been successful, according to the president.

Fund raising is underway for the new law center which will be built in Sneaky Park, just east of the present campus. The law school is accredited by the California Bar Association and accreditation is anticipated by the American Bar Association once the school moves into its own building, officials said.

Alumni donations are up 65 per cent this year over last year, with overall giving up 30 per cent. The total number of donors increased by 600 persons this year, according to Steve Morgan, director of development.

Last spring's "phonathon" had a goal of $50,000 but went over the top by almost 70 per cent with $84,000 pledged.

Chaffey high schools look for space

Under the leadership of new schools Supt. Mike D. Dirksen, the Chaffey Union High School District is gearing up to serve an estimated 13,000 students this fall, a marked increase above the 11,804 enrolled in June.

Largest growth area in the district is Alta Loma where 26 portable buildings are being moved on to the campus this summer. Seventeen of the largest portables are being combined to form six classrooms and an exercise room. The remainder will be used for toilet facilities, storage area and classrooms. Cost of the project is $338,975.

Another $67,000 in construction on six separate projects has been offered to bidders. These include an outdoor science lab, security fencing, physical education lockers, completion of the public address-intercom-fire alarm system and additions to a girls' gym.

Construction is to convert the old administrative center into a business education building now is complete. Tower Hall, renovated as an administrative center, this summer was renamed the Allan G. Smith Education Service Center, honoring Supt. Allan G. Smith who died June 26, four days before his retirement was to become effective.

One major program change, and according to Dirksen probably the most exciting, will be the new scheduling method to be adopted at Montclair High School under the direction of Principal Dean Smothers

Scheduling a six-period day, students will spend two hours a day in each of three classes, then the following day spend two hours in each of the remaining three classes.

This plan, which has total staff support, will give students opportunities for greater concentration and more in-depth research in their subjects.

Chaffey district administers five regular high schools, two alternative schools and a small school for the educatably mentally retarded.

Included are Ontario and Chaffey highs in Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Alta Loma highs, Valley View and Mountain Avenue Alternative schools, and the Chaffey Training Center, which this year will meet at Buena Vista elementary School in Ontario while the center is being enlarged.

Chaffey district covers a 200-square-mile area and receives students from nine elementary districts within its boundaries, as well as the private and parochial schools.

These elementary districts are Ontario-Montclair, Upland, Alta Loma, Central in Cucamonga, Cucamonga, Etiwanda, Guasti, Mountain View and Mt. Baldy.

O-M District expects 15,500

The Ontario-Montclair School District expects an enrollment of 15,500 when school starts on Sept. 13.

This is just a few more than the 15,428 enrollment this spring in the district's 30 schools, according to Supt. Jack J. Jones.

During the past few years, the district closed three schools which were constructed prior to 1933 and did not meet the earthquake standards. These schools were not replaced.

During the past year, the district completed the construction of the Lincoln Development Center for the Handicapped on the site of the old Lincoln School.

The center for the handicapped will be in full operation this fall, Jones said. The district also operates the Cypress School for orthopedically handicapped students and the Linda Vista School for the trainable mentally retarded.

A large school district, the Ontario-Montclair district extends from Mills Avenue on the west to Vineyard Avenue on the east and north to Arrow Highway and south to Walnut Avenue. In addition to the cities of Ontario and Montclair, it includes some county area.

The district has not planned any major changes in programs in the classrooms other than the expanding of services to the handicapped.

Accidentally kills spouse

DOS PALOS (AP) — A man shot and killed his wife, apparently by accident, in their home here, the Fresno County Sheriff's Office has reported.

Robert Calvert, 26, told deputies he was taking a gun down from the attic when it fired accidentally, striking his wife, Sharon, also 26. She was pronounced dead on arrival at Dos Palos Hospital.

A sheriff's spokesmen said all indications are that the shooting was accidental.

POMONA — This building at 1540 W. Second St. is the Pomona Unified School District's newest high school campus. It is undergoing some interior remodeling in preparation for the Park Avenue High School student body in September. District administrators anticipate the name of the new school will be shortened to Park High School.

Pomona schools to open September 14

Pomona Unified School District, serving Pomona and north Diamond Bar, will open Sept. 14, with enrollment projections calling for a third-month peak of 20,260 in kindergarten through 12th grade.

This would be a 100-student increase over the third-month peak last year of 20,166. Former acting schools Supt. Sidney G. Moses said an opening day attendance of 18,640 is projected because eight per cent of those enrolled fail to show up on opening day.

A new superintendent, Charles C. Carpenter, heads the district this fall. He reported full-time Aug. 1.

The student body of the Park Avenue Continuation High School will move into its new building at 1540 W. Second St. in September. A nearly $1 million expansion program will get underway at Garey High School, and a multi-purpose facility has been approved for Armstrong Elementary School in Diamond Bar.

Major program changes approved by the school board include a counseling and guidance program at four elementary schools, Alcott, Golden Springs, Madison and San Jose, and language development programs at Arroyo, Hamilton, Lexington and North San Antonio elementary schools, Lorbeer, Marshall and Simons junior highs and Pomona High School.

The implementation of academic excellence and firm discipline policy adopted by the school board will bring about change, as will recommendations made by the State Management Review Team, the Affirmative Action Committee and the bilingual education program requirements.

Moses said the development of complete bilingual programs in the district will definitely be given high priority.

Hinging on board approval, there also may be established a Spanish language institute for employes, a marked expansion of the Children's Center program and the special education program.

Eight elementary school principals have been reassigned for fall, and a new one is to be assigned for Harrison Elementary School. Pomona High School also is to have a new principal to succeed Joe Andrews.

This district administers 21 elementary schools, six junior high schools, three regular high schools and the continuation high school.

Three elementary and one junior high school are in Diamond Bar. The remainder are in Pomona.

The district health clinic at Hamilton Elementary School is open to administer immunizations to children. The service is free to children from low-income families. Others are asked to pay on a sliding scale.

Not warlike

Switzerland has not participated in armed conflict since the end of the Napoleonic wars in 1815.

On June 29, 1776, the Virginia Convention in Williamsburg adopted a written constitution which provided for a bicameral legislature, and independent judiciary and a governor. Patrick Henry, brillant orator of the House of Burgesses, was elected the first governor of Virginia. The World Almanac relates.

Company giving

American companies currently give 1.1 per cent of their net pre-tax income to charitable causes, The Conference Board finds. Current corporate giving is put at about $2.3 billion a year. Most of these funds go for health and welfare (such as the United Fund) and education (college scholarships and various grants). A lesser amount goes to cultural centers, museums and the performing arts.

Home safety tips

"Better late than never" may be an adage that applies to most situations, but when it comes to your family's safety, you should not put off decisions.

Follow the tips in this alphabetized home safety primer to help make your home a safer place to live in:

Avoid storing food and household products in the same cabinet.

Be sure to secure rugs and carpet edges to avoid slips and falls.

Cleaning agents can be dangerous. Never mix them and be sure to read directions before using.

Don't use caustic chemicals if possible. Instead use products like Drain Power which uses pressure, instead of lye or acid, to clear clogged drains.

Electrical appliances should be used with great care in the bathroom or near wet surfaces.

First aid kit, including a burn ointment, is a must for every house.

Gas leaks are a hazard. Check your stove pilot light. If it's lit and you smell gas, call utility company immediately.

Handles installed on tub or shower walls are a good way to prevent falls.

Install childproof safety plates (or plugs) on all unused electrical outlets.

Just a moment is how long it takes for a child to get into hazardous products. Don't leave them unguarded, even for a few minutes.

Knives should be stored in a wall-mounted knife rack out of children's reach.

Lock all medicine cabinets and any storage areas where you keep cleaning products or paints.

Medicines should be dated and labeled. Discard them after date of expiration.

Never keep unused prescription medicines for a later time.

Original containers, not cups or soft drink bottles, are the safest place to keep medicines, paint and cleaning products.

Power failures can cause dangerous conditions, so keep a flashlight and candles handy.

Quick action and a cool head are what's important in an emergency.

Rubber mats or decals reduce the risk of slips and falls in tub or shower.

Safety packaging on medicine and household products helps prevent accidental poisoning.

Teach children the differences between medicine and candy.

Use cleaning products only after reading the labels carefully.

Ventilate areas when using pesticides, varnish, paint strippers and other volatile chemicals.

Wet or newly-waxed floors are slippery. Be careful.

X on a label means "poison." Use these products carefully.

Young children are attracted by brightly colored packaging. Keep cleaning products out of their reach.

Zany party decorations are fun, but make sure they're flameproof.

Nobel winner to return to Salk Institute

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Dr. Renato Dulbecco, a 1975 Nobel Prize winner, will return to the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in September, 1977.

The Institute said that Dulbecco, a native of Italy and an expert on breast cancer, will hold the title of distinguished research professor, among others.

Dulbecco was in residence at the Salk Institute from 1962 to 1972.

RESOLUTION NO. 1608

A RESOLUTION OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT FIXING THE RATE AND LEVYING TAXES FOR THE FISCAL YEAR BEGINNING JULY 1, 1976.

WHEREAS, the City of Walnut previously elected to assume financial responsibility for services provided by the Consolidated Fire Protection District and for the County Free Library pursuant to Section 43073 (a) of the Government Code of the State of California

NOW, THEREFORE, THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WALNUT DOES RESOLVE AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. That for the purpose of raising the sum of money necessary to be raised by taxes upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut as revenue to support its departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as well as other indebtedness of the City, except the cost of the Fire and Library Services as set forth in Section 2 of Resolution No. 1607 for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1976, the rate of taxes for the City of Walnut is hereby fixed, and the taxes are hereby levied on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City of Walnut in the amount of sixty-five cents (.65) upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

Section 2. Pursuant to Section 43073 (b) of the Government Code, the tax rate of the City of Walnut, shall be increased by an amount equal to the amount of the tax rates set by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Los Angeles for the Consolidated Fire Protection District and the Los Angeles Free Library for the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Section 3. The County Tax Collector, County Assessor, or County Auditor, as the case may be, is hereby authorized to raise by taxation upon the taxable property of the City of Walnut the amount of revenue necessary to support the departments and to pay for the government and other business of the City, as set forth in Section 1 of this Resolution, plus the amount of revenue necessary to pay to the District as defined in Section 43073 of the Government Code for Fire and Library services, and is therefore authorized and directed by this Resolution to fix and levy a total City of Walnut tax rate on all taxable property in all portions or parts of the City for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1976, in the amount set forth in Section 1 of this Resolution plus the amount authorized to be determined under Section 2 of this Resolution, upon each $100.00 of the assessed valuation of said property assessed by the County Assessor and equalized by the State Board of Equalization.

Section 4. The City Council hereby declares it would have passed this Resolution sentence by sentence, paragraph by paragraph, and section by section, and does declare that the provisions of this Resolution are severable, and if for any reason, any sentence, paragraph or section shall be held invalid, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining parts of this Resolution.

Section 5. The City Clerk shall certify to the adoption of this Resolution and shall cause the same to be published as required by law.

Section 6. This resolution shall take effect immediately upon adoption. The City Clerk shall, prior to September 1, 1976 transmit to the Los Angeles County Auditor a statement of the tax rate so fixed and a certified copy of this Resolution.

PASSED, APPROVED AND ADOPTED this 11th day of August, 1976.

LORD OF DANCE — Shivapuram Nataraja, a 10th Century bronze idol from India, is now on exhibit at the Norton Simon Museum of Art in Pasadena. The 44-inch-high Nataraja, or Shiva, the Lord of Dance, was purchased in 1972 by the Norton Simon Foundation for $900,000, the highest price ever paid for an Indian work of art.

Shivapurum Nataraja

Bronze idol shown

Shivapuram Nataraja, a 10th Century bronze idol from India's early Chola period, is now on exhibit at the Norton Simon Museum of Art in Pasadena.

This Nataraja or Shiva, the Lord of Dance, is considered to be one of the finest bronzes in the world. It will be exhibited in the new Indian and Southeast Asian Sculpture Galleries of the museum which feature a rich collection of stone and bronze sculpture on loan from the Norton Simon Foundation.

The Shivapuram Nataraja, considered a national treasure by the government of India, has been the subject of legal action between the Union of India and the Norton Simon Foundation which had acquired the idol in 1972. Under an agreement reached in April, the foundation gave up all claim, right, and title in the Nataraja in favor of the Union of India, and the Union of India agreed to loan the Nataraja to the foundation for a period of 10 years. At the end of this period the Nataraja will return to India.

The 44-inch-high bronze was doubtlessly commissioned by one of the early rulers of the Chola Empire. Sometime during the next few centuries (possibly during the time of Tippu Sultan in the 18th Century) the bronze was buried and was not discovered until 1951 when a villager was plowing in a field adjoining a temple at Shivapuram. The village of Shivapuram is located in Tamid Nadu (formerly Madras State) in South India.

The Nataraja was installed for worship in the Shiva Temple at Shivapuram in 1953 and in 1956 was sent to a restorer to treat the idol for bronze disease, a condition which causes the bronze to deteriorate. A replica was made of the Nataraja which was placed in the temple. The original Nataraja eventually found its way to the well-known Boman Behram Collection in Bombay. Later, the bronze came into the possession of a New York art dealer from whom the sculpture was acquired by the Simon foundation in 1972 for $900,000, the highest price ever paid for an Indian work of art.

Cash, Clark to cohost show

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Johnny Cash and Roy Clark will cohost the nationally televised 10th Annual Country Music Association Awards Oct. 11.

The program will be carried live by CBS Television from the stage of the Grand Ole Opry House. Highlighting the show will be the announcement of the newest members elected to the Country Music Hall of Fame.

The winners will be chosen from two categories — living and deceased. Finalists in the living categories are Johnny Cash, Grandpa Jones, Vito Pellettieri, Hank Snow, Merle Travis and Kitty Wells.

Rod Brasfield, Paul Cohen, Cowboy Copas, Vernon Dalhart and the Delmore Brothers have been nominated from the deceased category.

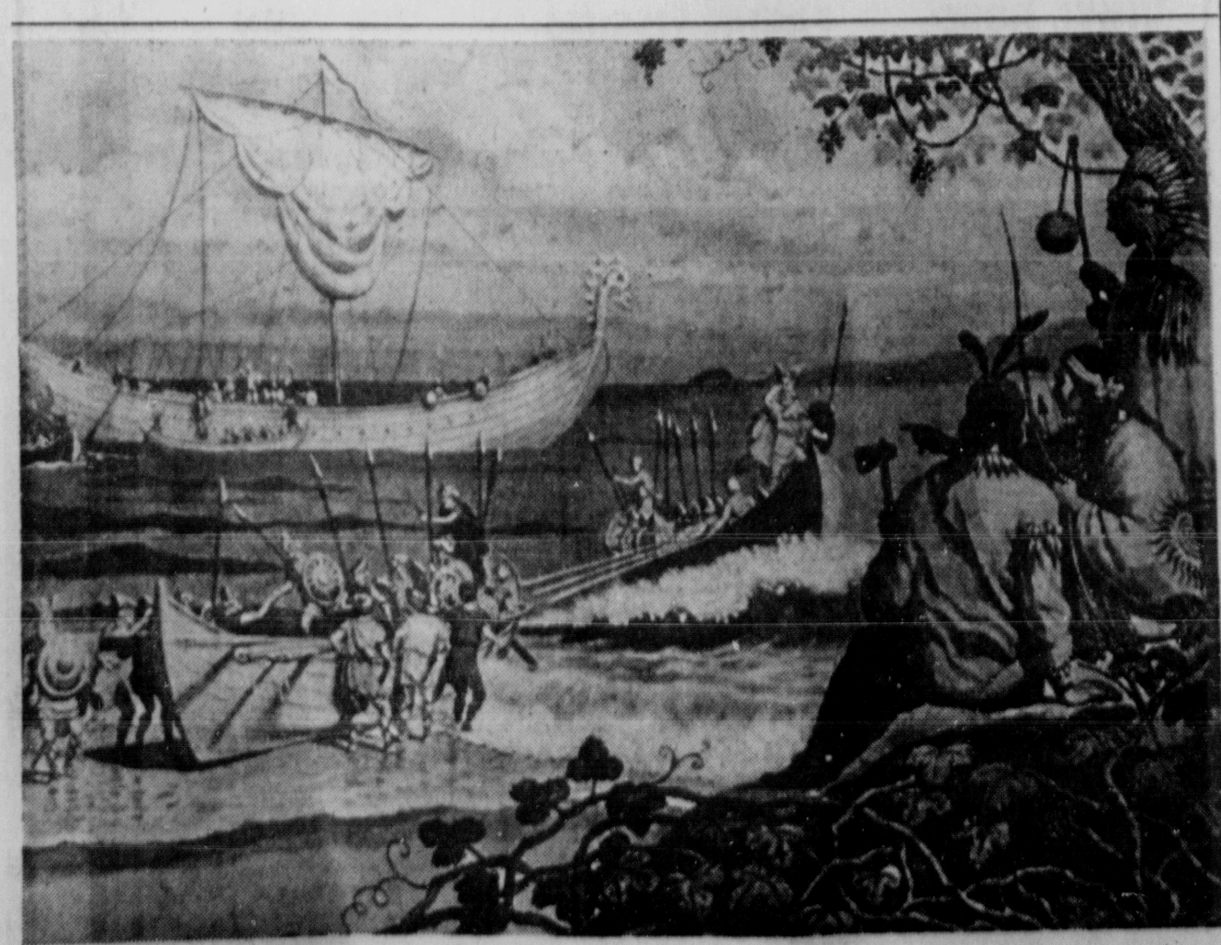
Burglars rip off singer

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Keely Smith and her husband Robert Milano told police today that jewelry, furs, clothes and luggage worth $11,000 were taken from their New York Hilton hotel room.

Police said the couple, in town for a recording session, had left the room about 2:45 p.m. Thursday and did not return until about 11 p.m. About 12:15 a.m. they discovered the items were missing. Police said Milano reported that $10,000 worth of the articles were jewerly.

Police said there was no sign of forced entry, indicating the burglar used a pass key.

Miss Smith was formerly married to musician-singer Louis Prima. She and Milano gave their current home as Palm Springs.



NORSE INVASION — Indians watch as viking warriors disembark from their dragon-prowed ship in this wash drawing by Joseph Boggs Beale (1841-1926). The work is one of 65 in the Beale exhibit, "Star Spangled History," opening Wednesday at the California Museum of Science & Industry, Exposition Park, Los Angeles. Admission to the exhibit is free.

Medina wins grant

Jesus Medina of Montclair is one of 16 outstanding UCLA undergraduates who were awarded University of California President's Undergraduate Fellowship.

Medina used his $800 fellowship grant to study the mysterious rock art of the Tarahumara Indians, traveling to their remote tribal mountains, 80 miles southwest of Chihuahua City, Mexico.

He found that most of the paintings are done with red ocre on the walls of craggy rock shelters. Most of the paintings have a spiritual significance. Those that depict human figures are intended to protect someone from evil spirits, Medina said. Some paintings are done to help cure the sick; others commemorate the dead. Tribal medicine men are the primary rock artists.

Medina said the Tarahumara were reluctant to discuss the paintings, some of which are over 2,000 years old. Only after repeated demonstrations of good faith was Medina able to extract a few facts about the paintings from elderly members of the tribe. He worked largely through a translator, as few Tarahumara speak Spanish.

Medina said that the art of rock painting appears to be dying out. Only the older people still believe in its magic. Younger members of the tribe are starting to adopt modern ways.

A junior majoring in anthropology, Medina hopes to go on for his Ph.D. and eventually teach at the college level. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Juan Medina of Santa Ana and a graduate of Santa Ana High School.

Irish actor returning to meaningful films

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Richard Harris is back. Maybe you didn't know that he was away, but he was.

"I had a lean period," says the brilliant Irish actor. "Most of the films I made at first were distinguished failures, so I went out to do commercial films — and they were worse. So I laid off for a year."

When we think of Richard Harris, we think, probably, of a busy actor with a lot of films to his credit. He says that's the general impression, but it's a wrong impression. He says in his whole career, from 1966 to 1975, he made only 10 movies.

RICHARD HARRIS

But this year, to mark his return from that year he didn't work at all, he's made three films. The climax of this Harris resurgence is "The Return of a Man Called Horse," which is opening to triumphant reviews and demands for an Oscar nomination for the star.

There may be some difference of opinion about the film, but none about the star. Harris is outstanding.

His other films this year are the already finished "Cassandra Crossing," with Sophia Loren, Burt Lancaster and Harris' wife, Ann Turkel, and the about-to-star "Orca," the story of a killer whale's vendetta against the fisherman who accidentally killed the whale's family.

"I think," Harris says, "that 'Orca' is the best part I was ever offered."

Harris says this year is an attempt to reconstruct his career, to go back to the basics, to make films that say something. And "The Return of a Man Called Horse" emphasizes that position.

"This is not a sequel to the first 'Man Called Horse' movie," Harris says. "It's an independent movie. The man goes back to England, realizes he doesn't fit in, comes back to the Indians and stays. It exists on its own, without the first one.

"I think it's a more extraordinary, more authentic film than the first one. Irvin Kershner, the director, is actually an expert on Indian lore. He and I talked about the movie for days and days. It's done in a whole different style, almost a documentary style."

While Harris' career is coming back, his wife's career is booming, too. She's in demand, because the movie folks are learning that she's a good actress, to go along with her extraordinary good looks.

"Everything is taking off for both of us," Harris says. "We like working together — as we did in 'Cassandra Crossing' — but we're not going to make a habit of it.

"She doesn't want to become a Jill Ireland (Charles Bronson's wife, who works in all his films) because she's too good to be another Jill Ireland."

GREGORY PECK, shown here as Gen Douglas MacArthur, says the role is the greatest challenge of his acting career. The USS Missouri, where the signing of the Japanese surrender in World War II took place, is being used in the filming at Bremerton, Wash.

Pomona sets organ meet

The Claremont Organ Institute, featuring two nationally-known organists, will be held at Pomona College today through Saturday.

The concert artists are Robert Glasgow, professor of organ at the University of Michigan, who will perform at 8:15 tonight in Bridges Hall, and David McVey, Pomona College organist, who will appear in concert at 8:15 p.m. Monday in Lyman Hall, Thatcher Music Building.

Glasgow's appearance will feature the West Coast premiere of Charles Tournemire's "Sept Chorals-Poemes d'Orgue pour les sept paroles du Christ." McVey will perform works by Buxtehude, Bach and Hindemith drawn from the institute repertoire. There is an admission charge of $2 for each concert.

Glasgow, a distinguished teacher and performer, graduated with distinction from the Eastman School of Music, where he studied with Harold Gleason and Catharine Crozier. He has played throughout North America, including numerous appearances at national and regional conventions of the American Guild of Organists, and in England, where he played a broadcast recital for the BBC.

McVey, assistant professor of music at Pomona College, earned his bachelor's and master's degrees in organ performance at the University of Michigan where he studied with Glasgow. Since 1971 he has studied with Miss Crozier. He has performed throughout the United States, England and Canada, and records on the Orion label.

A third concert, at 8:15 p.m. Friday will feature students of the Claremont Organ Institute. The admission-free concert will be held in Lyman Hall.

This year's institute, continuing the tradition of previous summer organ workshops held in Claremont, will consist of daily master classes in which selected repertoire will be discussed with regard to registration, analysis, technique and practical performance on American organs. Seminars will include discussions on organ design, program planning and preparation, and tuning and temperament.

The workshop is expected to draw organists from across the nation.

Bassist to play at SPDJ

Jazz bassist Dee Woolem, a quick-draw artist on the side, will demonstrate both of his talents at a picnic of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds starting at 2 this afternoon.

The occasion will also honor Chester G. Jaeger, musician and former mayor of Claremont, on his 80th birthday. Jaeger worked his way through college playing the banjo and singing and still likes to perform.

Woolem has made recordings with Marty Robbins, Lefty Frizell, Billy Walker, Ray Price, Jimmy Wakely and the Calahan Brothers.

Highland homes find buyers' acceptance

Persons seeking to buy homes will usually visit new residential developments to view the various models and then go home to make their decisions.

But many of those visiting the Lewis Homes Highland project in Etiwanda are signing the necessary papers while there, said Roger Lewis, vice president.

"The sales pace has been so brisk that we have ordered a second unit of the homes into construction way ahead of the scheduled date," he reported.

"We have noticed that most buyers at The Highlands are young couples under 30 years of age who are yet to raise a family or now have small families," said Lewis.

"Mostly they have been living in rental apartments and find our low prices an excellent way to escape the renter class and the fear of having their rents constantly raised."

Lewis said the project's price scale puts single-family ownership within most families' income and that specially tailored FHA, VA and conventional financing terms don't cut deeply into the buyer's monthly income.

The Highlands offers two, three and four bedroom floor plans which are priced from $29,200. The homes feature drapes, carpeting, pantries, continuous cleaning ovens, dishwashers and garbage disposal units.

To reach the homes, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to Haven Avenue, drive north to Foothill Boulevard, east to Rochester Avenue and then north to Church Street.

Model homes are on display daily from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

'Pepper' unit is popular

The roofs aren't completed on the homes at the Pepper Tree Farms in Upland but nearly all the structures have been sold.

The builder is now selling the third phase of 24 homes, with 75 per cent of them sold. The houses are about 30 per cent completed.

Radio crusade gives CIM inmates books

Inmates at California Institution for Men at Chino now have 7,800 new religious books to read.

Bibles and some 200 copies of each of 36 titles were given to the Rev. E.L. Owens, Protestant chaplain at CIM, by Christ Truth Radio Crusade, sponsors of the Prisoners Bible Broadcasts.

The carload of books was delivered to the institution recently by the Rev. Jeff Eby, director and coordinator of religious operations for the crusade which is located in Upland.

The chaplain will distribute the books to men in the maximum security area in response to numerous requests for Bibles and books of a religious nature.

Christ Truth Radio Crusade conducts a series of national radio programs. Locally, the program is aired at 12:30 p.m. Sundays over Station KGER in Long Beach.

Eby said the organization also distributes thousands of Bibles and books each year to prisons across the United States.

Real estate

"Pepper Tree is a proven, successful product and we are including certain refinements in the Classic Series," said Bill A. Matreyek, the builder.

"The half-acre lots, combined with the quality of construction and styling plus the full roster of standard features give our buyers the most for their money."

Buyers have indicated individual reasons for selecting the Pepper Tree homes, added Charles Brown, the project's sales manager.

"For those with children, there are Upland schools within walking distance and for smaller families, the large homes on the half-acre sites allow them to do their own thing inside and outside.

"Everyone, regardless of age or family situation, really gets excited about the mountain views and the cooling breeze."

The homes have a minimum of 2,000 square feet of floor space, with buyers given a choice of models with three, four or five bedrooms.

The homes are priced from $55,000 for the four bedroom Meadowbrook model to $59,750 for the five bedroom Casa Grande plan.

The Pepper Tree Farms sales trailer is open daily from 10 a.m. Persons can reach it by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to Euclid Avenue in Upland, drive north to 21st Street and then go right two blocks.

FUN FACTS from WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT GUM

IN 1900, CHICAGO'S DRINKING WATER WAS PROTECTED WHEN THE FLOW OF THE CHICAGO RIVER WAS REVERSED FROM LAKE MICHIGAN INTO THE ILLINOIS AND MISSISSIPPI RIVERS.

THE SMALLEST FISH IS THE DWARF PIGMY GOBY OF THE PHILIPPINES. IT MEASURES LESS THAN A 1/2 INCH (13 MILLIMETERS) WHEN FULLY GROWN.

A PAIR OF NORMAL HUMAN EYES, UNDER THE BEST POSSIBLE VIEWING CONDITIONS, CAN DISTINGUISH FROM 8 TO 10 MILLION DIFFERENCES AND GRADATIONS IN COLOR.

DR. WASHINGTON WENTWORTH SHEFFIELD, A DENTIST IN NEW LONDON, CONN., IS CREDITED WITH INVENTING THE COLLAPSIBLE METAL TOOTHPASTE TUBE IN 1892.

DON'T SQUEEZE IT FROM THE MIDDLE!

New! Yogurty goodness, ice creamy taste!

Knudsen frozen yogurt sundaes & pushups.

Knudsen freezes the goodness of yogurt into thick, fruity sundaes and pushups kids love. The texture is smoother and silkier than ice cream, the fresh fruit flavors more tangy and satisfying. Strawberry, raspberry, orange, pineapple, and lemon chiffon. They taste so rich, it's hard to believe they're 98% fat free. Sure beats junk food.

Pick up a box of Knudsen Frozen Yogurt sundaes or pushups today. A whole new taste. Now in your grocer's ice cream section.

Knudsen. The dairy best.

Go a little crazy. Get a lot of music.

11 records or tapes - $1.00

plus shipping and handling

If you join now and agree to buy 8 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the next 3 years

This is the beginning of a fling. A crazy fling. A fling filled with music. The music you love most.

More music than you've ever been able to get at once. Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums on this page. And you choose the 11 you want most. Then fill in and mail the application below.

Part Two of the fling: your 11 records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part where you really go crazy. You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert you ever had in your room. And you can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again.

11 hit albums for only $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club. Make it happen now.

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application in an envelope, together with check or money order for $1.86 as payment (that's $1.00 for your first 11 selections, plus 86¢ to cover shipping and handling).

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and put it in the mail by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days to decide, return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened...the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices, which currently are: 8-track tapes and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus shipping and handling. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 8 selections within 3 years) you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan. Act now!

NOTE: all applications are subject to review and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application

LIMITED WARRANTY

WARDS warrants its passenger car tires for specified miles when used on passenger cars, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of: defects, normal road hazard failure, or premature tread wearout unless due to misalignment, WARDS will: 1. During first 10% of warranted mileage, replace tire free. 2. During the remaining mileage, replace for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

For adjustments, return tire to Wards with Warranty Booklet.

'FOR LAUGH-OHOLICS ONLY'

What to expect from 'The Lohman & Barkley,' which debuts Sunday on KTLA, channel 5 at 8PM, is the totally unexpected. There's never before been a television show quite like "The Lohman & Barkley," but then, as radio listeners in the greater Los Angeles area are well aware, there's no one quite like The Al Lohman and Roger Barkley.

The fertilely funny Lohman & Barkley defy their audience to remain serious for more than two consecutive minutes. As a result, 'The Lohman & Barkley' is best described as a weekly comedy/variety/talk show with the emphasis on laughter.

The Iowa-born pair have been joined in rib-tickling togetherness for approximately 14 years now. Barkley insists it all began "when Lohman came over to my house and asked my mother if I could go to California with him to be a star. She said 'No.' "

Known locally as the inventive, zany early morning deejay team on radio station KFI, Lohman & Barkley have ventured into television before with an Emmy Award-winning show on KNBC, Los Angeles, a few years back. Taking its cue from hosts Al Lohman and Roger Barkley, within the framework of "The Lohman & Barkley" there's no business like show business unless it's monkey business!

The Lohman & Barkley, as Al and Roger refer to their professional selves, possesses a unique, spontaneous sense of humor bordering on lunacy. They just can't seem to help being funny. And the format of their new show won't allow any of their guests to lapse into chronic seriousness, either. Aided and abetted by The Lohman & Barkley Repertory Company, Lohman & Barkley's celebrity guests fully (and willingly) participate in the looniness that permeates the show.

Guest (as opposed to resident) fun-makers on Sunday's show include Barbi Benton and Vincent Price. They find themselves participating in some of the craziest antics they've ever been involved in on or off-camera, and their enjoyment is infectious.

Anyone who can't laugh with 'The Lohman & Barkley' is probably missing a vital anatomical part—the funnybone.

Al Lohman Roger Barkley

DANGEROUS EXPERIMENT

William Shatner (center), Ossie Davis and Lynn Carlin star in "The Tenth Level," the season premiere presentation of the CBS Playhouse 90, Thursday from 9 to 11PM. Also starring Viveca Lindfors and Estelle Parsons, the drama (written by George Bellak) poses a fundamental question in modern civilization: How far will people go in inflicting pain on others in a situation where they know in advance that they have been absolved of all responsibility by a higher authority?

EASY DOES IT

Frankie Avalon, once the teenage idol of those beach party movies with Annette Funicello, is now in his 16th year of show business, and is the star of his own 8-week summer series, "Easy Does It...Starring Frankie Avalon," on CBS beginning Wednesday at 8:30PM. Unlike some other youthful successes, Avalon has continued to improve as an artist, and today is one of the most in-demand nightclub performers in the country. His summer series offers a pleasant blend of the old and the new and will even have something for the earlier Avalon fans, with at least one appearance by Annette Funicello. "The War Babies," a New York improvisational group (6 boys and 3 girls) will perform in situational comedy with Avalon featuring both topical and nostalgic humor.

'IT'S TOUGH TO MAKE IT'

Walt Garrison, a nine-year running back for the Dallas Cowboys, was named to the Pro Bowl three times and became the team's third leading rusher in history and fourth on its list of pass receivers. His pro career was capped with an amazing performance in the 1971 Super Bowl when he was Dallas' leading ground-gainer despite a shoulder broken two weeks earlier in the conference championship.

Garrison will host It's Tough To Make It In This League, a special hour-long documentary about the hard realities of football life at 8PM Saturday on ABC. While still competing on the gridiron, Garrison built up a reputation for his prowess on the rodeo circuit, carrying through a love for that sport that began in grade school, when he and several friends would sneak off and ride calves. He later was on the rodeo teams in high school and at Oklahoma State, and became a rodeo pro after graduating, specializing in steer wrestling. Garrison still averages some 23-30 rodeos a year.

CLOSE-UP

'SECOND CHOICES'

"If worst comes to worst, I guess I'll just have to make the best of starring on Broadway," Bert Convy cracked the other day by way of pointing up that second choices aren't always too hard to take.

"Worst" in this case refers to the fate of "The Late Summer, Early Fall Bert Convy Show," a summer time comedy-variety series starring Convy that will have its premiere Wednesday running for four consecutive Wednesdays on CBS at 8PM.

Should this series produce good audience reaction during its summer showcasing, it could wind up on the Network's primetime program schedule at the midway point of the 1976-1977 season—provided, of course, a hole opens up for it.

Should things work out otherwise for that show, Convy expects to be performing on Broadway in a role he is now being paged for—that of Al Jolson in "Joley," a musical based on the life of the late, great jazz singer due to open early next year. Not that Convy would really be unemployed in any event. At the moment he is still most familiar, to the television audience for his steady job—that of host of the popular daytime game series Tattletales on CBS.

And as an ace-in-the-hole there is the stage musical he is co-writing with Rafael Bunuel, based on the life of Mexico's famous historical figure Emiliano Zapata. The music is being written by a current great in the pop field, Harry Nilsson. It will open in Los Angeles, Convy's home town, next year with an all-Chicano cast and, very likely, with Convy directing and producing it—his other commitments permitting.

"There's no question about it," says Convy, "I want to see that summer show on the regular-season schedule. For that I'd willingly give up my other options. On the other hand, playing Jolson on the stage would be a lot better than a poke in the eye with a stick, to put it mildly."

Nor would it be Convy's first experience on Broadway. For about ten years, earlier in his career, he worked in New York, appearing on and off Broadway in more than a dozen productions, including "The Front Page," "Cabaret," "The Impossible Years" and "Fiddler on the Roof."

In the last couple of years he has returned to playing night clubs, performing in Las Vegas, Reno, Lake Tahoe and New York. His wife, Anne, an accomplished professional actress in her own right, writes all of her husband's special club material.

When Convy isn't performing or rehearsing, he likes to play tennis, but if he has his wish, he won't be playing much of it next year.

PERFECT COMBINATION

On a recent telecast of NBC's The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson, John Davidson said to Ed McMahon: "You know, the way you and Johnny work together is really something to see. It's a perfect combination." "It wasn't always that way," replied Ed.

McMahon is in his 14th year as Carson's sidekick on the popular 90-minute program, which has an average nightly viewing audience of 15.1 million different viewers.

"The Saturday before we did our first 'Tonight Show,' " Ed recalls, "I asked Johnny, 'How do you see my role on the show?' Johnny answered, 'I don't even see my own role yet. Let's play it by ear.'

"Most of the things audiences now accept, or look for, began as ad libs. Sure, we had done some of it before on daytime TV, but this was a different audience. I was kidded for my weight, my size, my alleged drinking, my food capacity, the fact I was working in Philadelphia . . . and we just carried over those bits of business to the 'Tonight Show.'

McMahon explains some of the ad libs that turned into regular "bits" on the program. "The introductions to Carnac (Carson's seer character) just happened. When some of them worked well, they became more absurd, like '. . . and former golf instructor to Spiro Agnew. . . .' The first time Johnny talked about cold weather, he looked over at me and I felt I should say something, so I said 'How cold was it?' and after that, it became an identifiable phrase to the viewers.

"When we do the Aunt Blabby bit, it somehow became established that I had a yen for that character and now audiences wait for it to develop from Johnny's quips.

"When I first said 'Hi! Yo!' it just came out and now audiences shout it back to me.

As second banana, Ed feels there are several things to handle well, so he doesn't cross over that invisible thin line that could destroy Johnny's gags or timing.

"Elongating a phrase or sentence. By dragging out 'Heeeerrrre's Johnny!', makes it more emphatic.

"And a very important thing is that when you think of something to say, in a matter of seconds—or less—it must clear your personal censorship without losing rhythm or meaning. You don't want to offend anyone and sometimes the slightest intonation or word could do just that. When you're doing what amounts to live television this censor board must register 'yes, go ahead and say it' or 'no, don't,' in fractions of a second. But after more than 13 years on 'The Tonight Show,' you'd be surprised how quickly you can think and respond."

The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson airs Monday through Friday at 11:30PM on NBC.

Join host Bobby Van for fun and games on NBC's The Fun Factory Monday through Friday at 12 noon. The comedy-variety series features a mini-soap opera and is filled with many surprises.

'THE MUPPET SHOW'

Connie Stevens, Harvey Korman and Juliet Prowse have been signed to guest on 'The Muppet Show,' now in production for a nationwide prime time debut in September as a syndicated series. Stevens, Korman and Prowse join previously signed Joel Grey and Ruth Buzzi, all five to star in separate episodes.

Host of the all-family comedy-musical-variety series is Kermit the Frog, one of the many Muppets created by Emmy winner Jim Henson. The new series will introduce many new characters in Henson's greatly expanded group of unique and inimitable "people."

'The Muppet Show' has already been sold to over 120 U.S. stations, including every major market. All stations in major markets plan to air the series in prime access time.

The format of 'The Muppet Show' is a show within a show. On-stage, Kermit the Frog plays host to a famous guest star, a different show business personality on each program. Backstage, hilarity reigns as the Muppets prepare for the on-stage show.

Jim Henson, multi-Emmy Award winner, Oscar nominee and five-time Grammy nominee, is executive producer for the series. Jack Burns, Writers Guild of America Award winner, is producer-writer. Burns, Jerry Juhl and Jim Henson are writing the series. Gary Smith-Dwight Hemion Productions, Inc., multi-Emmy-winning producer and director team, is creative consultant for ITC, and the talented David Lazer is executive producer for Henson Associates.

TELE-TALK

'The Wonderful World of Disney,' a series of nature stories, adventure tales, cartoons, dramas and comedies, begins its 16th season on the NBC Television Network.

The series is network television's longest-running prime-time program. Since its premiere, when the late Walt Disney started the series to provide family entertainment on television, the program has become world famous.

As in the past, animals (and their human friends) will figure prominently in programs planned for the coming season. In keeping with the Disney tradition, the nature stories and adventure tales will be filmed in natural settings at locations around the world.

Comedies and dramas to be shown for the first time on television, starring some of the leading names in the entertainment field, will be included in this season's offerings.

Ron Miller, vice president in charge of production of motion pictures and television for Walt Disney Productions, is the executive producer of "The Wonderful World of Disney."

Lucille Ball has been signed by executive producer Paul Junger Witt to make a rare guest appearance in The Practice, the half-hour NBC comedy series starring Danny Thomas. In the show, which is produced by Danny Thomas Productions in association with MGM Television, Lucy portrays a madcap clairvoyant who wreaks havoc in Dr. Bedford's office.

'The Waltons' are currently filming a two hour special episode to be broadcast in the fall focusing on Judy Norton-Taylor as Mary Ellen, eldest daughter of the family getting married. The Waltons, in its fifth season, returns in the same time slot, (Thursdays, 8:00-9:00PM) on the CBS Television Network.

Award-winning composer Marvin Hamlisch has been set by producer Mel Stuart to write the score for 'Life Goes To The Movies,' three-hour Special for NBC-TV being produced by 20th Century-Fox TV in association with Time-Life TV.

Jack Haley, Jr., is executive producer of the super-spec scheduled to air Oct. 31.

More than 20 years ago, on Oct. 3, 1955, thousands of children turned in for the first broadcast of 'Captain Kangaroo,' a gentle hour of television entertainment with its creator and star Bob Keeshan. On Friday, Aug. 27, "Captain Kangaroo" will present its 6,000th broadcast on the Network.

In special observance of the day, and as a preview of the taped-on-location features to be presented this coming season, 'Captain Kangaroo' will visit "Six Flags Over Georgia," the large entertainment area in Atlanta. On the August 27 broadcast, which was one of several episodes taped at the park last May, the Captain and his friends come to the aid of a carnival man and his failing business.

As previously announced, other episodes to be broadcast next season were taped in Nashville (Opryland) in May, with visits planned for Sea World and the zoo in San Diego, San Francisco and locales in Northern California; Busch Gardens in Williamsburg, Va.; in Tampa, Fla.

Those who have assisted Keeshan since the first broadcast of the award-winning series are Hugh "Lumpy" Brannum, who is the popular Mr. Green Jeans, and puppeteer Cosmo Allegretti. James E. Wall, who plays Mr. Baxter, joined the series in 1968, and Debbie Weems, who plays Debbie, became a member of the family in 1973. Director Peter Birch, writer Bob Colleary, and costumer Hugh Holt have also been with the series since its inception. Jim Hirschfeld is the producer.

FOR SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON (D.-Wash.)

What is the most unpopular agency in the Federal Government?—Mrs. L. Mills, Hobart, Ind.

● The Postal Service. Although it's not a Government agency, it's owned by the Government and operated as a semiautonomous corporation. Since it affects every citizen, it's the object of widespread criticism. The public feels it is paying increasingly higher rates for a less responsive service. People in rural areas see extensive closures of their post offices, resulting in the loss of community identity and great inconvenience. Older Americans and those in low or fixed-income brackets complain that the rate increases make it difficult to communicate by mail. And mail is often their only contact with friends and family.

FOR LEE MERIWETHER, star of "Barnaby Jones"

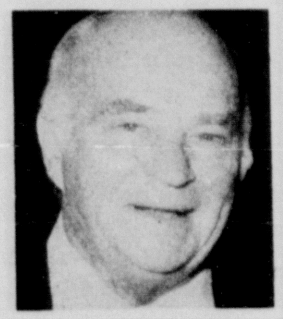
What, besides money, makes a man attractive and sexy? —C.A., Hollywood, Calif.

● If money makes a man sexy and attractive, then I'm sorry. To me a sexy and attractive quality comes from the soul of a man, not his monetary worth or even his physical attributes. For a man to be truly sexy, he should appeal to all the senses. The one man who fits this description and pops immediately into my mind is Buddy Ebsen. Surprised?

FOR ANGIE DICKINSON

There have been rumors that you want to leave "Police Woman." Is this true?—K. Kernen, Green Bay, Wis.

● Untrue. I plan to continue as Pepper until our show is cancelled.



FOR EDGAR BERGEN

Is ventriloquism a dying art?—G.S., Vancouver, Wash.

● Entertainment, like fashion, has trends. It moves in cycles. There was a time when comedians could not get work—now we have a glut of them. Same thing with magicians. We've had too many Punch and Judy and puppet shows on TV. They've reached their popularity peak, and now it's time to rest. But in due course, ventriloquism will come back. I hope I'm around to see it.

FOR JACK ALBERTSON

Did you start off the hard way, as most actors seem to do? —J. R., Lorrain, Ohio

● And how! During the Depression in New York, I slept on the subway in the winter and in Central Park in the summer. I stuffed newspapers in my shirt to keep warm. But back then, if a guy had a buck, he'd share it with three others at a Chinese restaurant that served meals for a quarter. I passed the time by practicing new dance steps in doorways—then drank coffee in a cafeteria until dawn.

FOR MISTY ROWE, actress

In "Goodbye, Norma Jean", in which you played Marilyn Monroe, it was made clear that Marilyn reached stardom by dispensing favors to men in Hollywood. Is there much of this "casting couch" business going on in Hollywood now?—L.G., Buffalo, N.Y.

● Not as much. Because most of the big movie companies are now owned by large conglomerates, there are too many people and too much money involved in the making of movies to allow for this sort of thing.

FOR HARRY CHAPIN, songwriter

Where do you get your songwriting inspiration?—S.A., Fort Worth, Tex.

● Usually from the newspapers. One of my best songs came from reading a review in The New York Times. It was about a classical singer preparing for 15 years for his "debut" and getting lousy critiques. How sad, I thought, to work so hard for so long, then have it all end in one night. That's when I wrote "Mr. Tanner."

FOR DREW PEARSON of the Dallas Cowboys

Are you any relation to your teammate, Preston Pearson? Also, were you named after the late columnist Drew Pearson?—Rob Hronek, Pocatello, Idaho

● At the time of my birth, my family was living in Newark, N.J., and Drew Pearson's column was carried in one of the newspapers there. My father admired him and decided to name me for him. But no, I'm not related to Preston Pearson.

FOR NANCY WALKER

Are you a big party-goer?—M.W., Hollywood, Calif.

● No. I detest them and only go if it's a "must." I don't know why, but most people are never themselves at parties. They come complete with a façade (come to think of it, I probably do, too!). Everyone tries to impress everyone else and be what they're not. I amuse myself by wondering what they're really like, without the affectation and artificiality.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

I've heard Monty Hall described as a "humanitarian." Were they joking or serious? Explain, please?—William Mercent, Corpus Christi, Tex.

● You must be referring to the speech by Rep. Thomas M. Rees (D–Calif.) recorded in the Congressional Record, who said of Monty: "He's something much more important than the host of a popular television show. He is a humanitarian." That was after two plane crashes killed dozens from the Wichita State and Marshall University football teams in 1970. Monty organized a TV show and raised $750,000 for the victims' families. Monty serves on boards of the Cedars-Sinai Hospital, L. A., United Jewish Welfare Fund and the Watts Training Center. And those are only a few of his activities. In 1972 Mayor Sam Yorty named him "Honorary Lifetime Citizen of the City of Los Angeles."

Presenting: Family Weekly's 6th Annual All-America College Football Team

By Larry Bortstein
FAMILY WEEKLY Contributing Editor

A tie for the honor of being first-team quarterback . . . a fierce race for the No.-1 running-back slot . . . a triumph by one man in both the placekicking and punting contests . . . these were the highlights in FAMILY WEEKLY's sixth annual poll of sports editors of FW newspapers to determine the best in college football.

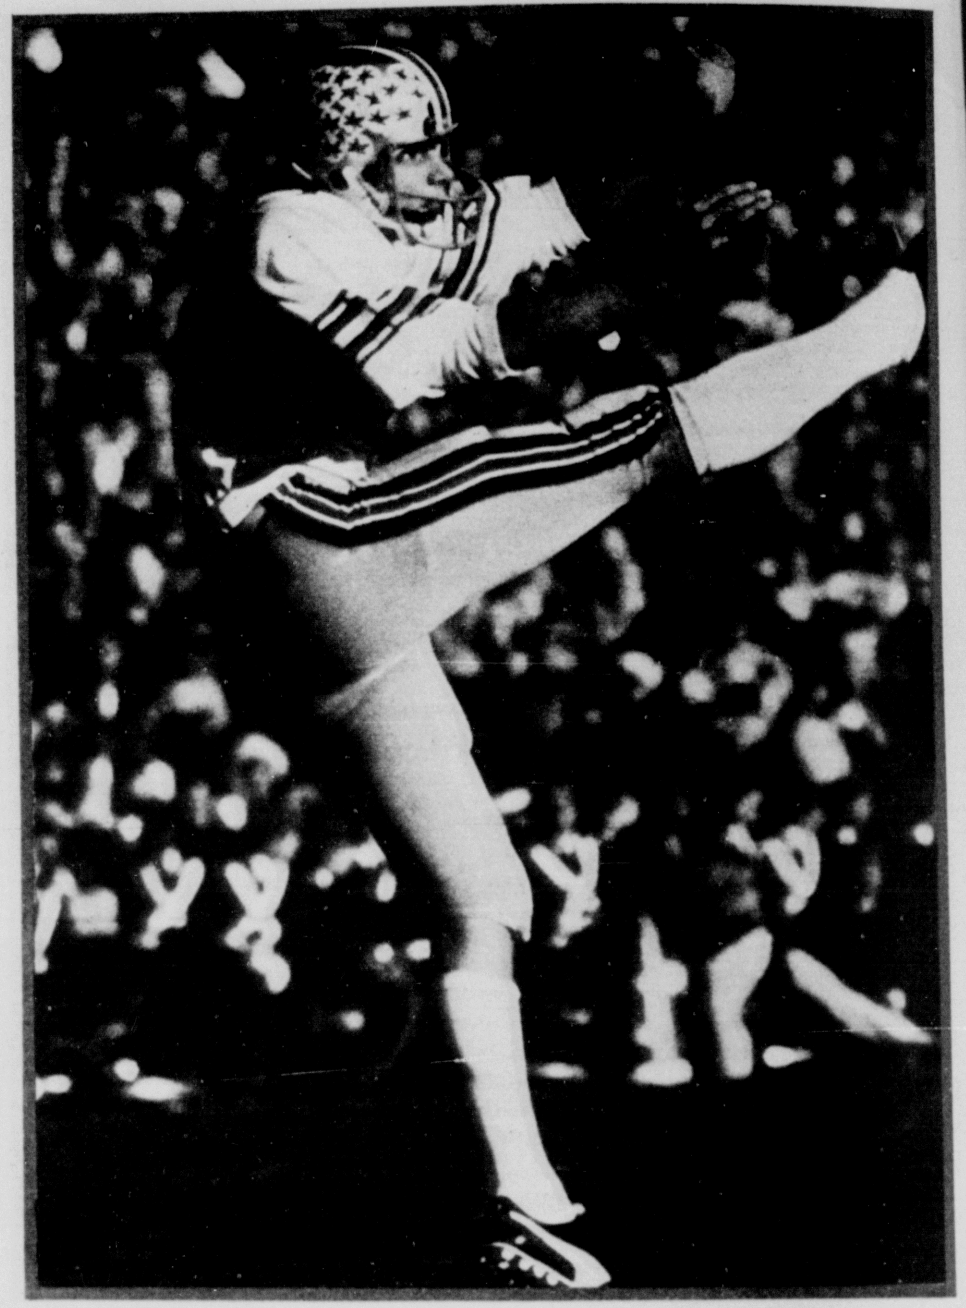
Aside from the voting for players at all offensive and defensive positions, the editors, as in the past, made selections on the Best Runner, Best Passer and Best Lineman in the undergraduate ranks this fall.

Mike Cordova, Stanford's rifle-armed signal caller, won the designation as "Best Passer" in a narrow decision over Joe Roth of California. But in the balloting for All-America quarterback, both Northern Californians finished in a dead heat for the first-team berth.

In the contest for best lineman, Gary Jeter, Southern California's rugged senior defensive tackle, won out in a wide-open contest in which nearly every member of the first-team offensive and defensive lines drew some support. Ross Browner, one of Notre Dame's junior defensive ends, finished second to Jeter in the best lineman voting. (Willie Fry, the other half of the Fighting Irish's defensive end combination, was voted to FAMILY WEEKLY's second team.)

Tony Dorsett, Pittsburgh's speedy senior, prevented the state of California from scoring a clean sweep in the "best" categories. Aptly nicknamed T.D., Dorsett narrowly edged Southern Cal's Ricky Bell as Best Runner. With pun clearly intended, both Tony and Ricky ran away from the rest of the running-back field and were easy first-team winners. They loom as the top two candidates to succeed Archie Griffin as this year's Heisman Trophy winner.

The Ohio State Buckeyes were rated the top collegiate team in the U.S. in 1975 until they were defeated by UCLA in a huge upset in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. Despite suffering heavy graduation losses, the Buckeyes are again a strong candidate for national honors.



Is football becoming a sport of specialists? If so, Ohio State's Tom Skladany—a punter and a placekicker—could be the most valuable player on the gridiron today.

Five of them, the most from any one team, made our first-team All-America squad. The five include junior guard Chris Ward, plus three members of the defensive line—tackle Nick Buonamici and end Bob Brudzinski, both seniors, and middle guard Aaron Brown, a junior. But the most interesting All-America selection from Ohio State is a man who actually holds two positions on the first team—placekicker and punter. He's Tom Skladany, the first man ever to win first-team honors at two positions since FAMILY WEEKLY began conducting All-America ballots.

Not many kickers ever become eligible for all-around honors. In fact, Skladany, a member of a Pennsylvania family which has sent two members—his father and uncle—to careers in pro football, is the first man to handle all the kicking for the Buckeyes since Heisman Trophy winner Vic Janowicz back in 1950.

cerned that Tom is the only man they're counting on in the kicking game," says a spokesman for the Ohio State football staff. "After all, if Tom should ever get injured, there wouldn't be any replacement. But they're not worried with what Tom can do if he's sound."

Little wonder. Skladany has been the Buckeyes' kickoff man and punter since he joined the varsity, and in 1975 topped the nation's punters with an average of 46.7 yards, one of the highest figures on record.

As the team's long field-goal specialist, Tom last year connected twice in three attempts, including a 59-yarder against Illinois. And, as a substitute for since-graduated Tom Klaban on extra-point tries, Skladany clicked on two of three.

Along with Ohio State, Notre Dame and Michigan represent the cream of Midwest collegiate football. Notre Dame's four players include two on offense—tight end Ken MacAfee and guard Ernie Hughes; and two on defense—defensive end Browner and defensive back Luther Bradley. All four are juniors.

MacAfee is a crushing blocker who led the Irish in receiving in 1975 with 36 catches for 333 yards and five touchdowns. Bradley drew more votes than any other defensive back in FAMILY WEEKLY's balloting.

Michigan's three first-team selections include senior linebacker Calvin O'Neal, who attracted more votes than any other linebacker; junior offensive linemen Bill Dufek, a tackle; and Mark Donahue, a guard. Dufek is the younger brother of Don Dufek, who was a Michigan All-America pick last season.

Mark Cantrell of North Carolina rounds out the first-team offensive line at center. The first-team wide receivers are Jimmy Cefalo of Penn State, a junior, and Larry Seivers of Tennessee. Cefalo has seen action at wingback, sometimes running with the ball (47 carries for 182 yards last fall) and sometimes catching it (8 for 112 yards in '75). Seivers is not blessed with great speed but has excellent moves and a knack for coming up with difficult catches. He latched onto 41 passes last season for 840 yards, an excellent 20.5-yard average per grab, and scored four TDs.

The defensive side of the line of scrimmage features, in addition to those already named, linebackers Jim Wightman of Nebraska as well as Ben Zambiasi of Georgia and defensive backs Raymond Clayborn of Texas, Zac Henderson of Oklahoma and Mike Martinez of Arizona State.

The battle for national quarterbacking honors might come right down to the regular season finale on November 20 when Stanford plays California at Berkeley. Cordova and Roth both finished among the top 20 passers in the national statistics last year. The Stanford star lived up to past credentials and Roth emerged virtually from nowhere as the successor to Steve Bartkowski, who was an All-America selection in 1974 and made his rookie season with the National Football League's Atlanta Falcons a big one in 1975. The California Bears were one of the big surprise teams of '75, remaining in the Rose Bowl race right up to the final weekend of the regular season.

Pittsburgh and Southern California won't meet this season, so there'll be no head-to-head confrontation between Dorsett and Bell, unless they face each other in a postseason bowl game.

But the two first-team All-America runners could wage a tremendous battle all season for the national ground-gaining title, won last year by Bell in record-setting fashion (1,875 yards).

Johnny Robinson has succeeded John McKay, now with the NFL's Tampa Bay club, as head coach of USC's Trojans. He sizes up Bell's assets this way: "He has tremendous power to run over people and the ability to make would-be tacklers miss him."

Dorsett, two inches shorter and about 30 pounds lighter than Bell, is more of a breakaway threat. In each of his three varsity seasons, he has rambled for more than 1,000 yards. If he repeats this season, he'll be the first college player ever to achieve four consecutive 1,000-yard campaigns.

Tony needs only to average 96 yards during Pittsburgh's 11-game schedule this fall to succeed Archie Griffin as college ball's all-time leading rusher. He already has 4,134 career yards and 37 touchdowns. In 1975 he ranked third nationally with 1,544 yards, 140.4 per game. Tony scored 11 times on the ground, and his average of 6.8 yards per carry tied him for the national lead in that category.

In his outstanding one-game performance so far, Tony cruised 303 yards against Notre Dame last fall, prompting Dan Devine, Fighting Irish coach, to say, "That was about the finest exhibition of running by one man I've seen in 28 years of coaching."

THE SECOND TEAM

Last year's national scoring champion, plus a man many observers feel may be the speediest receiver in the country head our second team (see page 6). The scorer is Ohio State's fullback Pete Johnson, who scored 25 touchdowns in 1975.

The hot-footed pass-catcher is Arizona State junior John Jefferson. Last year Jefferson caught 44 passes for 808 yards.

Four Nebraska players are on the second team: quarterback Vince Ferragamo, defensive tackle Ron Pruitt, defensive back Dave Butterfield and guard Greg Jorgensen.

Wide receiver Ozzie Newsome is one of three Alabama players on the second team. The other two are defensive tackle Bob Baumhower and middle guard Gus White.

Earl Campbell, Texas' 6-1, 220-pound junior running back, was the top non-senior vote-getter among ball carriers, coming off a 1975 campaign in which he scampered 1,118 yards for 13 touchdowns. He's the heir apparent to Ricky Bell and Tony Dorsett.

HOW THE VOTING WENT

The quarterback race was even closer than the tie between Mike Cordova and Joe Roth might suggest. Only a couple of votes further back was Nebraska's Vince Ferragamo. Amazingly, Ferragamo played one year of varsity ball at California, Roth's school, before he transferred to Nebraska's Lincoln campus.

By comparison with Tony Dorsett and Ricky Bell, who ran away with the first-team berths, everyone else was well off the pace. Likewise, Jimmy Cefalo and Larry Seivers won their spots as wide receivers on the first team with relative ease.

Gary Jeter, Nick Buonamici and Ross Browner won their spots on the first-team defense with landslide votes. Aaron Brown won the middle guard position by a thumping margin as well. Bob Brudzinski held off a close fight from Joe Campbell to earn the No. 2 end spot on the first-team defense. Following Willie Fry and Duncan McColl, who tied for fourth and fifth place overall in the voting, were Richard Arledge of Texas Tech and Willie Scraggins of Arizona State.

Tom Skladany, Ohio State's "toe," won both of his first-team kicking assignments by runaway margins.

The balloting for "Best Passer" and "Best Runner" produced no surprises. Mike Cordova, Joe Roth and Vince Ferragamo finished in that order in the passing category. Tony Dorsett and Ricky Bell finished one-two in the "runner" contest. Hardly any other passer or runner drew a vote.

The race for best lineman was something else again. Nearly every offensive and defensive lineman on the first team drew some support. Gary Jeter of Southern Cal finally won out, with Notre Dame's defensive end Ross Browner placing second.

Observations™

Bright future ahead. Remember when it was a fad to view the future with alarm? When academicians and others decided that the world was getting too crowded and too dirty to support life much longer? Or at least life as we know it? Happily, all the current predictions do not forecast gloom and doom. Life as we know it may not be the same, it may be much better, thanks primarily to ever-developing technology. The Hudson Institute, one of the nation's leading "think tanks," for example, forecasts an era of unprecedented abundance. In a book, "The Next 200 Years—A Scenario for America and the World," Herman Kahn and the Institute see the Gross World Product rising from $5.5 trillion to $300 trillion. The book, published by William Morrow & Company, Inc., also predicts the average income of every man, woman and child on earth will rise from a current $1,300 a year to $20,000.

Closing the gap. The Hudson Institute has a novel theory. It feels that the very gap that now separates the "haves" from the "have-not" nations will stimulate worldwide progress toward a future of economic abundance. The larger the gap, the institute feels, the stronger the incentive for achieving a higher standard of living for all.

Invention beyond belief. Another futurologist, Stephen Rosen, predicts that the world will benefit from a rash of invention that defies the imagination. In his book "Future Facts," published by Simon and Schuster, Dr. Rosen predicts a 21-minute subway ride between New York and Los Angeles, machines activated by the operator's eye movements, and even the growth of new human limbs by electric stimulation. Looking ahead now seems a more inviting prospect.

"SURE IT'S PRETTY, BUT DOES IT HAVE A FUTURE?"

It takes time. "Future Facts" reminds us that we needn't fear the unknown, not even the new-fangled gadgets that seem to boggle the mind. People adapt to change at about the same rate as inventors produce innovations. The development of antibiotics, from the basic idea to the neighborhood drug store, took 30 years; photography took 56 years, and even the zipper 30 years.

Coming up. Instead of stepping into your bathtub or shower, someday you'll enter a "people washer egg" that bathes, rinses and dries you. For people who sew: you'll soon be able to forget the annoying snags that occur when you use certain fabrics. The ultrasonic machine of the future will weld seams rather than stitch them. And for those with self-doubt, Dr. Rosen forecasts a scientific method for measuring romantic love.

A quote we like. "Genius is one percent inspiration and 99 percent perspiration." Thomas A. Edison.

A Little Test for Husbands And Wives Who Quarrel

True or False? There's nothing difficult about achieving a successful marriage if you just exercise common sense and good judgment in the choice of a mate, are emotionally mature and have a genuine affection for each other. (See No. 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Studies show that the overwhelming majority of husbands and wives quarrel. But whether the spats reach the dish-smashing, door-slamming stage often depends on one single factor in the relationship.

2. The best way to handle spats is to get everything off your chest and let the chips fall where they may. Verbal aggression then becomes a substitute for physical aggression.

3. Marital conflicts and disputes should be settled by either flipping a coin or taking turns letting the other person have his way.

4. There's nothing difficult about achieving a successful marriage if you just exercise common sense and good judgment in the choice of a mate, are emotionally mature and have a genuine affection for each other.

5. Romantic love is a necessary ingredient for a compatible and lasting marriage.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies conducted by a team of behavior specialists at the University of New Hampshire have yielded some interesting findings on this score: The greater the husband's "resources," the less the likelihood of a trying situation provoking him to anything approaching violent conduct. (Resources are defined as "anything one partner may make available to the other, which helps the latter satisfy his needs or attain his goals.") And it was similarly found that the greater the wife's "resources," the less she is likely to respond to a domestic altercation by making it necessary for her husband to dodge a well-aimed piece of flying crockery.

2. False—according to the findings of research sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health. In fact, just the opposite is true. Results of the study "provide no evidence in favor of the presumed beneficial effects of 'leveling,' 'letting it out,' releasing inhibitions and expressing one's anger to another." Quite the contrary, the findings suggest that such "gut-level communication," rather than helping to avert physical aggression, usually leads to more and more violent aggression.

3. False. The National Institute of Mental Health study showed that the formula which worked best with most couples was the rational cerebral or "buttoned up" approach. This included "discussing things calmly, getting information bearing on the issue and perhaps bringing in an outsider to help settle things." It's pointed out that this technique places the emphasis on the intellect —the couple's ability to think and reason —rather than on the emotions.

4. False. Even with those qualifications, it takes some doing. After an in-depth study of the various elements which make a good marriage tick, the investigating committee of Britain's Royal College of Psychiatrists concludes that: "To achieve a successful marital partnership is probably the most difficult of life's social requirements, whether successful is defined biologically as the production of healthy children or in the more human terms of achieving a relationship which allows each partner to lead a satisfying life." A further finding: Unless both marital partners have been carefully taught not to express physical aggression within a domestic setting, some degree of physical assault is very likely to occur at times of special stress.

5. False. It is pointed out that some husbands are more enamored of their wives' cooking than they are with their wives and that some wives find the weekly paycheck the husband brings home more interesting than the husband. Surprisingly enough, studies show that many such couples end up with stronger marriages than those more romantically oriented (and, consequently, more possessive, more jealous).

Get a lot of music. Go a little crazy.

Take any 11

This is the beginning of a fling.

A crazy fling.

A fling filled with music. The music you love most.

More music than you've ever been able to get at once.

Part One of the fling: you go over the list of albums on these 3 pages. And you choose the 11 you want most. Then mail the coupon.

Part Two of the fling: your 11 records or tapes arrive in the mail.

This, of course, is the part where you really go crazy. You can tease yourself and play one a day. Or you can play them all at once in the most incredible concert you've ever had in your room. You can invite good friends over to share the fun. And, of course, you can play them again and again and again.

11 hit albums for $1.00, plus shipping and handling. A crazy idea, perhaps. But it can happen to you as a new member of the Columbia Record & Tape Club.

Make it happen now . . .

Margaux Hemingway:

"I Was Never Trained as a Model, I Was Never Trained As an Actress... And Life Has Been Wonderful to Me"

Star Chat / By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Kathy Fields/Sygma

"I'd never met a character like Dino De Laurentiis. He sat behind this great long desk and said, 'Margaux, I'm-a gonna make-a my first picture in-a Hollywood and I'm-a gonna make-a you a star!'"

There are several reasons why Margaux Hemingway attracts attention. She's the 21-year-old granddaughter of Ernest Hemingway. She's six feet tall. She has been a major cover girl and the star of the movie, "Lipstick," a case study of rape. When she swept into the room at the Beverly Hills Hotel, she was dressed in a nondescript blouse, loose black slacks, wearing no makeup. Her husband—millionaire Errol Wetson—was with her FAMILY WEEKLY: How well did you know your grandfather?

MARGAUX: I was only 5 or 6 when he died. I have just vague memories of him. But I can recall being in Havana when he was there and sleeping under mosquito nets and going to Sun Valley to visit him before he died. All I remember is that he was big and burly. We lived in Cuba for two years, when I was a baby. Now home is in New York.

FW: Do you live on a very tight schedule?

MARGAUX: Right now, yes. But I always make time for relaxing in the sun, exercising, painting —which I do seriously—and I get plenty of sleep, which is the best thing for me.

FW: What about all the sports I'm told you do—like skiing and skeet-shooting?

MARGAUX: I did all that stuff in the mountains, but since I came here to make the film and have been near the ocean for the first time, I'd like to get into underwater sports. It's such fun. I have a whole new interest.

FW: How did you get the starring role in "Lipstick"?

MARGAUX: Well, I was in Sun Valley with Errol when producers Dino De Laurentiis and Freddie Fields called me. I'd been getting a lot of calls after I appeared on the cover of Time. I decided to fly to L.A. to talk with them. I was in their office when director Lamont Johnson came in. We had such a warm, spontaneous feeling toward one another. Shortly after, I was given a screen test.

Margaux and husband Errol Wetson: It's been a fairy-tale romance.

Margaux Hemingway

FW: I understand Dino De Laurentiis promised to make you a star. What was your reaction?

MARGAUX: I'd never met a character like Dino De Laurentiis. He sat behind this great long desk and said, "Margaux, I'm-a gonna make-a my first picture in-a Hollywood, and I'm-a gonna make-a you a star!" I just didn't think people like that existed any more.

FW: If you were a rape victim, would you have acted the way the model in "Lipstick" did?

MARGAUX: I don't know. Probably I would have behaved the same. But I've always said, "Oh, this can never happen to me. I'm big and can take care of myself." But when the emotions come up and you act this sort of thing out, you realize it can happen! It's a shock. When crazed, the man is so much stronger!

FW: Do you think modeling helped prepare you for the film?

MARGAUX: To an extent. I was not trained as a model; it was natural. And I didn't take acting lessons before I made the film, either. The closest I came to being coached were a lot of improvisational games I played with the director.

FW: According to your publicity biography, you were married in Paris last June in a very romantic ceremony, which included white doves and abundant champagne. How did you and Errol meet?

MARGAUX: We were introduced by his mother at the Palm Court restaurant at the Plaza Hotel in New York. It was during my first couple of hours in New York. I was in sort of a nervous sweat, so I went upstairs to shower. Suddenly I got this phone call from my girlfriend Sandy downstairs, and she said, "You're going to have a visitor!" I said, "I don't know anybody in New York," and she told me just to be prepared. I hung up and there was a knock on the door. Errol had come up with champagne and roses—and it's been a fairy tale ever since.

FW: What do you want out of life at this point?

MARGAUX: To be very progressive and to learn as much as I can. I might want children someday, I think, but not right now.

FW: Did you ever rebel against anything?

MARGAUX: I think there was a period when I rebelled against conforming to other people's rules. Like I left high school two weeks before graduation—because I didn't believe in just getting a piece of paper.

FW: So far, your life has apparently been very easy. You've had no emotional problems, no financial problems?

MARGAUX: We weren't a rich family. We were well taken care of, but my two sisters and I weren't brought up to be spoiled brats. No, life has been wonderful to me. If there were any problems, I had a wonderful defense system that blotted them out, and I don't remember them. I only think and strive for the good things.

FW: Did Errol encourage you to try modeling?

MARGAUX: He encouraged me to do something, to progress. And he was so wonderful when I was making the movie. To come home and be together with someone positive was a great help, especially if you are in love.

FW: Looking back, did you enjoy acting?

MARGAUX: There were times when it was so wonderful. When all of a sudden the lenses would just fog away and I'd be absolutely involved. I mean, it's an incredible experience! There were times when it was tough, but I think of the better parts to come. I'm a thoroughly optimistic person, and I did enjoy it.

FW: Do you think it helped in your career to be Ernest Hemingway's granddaughter?

MARGAUX: Of course it did. I would be very selfish and egotistical if I said it was only me, myself and I. It would probably have taken me 10 years longer if it hadn't been for the Hemingway name.

FW: Have you ever tried to write?

MARGAUX: Just a lot of personal prose and poetry—nothing for publication.

FW: What about the future—do you think you'll take acting lessons now?

MARGAUX: It depends. I'll cross that bridge when I come to it.

CURRIER & IVES

GENUINE PORCELAIN BELL IN COPENHAGEN BLUE

EACH BELL TRIMMED IN 22 CARAT GOLD, HALLMARKED, SERIALLY NUMBERED, AND COMES WITH CERTIFICATE

© 1976 American Consumer, Inc.

Here's one of the most exciting offers we've ever made . . . the second in our series of beautiful genuine porcelain bells to be issued by American Treasury! It's the second masterwork in Copenhagen Blue Bells honoring Currier & Ives.

The entire lifelike surface of this lovely bell depicts the Currier & Ives original of "Farmer's Home in Winter". Each limited edition bell is trimmed in 22 carat gold . . . and bears the American Treasury Hallmark number on its inner surface! The handle has a 22 carat "gold band", our exclusive design. Each issue in this rare series will illustrate a different Currier & Ives classic!

Buy-Back Guarantee for 5 Years!

You know your Limited Edition Currier & Ives Bell can't go down in value, for we put in writing that we will buy it back anytime within the next 5 years, and you will receive a certificate guaranteeing this with your bell!

Subscriptions to the first American Treasury porcelain bell honoring Currier & Ives have now closed, and the opportunity to own it is gone forever. Only those who were fortunate enough to order before the cut-off date now have a collector's item. But there's still time to start your own collection with this second bell in the American Treasury series if you act promptly . . . your order must be received by December 31, 1976! All orders received after that date will be returned, since only enough bells to satisfy the orders received before the cut-off date will be manufactured.

Your order qualifies you to collect other bells in the series as they are offered. Your order is for this bell only — you will not receive any others unless you specifically order them. There is a good reason for this — Your bell is not finished, hallmarked, and numbered until your order and payment are received! It is literally made to order for you!

Hurry . . . order yours right now for the unheard-of low price of $9.95 plus $1 postage, insurance, and handling!

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation... indecision... depression... loss of confidence in yourself and others... feelings of unreality... overwhelming obsession with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart... that your identity is dissolving... or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms:

chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and grows worse as the day goes on...

"missed" heartbeats—"racing" heart—palpitations—or sudden sharp pains under the heart...

sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...

"churning" stomach... nausea... choking feeling in the throat... inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head..."ready to jump out of your skin"... strange tricks of vision ...weak spells... insomnia, that goes on night after night...

hand shaking... panic spasms... knots in your chest... dizziness... difficulty in swallowing... vomiting... and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled... And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deteriorated... they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation... and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression... indecision... loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach... palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs... NOT with shock ...NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranquilize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead —leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have read excerpts from the book which appeared in Reader's Digest.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

DR. CLAIRE WEEKES became interested in the problems of nervous illness when she observed in her medical practice that those who suffered most suffered "nervously." Dr. Weekes is Consulting Physician to the Rachel Forster Hospital in Sydney, Australia. She has appeared with Mike Douglas, Arlene Francis, Barry Farber and many other U.S. radio and TV shows.

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from ...how "deeply entrenched" they are... how long you have been plagued by them... how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"!

For example:

The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes... and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again!

Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion ...morning depression... thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!)

Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually came out of their nervous sicknesses as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluble problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success!

The surest and most permanent way to cure obsessions!

How to tap the forces of Nature, every morning, that are just waiting to cure you!

How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward... but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

How to beat insomnia! Again, specific, proven step-by-step instructions! Ten different aids that may have you waking up tomorrow morning as fresh as a baby, with eight full hours of blissful sleep replenishing every cell in your body!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "nerve-crutches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

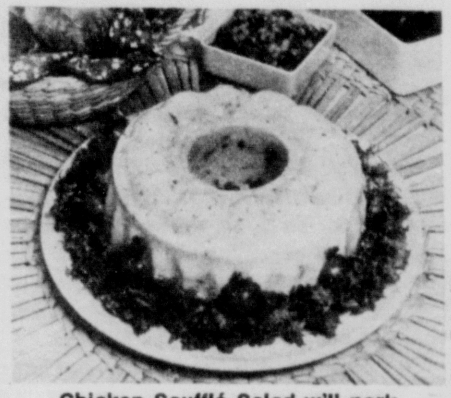
Smart Cooking For Special Occasions

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a delicious, molded chicken salad the basis of a summer supper. "The soufflé salad," says Marilyn, "was created in the 50's. It's generally a hearty main dish salad, and its base always contains gelatin and mayonnaise."

A Cool, Summer Soufflé Salad



Gus Francisco

Chicken Soufflé Salad will perk up lagging summer appetites.

CHICKEN SOUFFLE SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2½ cups pineapple juice
1 tablespoon powdered chicken bouillon
¼ cup boiling water
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
1 cup diced cooked chicken
1 cup chopped celery
½ cup chopped walnuts
¼ cup finely chopped green onion
Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing*

1. In a medium saucepan, sprinkle gelatin over pineapple juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture dissolves.

2. Dissolve bouillon in boiling water. Add to gelatin mixture. Stir in mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt, pepper and ginger; beat with rotary beater.

3. Pour into freezer tray or metal loaf pan. Chill in freezing unit about 20 minutes, or until firm about 1-inch from edge of pan but still soft in center.

4. Turn mixture into large bowl and beat with rotary beater until fluffy.

5. Fold in chicken, celery, walnuts and onion. Turn into a 1½-qt. mold. Chill until firm.

6. Unmold on large serving platter. Garnish with salad greens and cherry tomato halves. Serve with Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing.

Makes 6 servings

★Mayonnaise-Yogurt Dressing:

In small bowl, measure ½ cup mayonnaise. Fold in 1 cup plain yogurt. Chill. Makes 1½ cups.

What's Smart: Besides being good to eat, Chicken Soufflé Salad is reasonable in cost totaling out to about $3.30—or 55 cents a serving.

Fitness is my business

I RECOMMEND BULLWORKER® BECAUSE IT'S FAST, IT'S EASY AND IT REALLY WORKS!

Bob Breton says "I earn my living by keeping top executives in peak physical shape. My clients insist on maximum results with minimum time and effort. I recommend Bullworker because it's fast, it's easy and it really works."

Most men know they're not getting enough exercise to keep their bodies in shape.

Ten years as a fitness coach has taught me one important fact: most men will not stick with a training program long enough for it to do them any good, unless the training is fast, easy and shows results right away.

Bullworker gets a top score on all three counts:

—it's fast: each exercise takes only 7 seconds and the complete workout can be done in about five minutes

—it's easy: any man between 15 and 65 in good general health can perform the full program without getting tired

—you see your results right from the very first day on the built-in Powermeter gauge. After two to three weeks of regular training, most men can expect to measure an extra inch or two of muscle on their shoulders, chest and biceps—and an inch or two less flab around the middle.

And that's just the start: there are specialized exercises for building-up or trimming-down any part of your body you want to. What's more since Bullworker training is progressive, you perform better each time. Yet the training always seems easy since with every workout your strength increases by about 1%—that's an increase of up to 50% in just three months, and I've seen many men go on to double and even triple their strength. For my money, Bullworker is the most advanced home trainer on the market. I use it and recommend it to any man who wants to get back in top shape fast.

YUICHIRO MIURA
He skied down Mt. Everest

Breakfast of champions, Japanese-style: What does the man who skied down Mt. Everest eat for breakfast? Yuichiro Miura starts his day with bean curd soup, brown rice, pickles, seaweed and raw fish. Miura, the only man ever to ski down Mt. Everest, says: "I have always believed that any dream is within reach if you want it badly enough. During the expedition (which was made into an Academy Award-winning documentary) we overcame insurmountable odds, including cave-ins, chilling winds and the loss of six men, all to prove that one can reach any goal with enough effort." Miura's decision to continue the expedition after the death of the six men has been severely criticized, especially in the West; but Miura says, "We don't fear death the way your country does, knowing that we will be rewarded for our good deeds in our next life." Miura has staved off the depression that followed his great achievement by plunging into a new goal. His dream is to alter the Japanese public education system, which he feels is too intense and competitive. "Children attend school every day with little time for play or physical activity. The pressure they feel to excel and get into a university has caused a high rate of suicide among our youth—we have the highest rate in the world. I would like to develop programs that would allow children time to explore their natural surroundings and relate to something other than a book."

Europeans on Watergate: Myra Waldo, queen of travel-book authors who spends most of the year traveling all over the globe, says, "First of all, you must understand that most foreign countries think Americans are decidedly narrow-minded and puritanical, so generally they thought we were making too big a fuss as usual. Many said to me, 'Why won't Americans face up to the fact that corruption is everywhere and accept it?' They thought we invested too much of our time and energy on the trials. But, strangely enough, even in France, where America is none too popular, they marveled at how smoothly we made the transition from one President to the next." Does world traveler Waldo find much evidence of anti-American sentiment in Europe and Asia today? "There will always be an antiforeigner sentiment because foreign means 'different' to most people. But I've found that if I establish a common ground with the natives of a particular country and am never too embarrassed to ask questions—immediately putting myself in the position of a guest and making them the host—good, friendly relations are possible between any two cultures." Any tips for travelers? "1) Don't push too many different places into one trip. 2) Don't always limit yourself to big cities—they're expensive, and if you really want to find out how the people of that country live, you've got to drive through the country. 3) Be adventurous!" One of the latest of Myra Waldo's 50 travel and cookbooks is "Travel and Motoring Guide to Europe 1976" (Macmillan, $8.95).

About this week's "Little Emily": Recently, cartoonist Frank Baginski received this letter at FAMILY WEEKLY:

Dear Mr. Baginski,

I sure love your cartoon, "Little Emily." I save every one of them. Little Emily makes me laugh and cry.

Jeanece

My little 11-year-old girl did the same things little Emily does. But my little girl was killed last year in a bike accident. We miss her so much. But reading your cartoon brings back so much happiness and good memories.

Maybe you can make a cartoon out of this situation: Jeanece's cat had three kittens and for six short weeks she took excellent care of mother and babies. The time came to find the kittens homes and I actually found Jeanece taking applications for people adopting the kittens.

She definitely was the spark of the family. Thank you for listening to me.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Valerie Manney,
Metamora, Mich.

Many thanks—and this week's cartoon is dedicated to you, Mrs. Manney—in memory of your daughter Jeanece.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

THE GAY NON-DIVORCÉ

I'm out-of-date or else a dunce,
For I've been married only once.
When I'm with friends who've had a third
Or even fourth, I feel absurd.

Comparisons I cannot make,
Although to speak I sometimes ache.
I'm inexperienced, naive.
Not one whose views they would believe.

They think of me as childlike, narrow—
I've had no larks, I'm more a sparrow.
"One wife?" they scoff. "That's all you've had of it?"
What they find oddest: I am glad of it.

Asked to write a brief essay on the life of Benjamin Franklin, one little girl wrote this paragraph:

"He was born in Boston, traveled to Philadelphia, met a lady on the street, she laughed at him, he married her and discovered electricity." —Anne Dirkman

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

I was chit-chatting with my 4-year-old granddaughter when she offered the ultimate in Women's Liberation. She said, "You know, Grandma, when I grow up, I'll get married. But I don't know what I will name my husband."

Taste Barrier Broken.

'Enriched Flavor'™ breakthrough ends struggle to bring taste to low tar smoking.

For years, dependency on tar for taste has created a taste barrier for low tar smoking.

Now that barrier has been broken. Broken for good by a remarkable new cigarette called Merit.

Merit is packed with 'Enriched Flavor.' A radical new discovery so successful at boosting flavor, Merit actually delivers the taste of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

Yet Merit has only 9 mg. of tar. One of the lowest tar levels in smoking today.

© Philip Morris Inc. 1976

9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Tests Verify Taste

Merit was taste-tested against current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were involved. The majority report: even if the cigarette tested had up to 60% more tar than Merit, Merit still delivered as much— or more—taste.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough.
